

Hollywood Stars Top Jokesters List

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood's 1952 howls: Marilyn Monroe, television, inflation and Johnnie Ray jokes dominated Hollywood's 1952 Laugh Parade. Marilyn was a subject the comedians just couldn't resist for obvious reasons.

There was the RKO publicity man who walked down one of the studio streets with Marilyn and later was asked: "Hey, who was that girl with you who was walking so horizontally?"

And it was Jack Benny who said: "Marilyn reminds me of a telephone switchboard. When she walks all her lines are busy."

Marilyn got in a few fast lines herself. Like when she went to the hospital for an appendectomy and pinned a note on her nightgown addressed to her three doctors. It read: "Please only take what you have to."

Joseph Cotton, in the movie "Niagara," told about his first meeting with Marilyn: "What an eye-ful," he enthused. "She was wearing a dress cut so low in front you could see her kneecaps."

There were as many TV jokes as TV aerials in Hollywood. A couple pointed out Red Skelton walking along a Beverly Hills street to their video-minded four-year-old. "Gosh, he's real," the half-pint exclaimed. "I thought he was a puppet."

A movie queen suggested to her agent that he try to get her husband on the "What's My Line" show in which experts guess at the professions of contestants. "They'll never guess," she snarled. "That he does nothing."

Then there was this definition of a baby-sitter: "Someone you pay by the hour to watch television."

Fred Allen warned an aging western star, brought back by TV, not to make another picture "or the Indians'll get you."

The summer season came to TV and video alley laughed at: "He looks like a summer replacement for a test pattern."

A movie star's tor turned down an invitation to spend the night at another child's house with: "I have to stay at home and see an old movie on television. Mama's third husband is in it."

On the inflation subject was the housewives' lament: "Too much money left over after the end of the month."

This sign appeared in a Beverly Hills meat market: "Please Don't Ask Prices. Let's Remain Friends."

At the Mocambo somebody said: "Money doesn't talk these days—it goes without saying."

It was Bob Hope who noticed the first sign of spring in Hollywood — "those little green things started poking their heads out of Bing Crosby's wallet."

People refused to believe that dollar bills carry germs on the theory that a germ couldn't live on a dollar bill today.

Johnnie Ray cried and people laughed at: "Latest theater marquee which read: "Latest Flood Pictures — Also Johnnie Ray."

A bobby-soxer walked into a music store and asked for some Ray records. The clerk beamed and said: "A quart or a gallon?"

And these lines competed with Marilyn Monroe's lines: "The best way for her to keep her youth is not to introduce him to anybody."

"Clothes can make a girl into a social success if they allow her to be seen in the best places."

Science-fiction movies hit the box office jackpot in 1952 and a writer went to a movie producer with this novel idea: "It's a romance. Boy meets girl. Boy loses girl. Boy builds girl."

Mediators Fail in Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal mediators failed early today to bring about a settlement in a strike of AFL dock specialists, but their efforts brought some relaxation of picketing tactics which had threatened a major East Coast shipping slump.

The mediators, after an eight-hour marathon session which started yesterday, said the union agreed to go back to work pending arbitration of the wage and contract dispute but that the employers rejected arbitration.

The IILA leaders asked the businessmen pay the same rates their employers normally charged and said that this money would go into a special strike fund.

The union leaders also said there would be no more picketing of piers, with a few exceptions, unless there were indications that unauthorized persons were weighing and sampling bulk cargo.

The 500 strikers quit work Friday and promptly set up picket lines that generally were respected by other longshoremen. The result was a work stoppage on some 60 of 143 active piers here. Cargo handling was affected to a lesser extent at Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Hoboken, N. J., and Yonkers, N. Y.

Weekends usually are quiet in the ports, and there was no picketing yesterday or Saturday.

Exceptions to the union's no picketing decision for today were in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Savannah.

The union had asked for an unspecified wage boost, reduced from an original demand of a 42-cent-an-hour package increase. Federal mediators said the employers are standing on an offer of a 25-cent-an-hour package. Current wages range from $1.87 to $2.20 an hour.

Involvement are three small local-weights, samplers and scalesmen — of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association. The employers are represented by the American Weighmasters Association.

Union officials, after the mediation session broke up, issued a statement of their own saying they would work for any businessman who could use their services without going through their employers. The strikers referred to their employers as "middlemen."

Bright Shirt Saves Life

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A bright shirt saved 6-year-old Jimmy DePalmer's life.

Jimmy and Roger Green, 8, were fishing from a canal bank yesterday when Jimmy fell in. He sank. Roger ran, shouting for help.

W. E. Finn, who lives nearby, said: "I heard the boy yelling, and I thought he said something about a dog falling in the canal. Knew dogs could swim but I walked over anyway."

"I looked into the water and caught a glimpse of what looked like a brightly colored shirt about 10 feet under water."

Finn jumped into the canal and pulled the unconscious Jimmy out. He was revived by artificial respiration.

Maid Heard in Smith Trial

BY WILLIAM C. BARNARD
TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese maid testified today that Dorothy Krueger Smith brandished a kitchen knife over her dying husband and cried: "I'm so glad I did it!"

Mrs. Smith, daughter of retired Gen. Walter Krueger of World War II fame, is being tried by a U. S. Army court martial on a charge of murdering Col. Aubrey Smith in their Tokyo home the night of Oct. 3.

The maid, Shigeo Tani, 28, testified she watched a foot-long hunting knife from Mrs. Smith and hid it in a downstairs living room. She said Smith was stabbed with the hunting knife.

Miss Tani, speaking in Japanese, told the nine-member American court:

She ran back to the Smiths' bedroom and found Mrs. Smith holding a small kitchen knife over the bleeding colonel in his bed.

Mrs. Smith had the knife in her right hand and the colonel was holding Mrs. Smith's right wrist.

Mrs. Smith wept frequently at today's opening session. Twice she broke down in wracking sobs. She is 40 and the mother of two.

She almost collapsed when she caught a glimpse of a grotesque, after-death photograph of the colonel which the prosecution offered in evidence. At that time she sobbed:

"Oh, no! — it couldn't be. They wouldn't do that! Oh, help!"

The courtroom was cleared for five minutes until she could regain her composure.

Her attorney, Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie of New York City, gave her smelling salts.

Mrs. Smith shuddered when a wicked-looking hunting knife was introduced. Her eyes filled with tears when a 17-year-old boy, son of a major and friend of the Smith family, testified. He said he heard Mrs. Smith tell her husband, two weeks before the slaying, "Some day I'm going to kill you."

The maid testified she found the hunting knife and gave it to Mrs. Smith two days before colonel Smith was stabbed.

Miss Tani, a cool and composed witness, said Smith, 45-year-old chief of the plans and operations division of the logistics section of U. S. Far East headquarters, told her he had been stabbed by his wife.

Just before the trial recessed for the day, the maid testified Mrs. Smith drank heavily.

Levie lost an initial attempt to have the case dismissed on ground that the Army court did not have jurisdiction. He contended jurisdiction lay with the Japanese courts. His motion was overruled.
