Grains

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — A brisk rally developed in grains toward the close Wednesday after a session of erratic, nervous price swings.

The rally was led by wheat, in which there appeared to be moderate buying from flour mills. Soybeans lagged, although reducing losses which at one time ran to more than 3 cents, July and September soybeans sold at new seasonal lows.

Throughout the day the market saw a tug of war between wheat, which wanted to go up, and soybeans, which wanted to go down.

Grain men viewed the rally in wheat and feed grains as partly technical, representing a let-up in liquidation.

Wheat closed 1 ⅝-2 ¼ higher, March $2.31 ¼-⅛, corn 1 to 1 ¾ higher, March $1.64 ⅜, oats 1 to 1 ½ higher, March 80-79 ¾, rye 1 to 3 ¼ higher, March $1.79 ½, soybeans 1 ¼ lower to ¼ higher, January $2.92 ½, and lard unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower, January $9.47.

Tribal Delegates to D.C. Have Full Docket of Work

By HALE SCARBROUGH

The Klamath Indian tribe's two delegates to Washington, D. C., Boyd Jackson and Wade Crawford, should be kept busy the next few months.

A lengthy list of things for them to work at was drawn up yesterday by the tribe's Executive Committee.

The list includes:

Reviving old legislation regarding amendments to the Loan Board and per diem acts, transfer of law and order jurisdiction from the federal government to the state, voluntary withdrawal of persons from the tribe, conservation of fish and wildlife, relief to the Indian cattle industry and repeal of liquor prohibition.

New legislation or action toward closing the tribal roll in 1959; transfer of supervision of the Indians from the federal government to the state; a solution of tangled heirship lands problems, withdrawal of the Klamath tribe from the orbit of the Portland area office of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and centralization of authority and responsibility at Klamath Agency, along with handling of tribal money; removal of tribal funds from the regulations of Civil Service, irrigation and reclamation projects; removal of sale or disposal restrictions on allotted timber holdings; and protection and development of the tribe's mineral holdings.

The delegates also will seek to get $75,000 of the tribe's money turned loose for the medical and hospital bills for members of the tribe for the next year, and $2,000 additional to allow for some exploratory and research work concerning titanium deposits found on the reservation.

Another instruction issued by the Executive Committee was that the tribe's long-standing suit against the California Oregon Power Company regarding the stopping of salmon runs up the Klamath River to Upper Klamath Lake and tributary rivers to be pressed in court.

The heirship lands problem occupied much of the discussion relative to instructions for Jackson and Crawford. Many Indians have allotted lands on the reservation, but the state's estate laws don't apply and as the owners die off, ownership of the lands becomes more and more complicated.

Some pieces of land on the reservation have as many as 40 and 50 Indians owners, and at present it is very difficult to get such lands into one ownership or a situation where anyone is interested in working or developing the land.

Crawford and Jackson will go to Washington this weekend, Crawford traveling by train and Jackson driving, and they probably will stay through the entire session of Congress.

Youth Out 448 Hours

Eighteen - year - old Gary Hansen had been unconscious or in a light coma at Klamath Valley Hospital for 448 hours at noon today.

The Yakima, Wash., boy was seriously hurt in an auto accident Dec. 19 on U.S. 97 above Collier Park. His skull was fractured and he received a severe concussion.

Hansen has been reported improving, gaining strength, but for the past several days hospital attendants have said they can see very little change in his condition.

Two other Washington boys hurt in the same accident also remain in Klamath Valley Hospital. They are Delno Dean Hays, 18, of Yakima, and Ernie Mills, 17, of Tacoma, both having leg injuries.

Chest Offices Change Location

The Klamath County Community Chest offices have been moved to the Melhase Building, above the Chamber of Commerce on Main Street, Pres. Bud Franklin has announced.

Donations to the Chest may be made there in room 4, or may be mailed to postoffice box 839. Pledge may be made by phoning 6096, or donations will be picked up if donors will phone that number.

Tule Growers Association Aids Fa[rmers]

TULELAKE — The Tulelake Growers Association has undertaken its annual drive to gain approval of its year's assessment plan and program under the direction of Pres. Charles Wiese.

Directors of the association began this week to obtain signatures on agreements. A total of 75 per cent of the growers in this area are needed to sign the agreements before an assessment can be made.

The amount of the assessment has not been announced yet.

The Tulelake Growers Association has been in operation for more than 10 years. It was formed in 1942 when members of the Potato Growers and Beet Growers Associations united to form one strong organization—a voluntary, non-profit group. Acute labor shortages, inability for disorganized growers to speak as one unit when necessary, and the absence of a coordinating agency led to the TOA's formation.

Members of the association point out it does not operate by propaganda, ballyhoo and fanfare, but quietly serves in many ways unfamiliar to the general public and newer members of the community.

Perhaps one of the TOA's outstanding achievements was its success in obtaining a 10-cent per 100-pound increase on potato price ceilings as set by the OPA in 1943. The increase, it has been figured, netted growers here some $280,000 that year, and during the life of the OPA it netted local growers probably $1,000,000 (M) in extra money. No other area in the Pacific Northwest received an increase in OPA ceilings during that period, officials note.

The Interstate Commerce Commission on Aug. 5, 1950, ordered reduction by as much as $1.60 per ton, freight charges on baled hay and straw shipped from here to points on the Oregon coast. This order was obtained by the TOA, and since this area produced 19,145 tons of hay during the past season alone it is felt here that the saving has been great.

Other accomplishments listed by the association include obtaining permission from the Federal Housing Authority in 1943 to build 38 houses here to alleviate a housing shortage; established an experimental farm at Tulelake, aided in co-ordinating Oregon and California inspection services and on certification of all crops arising from that program.

Vallier Cafe Changes Hands

S. R. (Ralph) Clough, operator of the Hilltop Cafe, just north of Greensprings Drive, has announced purchase of the Vallier Cafe and diner property adjacent to the Southern Pacific depot here.

Clough said today he has closed the small diner and that the cafe would now be operated 24 hours daily, seven days a week.

He will continue to operate both Vallier's and the Hilltop Cafe.

Clough said the Vallier transaction amounted to more than $35,000.

Man Held On Check Charge

Joe Vincze, 37, of 2217 Gettle, was arraigned in District Court this morning on a felony charge of drawing a bank check with insufficient funds to cover, and asked for time to consult an attorney.

He was lodged in the County Jail and arrangements were being made to raise $1,000 bail.

Vincze was arrested this morning by Deputy Sheriff Dal Reed.

The check listed in the charge was given to W. H. Elliott, drawn on a Klamath Diesel account in the Butte Valley State Bank, Dorris, for $260 on Jan. 3.

Indian Tribe Vote Slated

A special election on the Klamath Indian reservation has been called for Friday, Jan. 16, to elect a successor to Tony Unive on the tribal executive committee.

Unive, who is attending college at Portland, has resigned.

Candidates for the office, nominated by other members of the executive committee, are Wernie Foster, Tommy Decker, Vincent Bodner Jr., Sammy Godowa and Frank Summers.

The man elected will serve until July 1, 1954.

Polling places will be set up at Chiloquin, Sprague River and Williamson River.

Merrill Lions Study Money

MERRILL—Disposition of Potato Festival funds was discussed at a meeting of the Merrill Lions Club, following the regular dinner meeting Monday evening.

The IOOF needs financial assistance in sponsoring the annual community Christmas party, and the deficit incurred this year will be made up from festival funds. $200 of festival funds will be set aside each year for the party, $100 will be earmarked for an emergency welfare fund, and $250 was voted for the athletic field.

During the regular club meeting plans for selecting the "citizen of the year" were discussed. The award will be presented at a dinner party Feb. 14. Also discussed was the appointing of a committee to study formation of a Potato Festival Association.

Places were set for 22, including three guests, W. A. Wolfram, Milton Loper and Ted Van.
