 A Republican senator who asked not to be named told this reporter an informal survey indicated that at least one-fourth of the 48 Senate Republicans and nearly all of the 47 Democrats are now inclined to vote against confirmation.

Eight other Eisenhower Cabinet appointees and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, chosen for federal security administrator, seemed likely to go into office today with the new President.

The Senate planned to meet shortly after the inauguration to approve other Cabinet choices. That was the only Capitol Hill business scheduled today.

Even if the names of Wilson and four prospective Defense Department aides are formally submitted by Eisenhower, they will be referred to the Senate Armed Services Committee for a hearing tomorrow.

At that hearing Wilson will get a chance, if he wishes, to alter his previous testimony that he would not dispose of 2 1/2 million dollars in stock, a yearly pension and a retirement bonus from General Motors. He also could change his previous declaration that he would not disqualify himself from dealing with the motor firm when questions involving it come before the secretary of defense, Wilson was G. M. president.

While there have been proposals to change the law which bans federal officials from transacting business with companies in which they have even an indirect financial interest, some senators said amendment of the law may not be enough to win approval for Wilson.

These senators said the alternative either is for Wilson to dispose of his stock, or to ask that his name not be submitted.

If Wilson has any thought of withdrawing, it was not publicly apparent, he said in a New York City speech yesterday he intends to re-examine basic national security plans as secretary of defense and might ask Congress for legislation to streamline the Defense Department.

Arriving here last night to take part in the inaugural ceremonies, Wilson declined to comment on speculation about whether he might ask that his name be withdrawn.

"I'm on the spot, boys," he told newsmen.

Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) said Herbert Brownell Jr., Eisenhower's choice for attorney general, had been asked to testify before the armed services committee tomorrow along with Wilson.

GRIPS GUN— Still clutching a .45 caliber revolver, the body of a man identified by police as Joseph Gorniak, 43, lies near the scene of a gun battle in Chicago during which Joseph Ziomba, 25-year-old student, was seriously wounded. Ziomba told police he fired two shots at three men who robbed him for the purpose of cashing paychecks. Police believe Gorniak, an ex-convict, was shot by Ziomba.

American, Russian Planes Fence Over Northern Japan

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
TOKYO—American and Russian jet pilots are fencing bloodlessly—and almost daily—over the frozen wastes of Northern Japan, a U. S. general reported today in an interview.

Thus far they haven't tangled, but Maj. Gen. Delmar T. Spivey called the situation "tense and explosive."

Spivey fathered Japan's air defense—manned by U. S. pilots in U. S. planes—and commanded it 2 1/2 years. He left today to take command of the U. S. Central Air Defense Zone with headquarters at Kansas City.

He said the Russians have dozens of airfields on Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands — the closest only 13 seconds flying time from Northeastern Hokkaido.

"We are watching them and they are watching us," Spivey said.

"When they fly we see them and when they head towards Japan that triggers off the air defense system."

U. S. jets streak into Northern Hokkaido, Japan's snowbound, northernmost island, on frequent alerts.

Sakhalin is separated from Hokkaido by 30 miles of Soya Straits but Spivey pointed out that, from Northeastern Hokkaido, the nearest Russian-held Kurile island is only 4 1/2 miles.

"That means Russian territory is only 2 1/2 miles from Hokkaido," he said. "At 600 miles per hour, that's 13 seconds from their territory to ours."

Russian planes engage in "training, gunnery and bombing near Japanese territory," the general disclosed. He said there had been no proof of violation of Japanese territory by Russian jets since last week's announcement of the Japanese government that such violations would be shot down—by U. S. pilots.

Japan is defended by F4U Thunderbolts and F94 interceptors. The Air Force has not confirmed well-founded reports that Sabre jets—which hunt MIGs in Korea—are also poised to catch Russian MIGs over Hokkaido.

Government

 unity, their danger in discord," and added:

"To produce this unity, to meet the challenge of our time, destiny has laid upon our country the responsibility of the free world's leadership."

Faith in the future which binds America belongs as well to the free of all the world, he said.

"It confers a common dignity upon the French soldier who dies in Indochina, the British soldier killed in Korea," he added.

Eisenhower talked of "the preoccupations absorbing us at home." He said that while "we are concerned with matters that affect our livelihood today and our vision of the future, each of these domestic problems is dwarfed by, and often even created by, this question that involves all human kind—survival of the free world."

Whether the new Republican-controlled Congress would be satisfied with the subordinate role Eisenhower assigned to domestic affairs remained to be seen.

FIRST TASK
 Eisenhower called it "the first task of statesmanship" to develop strength against aggression.

But the man who led the Allied forces to victory over Germany in World War II—the man who headed Western Europe's new defense forces until he entered politics last June—declared the U. S. stands ready to co-operate in a drastic reduction of armaments, provided all nations prove good faith.

Appealing for a demonstration of such faith, Eisenhower had in mind perhaps America's development of such weapons as the hydrogen bomb in saying:

"Science seems ready to confer on us, as its final gift, the power to erase human life from the earth."

Eisenhower called his nine "rules of conduct" basic precepts, "not lofty abstractions, far removed from the matters of daily living." He added:

"They are the laws of spiritual strength that generate and define our material strength."
PATRIOTISM
 "Patriotism means equipped forces and a prepared citizenry. Moral stamina means more energy and more productivity, on the farm and in the factory."

"Love of liberty means the guarding of every resource that makes freedom possible—from the sanctity of our families and the wealth of our soil to the genius of scientists."

As he did so often during the campaign, Eisenhower said the peace the world seeks is "nothing less than the practice and fulfillment of our whole faith, among ourselves and in our dealings with others." Then he said:

"It signifies more than stilling the guns, easing the sorrow of war. 'More than an escape from death, it is a way of life. 'More than a haven for the weary, it is a hope for the brave. 'This is the hope that beckons us onward in this century of trial. This is the work that awaits us all, to be done with bravery, with charity—and with prayer to Almighty God."

Clooney, Wonder Girl, Takes

By ERNKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) Behind the screen, "I'm listening to people and taking advice. If it comes out acting, it's the easiest thing I ever did in my life."
 Rosemary Clooney, Paramount's new wonder girl, reacting to reports that she will be as big and potent as Cherilyn after the release of "The Stars Are Singing" and "Here Comes The Gull."
 Her new Paramount contract allowing her to do TV but forbidding outside pictures would make J. P. Morgan grin approvingly, but Rosie, as she's called, wasn't too sure about Hollywood in the beginning.

She remembered the radio and mirthful larks who'd been brought out to Hollywood before her and had ended up in the files of the Missing Persons Bureau.

"Then I thought about Doris Day and took a chance," she tells. "The greatest thing that ever happened in Hollywood was Doris. She showed them what can be done with a singer. I'm flattered to be compared with her."

Having uncovered as much of her virile anatomy as the censors will allow, Jeff Chandler is now about to bare his tonsils.

There's a recording contract on the front burner for Jeff and only an agreement on royalties stands between the movie king and a bid for vocal fame.

"I've got a crazy voice—high baritone, crooner type," Jeff confided on the "East of Sumatra."

Marx Film Series Over, Predicts Comic Groucho

By JAMES BACON
(For Bob Thomas)
HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) had news today from Groucho Marx, who is seldom sad, even for a comic.

The Marx Brothers will never perform again as a team, predicts Groucho. That is sad, because the Marx Brothers, at their gamut, would make Martin and Lewis appear like temperance lecturers.

"The same people who yell for us to appear again as a team are the same ones who would be the first to holler, 'Why did they have to bring those guys back?'"

Groucho adds that he and his brothers believe it is better to follow the old vaudeville maxim: "Always leave them laughing."

Besides, both he and Harpo are well fixed financially.

"Chico is broke, of course, but that's not news. If that guy made $10,000 a day, he'd spend $10,000. That's his life. He's happy. What puzzles me is that he sleeps better at night than I do."

Groucho has one of the softest touches in television and radio. His quiz show, "You Bet Your Life," is telecast and broadcast simultaneously. It requires little time on Groucho's part.

He says that after 27 years, he finally has completed the cycle of all Easterners who move to California.

"When you first come out here, you buy a home on a mountain top, install indirect lighting so you can better enjoy the view at night. You look at the view just once. Before long the waves are breaking in your living room.

"So you move to a canyon home. The storms come in the winter and wash your neighbor's house on top of yours.

"Finally, you buy a house on a nice, quiet street like this (in Beverly Hills) where the milkman comes every morning and the kids play with the kids next door just like they do in Philadelphia or Wichita."

His home is large but not overly large in the movie star tradition. He had a big house once but got rid of it after an incident that almost scared the pants off him.

He was way off in a back bedroom strumming his guitar when the door creaked and he looked up to confront a giant monster. It was his friend, Boris Karloff, made up for the first time as Frankenstein. Karloff had driven across town from the studio in the monster get-up just to play a gag.

"The maid let him in just before she faints," recalls Groucho.
