CHICAGO (AP) — Hog prices tumbled 25 to 75 cents a hundred pounds from last year's closing levels Friday.

The largest Friday run of salable hogs on record battered prices back to where they were two weeks ago.

Cattle were mostly fully steady but sheep failed to establish trading in face of higher asking prices.

An estimated 20,000 hogs came to market, the most for a Friday in 15 years during which the Department of Agriculture has kept track of the salable supply separately from direct receipts by packing houses.

Most butcher weights sold from $16.00 to $18.50 and sows from $13.75 to $15.50.

Choice to low-prime steers and yearlings sold from $28.00 to $34.00 and good and choice heifers from $22.50 to $29.00.

Goode is serving out a total of 180 days imposed earlier this week when he pleaded guilty to two charges of driving while intoxicated.

He had been identified through fingerprints as wanted at San Angelo (Tom Green County) for a felony. But today the sheriff received word from Texas authorities that the charge of drawing worthless checks had been dismissed.

Rules Fight

new rule to offer to replace the present rule requiring the votes of 64 senators, two-thirds of the entire membership, to shut off a filibuster.

He suggested that the new rule might provide for halting debate by the votes of 49 senators, a majority of the members, after 10 or 14 days of debate.

Humphrey said he expected about 30 senators to attend the meeting. At a session earlier in the week 14 senators were present or represented, including two Republicans—Senators Ives (NY) and Duff (Pa).

After that meeting Humphrey and Senators Lehman (D, Lib-NY) and Douglas (D-Ill) said they definitely would launch a fight on the opening day of the Senate to change the rules.

Their plan might snarl the start of the session, but Humphrey said the intent was not to offer the rules motion until after new senators had been sworn in.

He also said he would be agreeable to having other routine organizing preliminaries disposed of first—and even have the rules issue put over until Monday—if there were an understanding this would not prejudice the group's position.

The whole matter could be disposed of quickly if Vice President Barkley, the Senate's presiding officer, ruled that the motion to adopt new rules was out of order and an appeal from such a ruling were tabled.

Wilson Case

presents a piece of genuine evidence.

"It is Utah himself who testified, and continues to assert, that he was with Turman at all times on the night the crime was committed.

"It is Utah's alibi, as well as Turman's, which was thoroughly discredited."

Langlie accused the Wilson brothers of lying in connection with the Jo Ann Dewey case and their prior "extensive" criminal record.

Concluding, the chief executive said:

"The Wilson brothers now stand convicted of murder. They are no longer entitled to the presumption of innocence.

"In fact, the presumption now is that they are guilty.

"Neither of them has done anything to overcome that presumption.

CONTRARY

"On the contrary, they have, as the committee found, impeded the investigation by their persistent refusal to tell the truth regarding their movements on the night in question.

"It is my considered opinion that Turman and Utah Wilson are not entitled to clemency or a further stay, and that the judgement entered pursuant to the jury's verdict should now be permitted to take effect."

The three-man committee of lawyers who conducted the investigation of the case for the governor consisted of Harlan S. Don Carlos of Hartford, Conn.; Henry Franklin of Peterborough, N. H., and Erle Stanley Gardner of Temecula, Calif.

The Wilson brothers, who have had their dates with death postponed more times than any other condemned men in state history, were convicted in June of 1950 on both counts of first degree murder and kidnaping.

The Clark County jury, out for just seven hours, stipulated the death penalty.

The verdict climaxed a 15-day trial in which the state said the brothers grabbed Miss Dewey from a Vancouver street the night of March 19, 1950, and carried her off in an automobile.

A week's intensive search followed before her body, nude and violated sexually, was found in the Wind river east of Vancouver.

She had died of carbon monoxide poisoning, possibly from car exhaust fumes.

The brothers maintained throughout the trial and ever since that they were in a Portland theater at the time the girl was abducted.

The state supreme court upheld their conviction and their first execution date was set by Clark County Judge Eugene G. Cushing for Aug. 20, 1951.

The judge set four more execution dates as the brothers obtained stays of execution, once from Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, once from Federal Judge William Healy of the San Francisco Circuit Court of Appeals, once from Federal Judge Albert Lee Stephens of the same federal court, and once from Governor Langlie to let a three-man committee of attorneys investigate the case.

BLY—The Rev. Archie Mitchell, lone survivor of the Jap bomb explosion at Bly, May 5, 1945, has just returned to Bly for the New Year from his work as missionary at Dalat, Indochina, where he has been stationed for the past five years. Rev. Mitchell, his wife and two small daughters, both born in Indochina, have received a one-year furlough which they will spend in the U.S. after which they plan to return to Indochina providing the communists have been kept from making advances in that area and the government will be able to allow their return.

The Rev. Mitchell and his wife, Betty, have charge of the school for missionaries children. These 30 children range in age from six to 18 years. The Mitchells also work with Vietnamese and tribespeople. They speak both French and the Vietnamese language.

The family left Indochina Oct. 18 by plane for Paris, France, stopping off at Bangkok, Siam; Rangoon, Burma; Calcutta, India; Karachi, Pakistan; Palestine, Tunis, Algeria; from Paris, a trip through Switzerland, on to London, England and then by boat to New York arriving Nov. 20, 1952.
