Directors Tear Hair As Studios Say No More Flat Screen Films To Be Made

(Last of three articles on Hollywood's new-dimensional revolution.)
 By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The man with the biggest headache in Hollywood is a genial German-American named Henry Koster.
 Until a week ago, Koster looked with satisfaction toward his next directing assignment, "The Robe." True, it was a massive, four-million-dollar epic involving great sets and a huge cast. But he was skilled in his craft and was prepared to meet whatever problems arose.
 Then the storm broke. His studio, 20th Century-Fox, announced it would make no more flat-screen pictures. It was converting to the huge, curved-screen cinematoscope. The first film under the new-dimensional method would be "The Robe."
 When I saw Koster in his grand Wood-decorated office, he seemed harassed but happy.
 "Before this happened, I was too content," he admitted. "I thought I knew exactly how to make a picture—what lenses to use, how to place the actors, when to use a closeup, etc."
 "Now I'm a pioneer. It's good for me. It's exciting to learn a whole new way to make a picture."
 He showed off his new finder, through which he peers to envision movie scenes. It was much broader than the usual proportions of a movie screen.
 "That's how it will look," he said. "The screen will be even broader than the scope of a theater stage. That means there will be less work for the cutter. Scenes will probably not have closeups and be chopped up. It will be like filming short scenes from a play. We will have to focus attention on certain faces by means of lighting or dialogue, the same as it is done on the stage."
 "Cinemascope will mean this—

Flames Roar In Gas Well

HOBBS, N. M. (AP) - A tough oil-field trouble-shooting crew is getting ready to tackle a runaway gas well that could become a gigantic torch any second.
 The well has been spewing a 80-foot column of sour-smelling gas for 10 days at a measured rate of 120 million cubic feet a day. Workers say a single spark could turn it into an inferno and touch off Southeastern New Mexico's worst oilfield fire.

Hollywood Star, Wife Separate

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The Dean Martin and straight-man partner of comedian Jerry Lewis confirmed yesterday that he has moved from the family household where Mrs. Martin, the former Miami, Fla., cover girl Jeanne Buegers, will stay with their year-old son Dino.
 Both said they are trying to work out their problems.

The well, Gulf Oil Corp's Matthews No. 7, is 10 miles southwest of this oil center. Its roar is clearly audible in the city when the wind is right.
 Heavy equipment already has been brought away to safety. The well is being capped by a capping beam.
