Six-foot 8-inch Bob Houbregs and his University of Washington teammates are emerging as the lads most likely to succeed in the Pacific Coast Conference's basketball pennant chase.

Of the nine conference schools, only the Washington Huskies now have an unblemished record in league play.

And in their latest outing, against Idaho, Washington scored an emphatic 82-58 victory, as "Hocks" Houbregs set a new PCC individual scoring mark with 49 points.

Next Friday and Saturday the Huskies play host to Oregon State, now third in the conference's Northern Division standings. And Idaho entertains Oregon, which made it two in a row over tail-end Washington State Saturday by a score of 75-61.

TRAGEDY

Tragedy, in the shape of the re-shuffled UCLA Bruins, struck hitherto unbeaten Southern California Saturday night. After winning their first 11 games this season, including a 65-54 victory over UCLA Friday night, the Trojans turned the tables and lost, 72-62.

However, because Stanford upset California 76-60 Saturday, Troy remains tied with Cal — three wins and one loss — for the Southern Division leadership.

Coach Slats Gill, whose Oregon State Beavers will try to stop Houbregs and the Huskies next weekend at Seattle, scouted the Washington-Idaho series. Gill described Houbregs as the best post man he has seen in 25 years of coaching college basketball.

"He drove underneath and around and he made them from the corners," Gill said.

BREAKS RECORDS

Houbregs' 49 points broke three records — the conference individual scoring mark, the all-time Northwest high (47) and the Hec Edmundson Pavilion mark (43.)

Jack Nichols set the old PCC mark of 39 points playing for Washington against Idaho in 1948. The other records were set by Johnny O'Brien of Seattle University.

Houbregs shot only 31 times to score his 19 field goals. He put Washington out in front with a layup which broke a 3-all tie in the early minutes and the Huskies were never headed. They led 37-25 at the half.

LITTLE TROUBLE

Oregon had little trouble taming the Washington State Cougars at Eugene. The Cougars played on even terms for the first period but Oregon pulled ahead in the second quarter and went on to make it two straight over the visitors.

The Ducks were ahead 28-25 at the half and 59-42 at the three quarter mark. Oregon stretched the lead to 25 points with four minutes remaining in the game but WSC staged a last-ditch rally to narrow the margin.

Oregon's Chet Noe led the scoring with 21 points.

Nationals Win Pro Grid Tilt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The football season is definitely over—except for the matter of draft choices to be made at the annual National Football League meeting next week in Philadelphia.

This is the latest concern of Buddy Parker, who coached the Nats to a 27-7 Pro Bowl cictory in Memorial Coliseum Saturday against an American Conference all-star outfit, and Paul Brown, who tutored the latter group.

Some 62 pro football stars headed for their homes, the winners richer by $600 apiece and the losers by $500.

VALUABLE

Don Doll of Detroit was voted by sportswriters as the most valuable player in the Pro Bowl game. He was awarded the George Halas Trophy.

Another standout was Norman Van Brocklin of the Rams, who tossed two touchdown passes, one good for 74 yards. Rookie end Bill Howton of Green Bay was on the receiving end of the long one.

FIRST SCORE

The Nationals' first score came on a 12-yard pass from fullback Dan Towler of the Rams to halfback Hugh McElhenny of the San Francisco 49ers. Fullback Pat Harder, Detroit, added three extra points and kicked two field goals to help the Nationals along. A crowd of 34,208 saw the show.

It wasn't until the final period that Otto Graham was able to steer his American teammates to a touchdown. The 82-yard drive was the longest of the game. Graham rammed across for the final yard.

Fish Season Opens May 2

PORTLAND (AP) Oregon's tentative sports fishing regulations for the coming year are just about the same as those for last year, the State Game Commission reported Saturday.

Final regulations are to be announced later this month, probably after a commission meeting Jan.23.

The season will open May 2 in Oregon, except for coastal regions, the Willamette Basin, and the Cascade Lakes. It will close Oct. 11.

The coast and Willamette Basin will open April 18. The Cascade Lakes will open May 30 and close Sept. 30.

The bag limit remains at 10 trout a day or 20 in possession. Five of the daily catch can be more than 12 inches long.

Kenneth G. Denman, Medford, was elected commission chairman.

FIRST DOWN — Jack Moore, six-foot-five LaSalle center, sits on top of Jim Lamkin to wind up with the basketball at Madison Square Garden. The DePaul star got up to help his Chicago mates edge the Philadelphians, 63-61, and snap a nine-game streak which made them nation's No. 1 team.

Frosh Whip Jayvees

The University of Oregon Freshmen turned on the heat in the final six minutes of a Saturday night game with the Oregon Tech Jayvees at Eugene to win going away 70 to 55.

OTI's juniors stayed within 5 points of the Ducklings until midway in the last period. The Owlie BABES then shifted to a man-to-man defense in an attempt to gain possession of the ball, and the U of O yearlings quickly solved the defensive change and racked up a commanding lead.

Mangrum Cops Bing's Meet

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Slim, trim Lloyd Mangrum, his pockets jingling with a load of fresh dollars, marked up the Bing Crosby 54-hole golf tournament as a personal victory and headed today for new fields to conquer.

The steel-nerved man with the mustache led a powerful array of pros at the finish of the 54-hole pro-amateur event staged annually for charity. His 204, compiled with rounds of 67-66-71, broke his own record of 205 set in 1948.

Mangrum won $2,000. Aided by his amateur partner Mil Wershow of Los Angeles, he picked up an additional $50 for a sixth place tie in the pro-amateur competition. A week ago the Texas-born sharpshooter bagged first-place money of $2,750 in the Los Angeles Open. His earnings for 1953 in two tournaments total $4,800.

Next stop on the circuit is San Diego this week end.

Present National Champion Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., finished second in the pro division with rounds of 69-67-72-208, worth $1,250. Lawson Little, a resident here and former U. S. Open winner, took third money of $1,000 with scores of 70-70-69-209.

Pelicans, Grizzlies In Split

A couple of first-year men and a veteran waxed hot for the Pelicans Saturday night to give the Klamath five a split with Ashland in the Dist. 4 opening series.

Jim Dougherty and Larry Yarnell each collected 12 points for the Pels, lettermen Jack Horton threw in 14 to lead the Pels in a 67-56 victory.

Ashland won Friday night, 51-46.

Ashland guard Bob Myrick threw in 17 and center Greg Lininger added 15 for the Ashland five.

The Pels jumped to a 24-19 first-quarter lead, stayed ahead 40-32 at the half and put the game on ice in the third quarter with 14 points to head into the last quarter with a 54-41 lead.

Klamath Falls employed the full-court press most of the time and it had the Grizzlies frustrated.

The Pels drill this week for the invasion of Grants Pass in a Friday-Saturday series.

Ten College's in Dutch, Await Action of NCAA's Police Force

By WILL GRIMSLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Somewhere in the United States today there are 10 institutions of higher learning nervously waiting for the fist to fall from college athletics' new police force.

Who the "Unholy ten" are remains a well-kept secret but they themselves are aware of a couple of uncomfortable facts:

1. They are in "hot water" because of questionable athletic policies. The National Collegiate Athletic Association says so.

2. If found guilty, they face quick and probably stern punishment, with no immediate recourse, as in other years, to the NCAA membership.

BIG-TIME

While the 10 schools have not been identified, they are reported to include some big-time universities—a Big Ten member, a strong Eastern independent and an old Southern power.

They serve as test cases of the new enforcement arm of the NCAA, legislated at the closing meeting of the NCAA convention here Saturday.

Their cases are termed "serious" by the immediate past president of the body, Hugh C. Willett. The charges of misconduct are being reviewed by the NCAA Membership Committee. The cases go to the powerful 17-man council with recommendations. Then the council acts.

SIGNIFICANT

In the most significant legislation of the 47th annual meeting of college athletic leaders, the council was equipped with the power to punish on the spot—that is, short of suspension or expulsion.

If a Big Ten school is found guilty of flagrant rules violations, for example, that school could be placed on probation, have its schedule pulled from under it or treated to some other disciplinary action.

This year Kentucky, long a national cage power, was made to sit out the basketball season and Bradley, another former national chapion, was forced to miss the NCAA Tournament because of their roles in the basketball scandals. A Midwestern university was reprimanded for rules violations.

In these cases the council merely recommended punishment and the three institutions involved took their medicine voluntarily, although convention action was necessary to make it stick.

Henceforth, convention action won't be needed. The council can crack down—short of suspension or expulsion—and leave it up to the convention later to review the action. This was the new enforcement power given the NCAA's police arm.

A convicted school still may appeal to the convention and it's possible the NCAA's enforcement a powerful member chooses to fight. Four years ago seven schools won a fight against suspension during the "Sanity Code" era and, for a while, had the NCAA reeling. But the NCAA bounced back.

MAUREEN CONNOLLY

AP Honors 'Little Mo'

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — "I am very thrilled, gee, that's great news—thanks very much," Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly said Monday when advised that she had been voted the female "Athlete of the Year" in the annual Associated Press poll.

It was the second straight year the 18-year-old tennis champion from San Diego, Calif., had been voted the honors in a nation-wide poll of sports writers and sportscasters in the U. S.

Pat McCormick, diving star of Los Angeles and channel swimmer Florence Chadwick of San Diego, finished second and third in the poll.

Miss Connolly had 109 first place votes and 384 points, compared with 82 points for Mrs. McCormick and 58 for Miss Chadwick.

Babe Zaharias, a leading professional golfer and five times winner of the Athlete of the Year honor originated in 1931, was fourth, followed by Marion Ladewig, four times winner of the women's all-star bowling championship; Andrea Meade Lawrence, who won two gold medals in skiing at the Oslo Winter Olympics; Betsy Rawls, leading woman money-winning golfer of 1952; Patty Berg and Louise Suggs, also golf stars; and Marjorie Jackson, Australian girl who won the Olympics 100 and 200 meter dashes, and set a world record last year of 10.4 in the 100-yard dash.

Few Pigskin Changes Seen

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association started its annual conference Monday, with prospects of making few if any important changes in the present regulations.

Most of the 11 members seemed satisfied with the way college football was played last season.

An advisory committee of college coaches headed by Columbia's Lou Little has submitted a number of proposals, including one intended to discourage the so-called "sucker shift," a maneuver to draw the enemy offside.

The coaches asked the Rules Committee to make it illegal for a lineman to change position after assuming his stance in the line with one or both hands on the ground.

The coaches also are recommending that T quarterbacks be made eligible to receive a forward pass after handling the ball from center and that the old fair catch signal — one outstretched arm — be restored. The receiver now is required to wave both arms.

No changes have been proposed in the present two-platoon system.

Middleweight Boxing Tourney Plans Jell

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—New York state and the National Boxing Association, working arm in arm in a new era of co-operation, today will set up a nationally recognized tournament to determine an "American" middleweight champion.

The NBA announced its recomendations yesterday for a five-man tournament with the survivor meeting the winner of a European title bout between Randy Turpin and Charles Humes for the world championship.

Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, said he agreed substantially with the NBA list but wanted to be sure no worthy candidate is overlooked.

DETAILS

Christenberry meets today with George Barton, NBA president; Commissioner Abe Greene and John Ox Da Grosa to iron out the final details.

The NBA plans calls for four bouts involving Carl Bobo Olson of Honolulu, Norman Hayes of Boston, Rocky Castellani of Luzerne, Pa., Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N. J., and Pierre Langlois of France.

Langlois, a Parisian, was included in the "American" tournament because he already has been matched with Castellani at Madison Square Garden Feb. 6.

SUPERSEDE

"If Langlois should beat Castellani he would have to supersede him in the rankings," explained Commissioner Greene.

Two of the four matches already have been announced. Olson fights Hayes at Boston Feb. 7, the day after the Castellani - Langlois match. After the opening matches, the winner of the Castellani-Langlois bout will meet Durando with the survivor facing the Olson-Hayes victor.

The NBA said it would recognize any Turpin-Hayes bout only as a European title match and would not crown any world champion until the American and European champs met. It will allow only a "reasonable" period between matches before forcing action.

ACTION

There was action in the heavyweight division where Da Grosa of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission was asked to produce a contract calling for a return bout between Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott within 90 days of their Sept. 23 fight.

Marciano and Walcott will be asked to clarify their plans for going through with their rematch which promoter Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club hopes to stage at Chicago, April 10.

Boston will get a 15-round "junior" lightweight championship match between Lauro Salas, ex-lightweight king, and Tom Collins of Boston, probably in February. The NBA decided to revive temporarily the old "junior" title idea pending a review of suggested changes in weight classifications.

TELEVISION

Attacking the television problem at the roots, the NBA named a nine-man committee to work with Christenberry in contacting TV networks to explain their problems. Government officials also will be asked to pass on proposed legislation to "black out" cities where local boxing shows are running in opposition to the TV bouts.

By Jan. 24 there will be four weekly network TV boxing shows with a fifth, reportedly in the making for Tuesday nights.
