Vet Seeks 'Lost Love'

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I can't go on without her."

That's the way Herbert Winfield, handsome, 24-year-old Negro Korean War veteran feels about a girl he met in a Portland bus depot, then lost before he could tell her he loved her.

Winfield asked first for help in locating the girl in a letter to the Oregon Journal. Then he told a reporter here he just wanted "a chance to tell her how much I love her."

Now a bolt assembler at Republic Steel Corp., Winfield said he was still in the Army and was going to San Luis Obispo to visit a soldier friend when he saw the girl.

"I looked at her and she smiled at me, and right then I knew she was the only one for me," Winfield said. "I think she felt the same way."

They exchanged "hellos" on the bus trip later, but before Winfield could get up his courage to say more, he lost the girl in a crowd in a San Francisco bus depot. Later he went back to Portland but didn't find the girl, about 18, brown haired and 5 feet 2 inches tall.

He said she was wearing a green sweater when he saw her and was with a companion, possibly her mother, who had a bandaged foot.

Winfield, a member of an anti-aircraft battalion in Korea is a boxer and expects to participate in the Golden Gloves tournament here again this year.

TOY BALLOON FLIES 600 MILES

MT. CARMEL, Ill. (AP)—Farmer Adam Berberich says a toy balloon flew 600 miles to his barn lot. He wrote to L. E. Kerbs, Otis, Kans., whose name was on a card with the balloon. He says Kerbs replied that he sent the balloon up in Otis only seven days before it was found. Kerbs is a farm implement dealer.

GOVERNORS GET MILK — Governors Earl Warren of California and Walter Kohler (right) of Wisconsin are served glasses of milk at a cocktail and dinner party in Los Angeles honoring the Wisconsin football team. Serving are Joan Taylor (left), film actress who is Queen of the Southern California Big Ten Club, and Beverly Steffen, who represents the state of Wisconsin as "Alice in Dairyland." Hosts were the Big Ten Club and the Wisconsin Alumni Club of Southern California.

Movie Stars Need Glamor; Bring Back The Old Days

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) — Exclusively Yours: So what's wrong with a blonde in every Hollywood swimming pool?

Hollywood's dignity campaigners blush about the town's escapades, hide 'em in closets and go on yelling about movie stars as normal, folksy people—which they aren't. But because of the nation-wide box-office slump a lot of industry big shots now are cheering for a return to the rip snortin' headline-happy Hollywood of yesterday.

One of them is producer Jules Levy, brave enough to admit:

"Hollywood lost its glamor and when it lost glamor it lost box-office. I believe the public likes to hear about movie stars with 40-room homes, mink-upholstered you - know-whats, $25,000 automobiles and a blonde in every swimming pool."

Them's my sentiments, too.

Unlock those closet doors, kids, and let's start rattling those skeletons.

Ingrid Bergman and Anna Magnani, who haven't spoken to each other since Ingrid replaced the fiery Italian star as No. 1 in Rossellini's life, are about to make up.

June Haver's' saying that her Caribbean cruise is for the sake of her mother, whose health has been under par lately . . . Jean Sablon, the French singer, will star in a South American movie, "Love of My Life." . . . The girly-girly magazines have managed to get still pictures of Hildegarde Neff's' nude likeness in "The Sinner" and are rushing them into print. But the eye-popping scenes have been censored out of the German film for its U. S. showings.

Pug alley is due for a scream when Max Baer pops up as an actor in a TV "iLfe of Riley" film He threatens Bill Bendix and Marjorie Reynolds knocks him cold. Max got a howl in his first scene when the sound man's bell rang for quiet.

"Don't ring that bell," yelped Maxie, throwing a right at the air. "It makes me nervous."

Dark-eyed Jane Greer will free-lance, now that she's 'out of her MGM contract, and continue studies with a vocal coach who has coaxed a dramatic soprano voice out of her with an eye toward musicals.

"Years ago when I sang with a band, I thought my voice was low and sexy," she confessed. "I found it was just low. Now I have volume and when I open at La Scala in two years"—a big wink from Jane—"I want everybody to fly over to Italy to hear me."

Errol Flynn has surrounded himself with three beauties—Gina Lollabrigida, Nadia Grey and Jackie Frost—in "The Teacher of Don Juan." But now even a bit role for Pat Wymore, his wife.

Russell Rouse and Clarence Greene, who made "The Thief," are working on a screenplay about a big-time star who glances at a magazine and sees her double in one of those "Which is the star?" layouts, and sends for the girl to impersonate her.

Roy Rogers, voted "King of the Cowboys" for the 10th consecutive year, thinks Trigger should share in the credit, too. "He's a good 50 per cent of this team—in fact, when I'm being real honest, I give him more than that," Roy quips.

Yvonne de Carlo's next will be "The Scarlet Flame," for Alex Gottlieb.

MGM couldn't find a black leopard in Africa for a scene in the Clark Gable-Ava Gardner co-starrer, "Mogambo." Yep, you guessed it. Two of the beasts were flown in from darkest New York.

Jeff Chandler, who steps out of the radio version of "Our Miss Brooks" next June, is already shopping for another series — but with star billing and a percentage this time.

It's a son for British actress Patricia Roc, who doesn't have to be identified to TV viewers of English movies. Her sister Bobby is married to Hollywood director Seymour Friedman.

Judy Garland's daughter, Liza, played the Virgin Mary in a Christmas pageant presented at the private school she attends. Judy and Director Vincent Minelli, father of the five-and-a-half-year-old Liza, applauded her emoting but refused to sit together. Judy's new hubby missed the performance.

Has anyone called Johnnie Ray's fans sobby-boxers?

New Series of Film Stars Coming Back From Service

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week I had a flashback to the past—interviewing an actor back from military service.

Seven years ago, I was doing a series of stories with a familiar ring. Actors who had been away at war for three or four years. Among those I talked to were Clark Gable, Tyrone Power, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Robert Taylor, James Stewart, William Holden, Victor Mature and Red Skelton.

That was the war to end something or other. But now the same pattern is being repeated by another generation. The first actor back from the new Army is young Richard Long, just returned from two years of service.

Long, who played the romantic interest in the Ma and Pa Kettle series, left a promising career to answer that familiar and unavoidable call from Uncle Sam. During his two-year stretch, he performed in special services in Tokyo as disc jockey and radio actor for programs beamed to the troops. He was a private first class.

Did his movies follow him around?

"Yes," he replied, "and I always got a peculiar reaction from other soldiers. They'd say, 'Hey Long, I saw you in the movie last night.' And that's all they'd say. No comment or anything."

The ex-soldier admitted that being an actor had its disadvantages in the service. He mentioned that on one occasion in basic training he was assigned to watch the other soldiers go over a barrier on the obstacle course.

About every third man would say, "You're Long, the actor, aren't you?" When he admitted his identity, they'd say, 'Well I won't go over it unless you do.' Long had to clamber over the obstacle dozens of times.

He thinks his service in the Army helped him acquire a real insight into the world's toughest movie audience—GI's.

"I suppose they are the rudest audience possible," he remarked. "If they don't like a picture, they express themselves in no uncertain terms. On the other hand, if they do go for a picture, their attention is complete. Generally, they like musicals, Westerns and other action pictures. They seldom like any kind ... guess that's ... ences today."

Strange Mishaps Plague Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Richmond suffered some weird injuries in the first hours of 1953.

Here were the causes of some mishaps, as listed at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital:

"Hit mirror at home with fist."

"Struck in head with Christmas tree."

"Boy friend hit patient on head with stick."

"Brother dropped lumber on head."

And finally:

"Hit in eye with bale of hay."

OUTSMARTING THE MOUSE

LESTER, Ia. (AP)—Ever have a mouse steal the cheese out of the trap? Waldo Denker says you can avoid that feeling that the mouse is smarter than you are this way. Fasten the cheese to the trap with a piece of transparent tape, leaving the ends open. Then the mouse can't pull the bait free before the trap springs.

Spring Is Here!

We can PROVE it . . . not by the robins in the old apple tree, not by the field mice flitting across the hard-packed snow, not by the calendar on the wall, not by the fresh-as-the-first-spring-breeze upon a jonquil petal but by the NEW SPRING FROCKS, the very FIRST at TOWN SHOP, and we can PROVE it . . .

Found those incomparable DOROTHY HUBBS, in that satisfactory, durable, smart, casual, cotton lace frocks, several light Spring colors, some button down the front . . . at TOWN SHOP.

Paper-crisp TAFFETAS in the most DELECTABLE prints skittering across light and dark backgrounds, combined, believe it or not, with sheer soft wool crepe . . . high-styled lovely NYLON PRINTS, not the stiff uncomfortable ones of yester-year at EXTRAVAGANT prices, but by really WANTABLE darlings at the most REASONABLE prices . . .

Look for stunning METALLIC-SHOT faille . . . a quaint SHEPHERD check in black and white with saucy, siren RED buttons, the swooshing skirt LINED with matching red taffeta . . . so swirl away ladies . . . swirl away . . . in a frock from TOWN SHOP.

Waists are WANDERING . . . NEW . . . the Empress Eugenie and the Empire, high under the bustline, moulded with folds . . . METALS have gone EVERYWHERE, on silks, cottons, wools and nylons, intriguing flash for feminine fanciers.

Found ONE and TWO piece frocks, lovely to look at, lovlier to wear . . . at TOWN SHOP . . . little jacket BOLEROS, scooped necklines, high necklines, in the SEASON'S prettiest COLORS . . .
