McKay Hears Power Foes

WASHINGTON — Public power policies advocated by new Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay were scored by Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash.) Wednesday during Senate debate on President Eisenhower's cabinet selections.

Magnuson asked that he be recorded as voting "No" on the former Oregon governor after predicting a "head-on fight" over development of Pacific Northwest water resources.

McKay and seven other Eisenhower nominations were voted into the cabinet after the debate. Magnuson attacked McKay's views on both public power and Alaska statehood, describing them

Dulles Insists On Loyalty

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles told foreign service employees Thursday he will tolerate nothing less than "positive loyalty" to the nation's policies in this, its time of greatest peril.

As his first official act after being sworn in with other Eisenhower cabinet members Wednesday, Dulles addressed a letter to some 16,500 Americans employed by the State Department at home and abroad.

He advised them to expect changes under the new Republican administration and said: "The national welfare must be given priority over individual concerns."

Western Bull Sale May Flop

DENVER — Cattlemen said Thursday that because of a depressed market, possibly one-third of the 3,500 purebred bulls on sale at the National Western Stock Show will fail to find buyers.

At last year's show, when 1,284 bulls were auctioned, the average price was $1,080. This year $850 is considered a good sale.

Court Rules Against Negroes

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Court of Appeals, dividing 5 to 4, ruled Thursday that eating places in the capital may refuse service to Negroes.

The majority held that a law passed by the legislative assembly in 1872 and 1873 against racial discrimination cannot be enforced for these major reasons:

1. The anti-discrimination laws weren't valid in the first place. 2. Since they were not enforced for 78 years, they can only be put into execution now by legislative action.

Wilson Talks

Defense Department private contractor. The question has been raised whether he would run afoul of a law which bars federal officials from dealing with firms in which they have even an indirect financial interest.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday he knew of no change in Eisenhower's intention to nominate Wilson.

The Senate Armed Services Committee would have to pass on Wilson's nomination before the Senate acted, and Chairman Maltonast (R-Mass.) said it will do nothing until a name is submitted officially.

One highly placed GOP senator, who asked that his name not be used, said efforts were being made to persuade Wilson to sell his G. M. stock.

Mr. Wilson is a stubborn man, the senator added. "He takes the position that they should have known what they were doing when they offered him the job, that asking him to sell his stock is a reflection on his character and integrity."

Wilson could not be confirmed now, the senator said, "even if they come up with some maneuver like changing the law to fit his case or the issuance of a presidential order which would bar him from passing upon G. M. contracts."

The other eight Cabinet members were confirmed in a group yesterday, after several hours of discussion. Then, in an 11-minute ceremony at the White House, with the Eisenhower family and their own relatives looking on, they took the oath in this order:

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state; George M. Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury; Herbert Brownell Jr., attorney general; Arthur F. Summersfield, postmaster general; Douglas McKay, secretary of the interior; Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture; Sinclair Weeks, secretary of commerce; and Martin P. Durkin, secretary of labor.

No dissenting votes were heard in the Senate on confirmation of the eight Cabinet members, although two senators earlier had asked to be on record in opposition.

Sen. Young (R-ND) said he was dubious about Secretary of Agriculture Benson's attitude on continuing government farm price supports at present levels beyond 1954.

Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said he differed with Secretary of the Interior McKay on public power projects.

There was a lot of evident maneuvering in the Wilson case yesterday. Maltonast told reporters Wilson had telephoned him and offered to come before the committee again "to clarify" his earlier testimony. Maltonast said he told Wilson the committee could not act now until it received an official nomination.

Late in the day W. B. Parsons, Eisenhower's assistant for congressional liaison, conferred at length with Maltonast. The latter would give no details, saying only that "we must keep abreast of the facts."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), one of the first to raise questions on the Wilson nomination, also got a telephone call from Wilson. What they talked about was not disclosed.

Caught in the Wilson stalemate were four other Eisenhower selections for top defense posts: Roger M. Kyes, deputy secretary of defense; Robert T. B. Stevens, secretary of the Army; Robert B. Anderson, secretary of the Navy; and Harold E. Talbot, secretary of the Air Force.
