It's Horn Tootin' Time In Washington, Tra-la

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the season when the picture turns grim and things are in a hell of a fix.

It is the time when each of the armed forces tells how good it is.

And it is, perchance, the time of budget-making. It happens every year, in peace and war, in every administration.

Some years there are mysterious rumors of foreign submarines cruising off American shores. Other years there are vapor trails from highflying, unseen, unknown aircraft above the northern defense perimeter. And some years people just sit down and add up all the military and diplomatic perplexities and intelligence estimates and come up with a broad and brooding and black picture.

GRIM PICTURE

Only yesterday a group of congressional leaders emerged from a White House session with military, intelligence and national security council officials—speaking cryptically but apprehensively of the briefing they had. It was nothing new, they said—the picture has been grim for a long time.

The congressional leaders then went to the Capitol where Congress is going to work on the budget.

Across the Potomac at the Pentagon the armed forces seemed to hear no unusually loud alarms from around the world but maybe that is just because they are used to the grimness of the times.

Individually, the three services wanted folks to know how each of them was ready to fight any kind of war in any kind of place. There was the impression each could do it as well or a little better than either of the other two services.

In fairness, perhaps they recalled the economy drive of a few years ago, under Louis A. Johnson's defense secretaryship. Most people in the Pentagon believe that campaign was partially responsible for the state of U. S. unreadiness when the Korean War broke out.

GUARDS

And perhaps each service wanted to guard against too-deep cuts in its budget this year. At any rate—

The Navy announced it had developed a fully pressurized flying suit which would allow "Navy pilots" (the press release didn't say why other pilots couldn't wear it too) to "travel in safety in the extreme upper atmosphere — or even in outer space."

The account had wide reader interest among those anticipating the advent of space travel and warfare. It also had the rapt and slightly annoyed interest of the Air Force.

The Air Force, with practically no urging, was ready to produce a press release it issued last Oct. 4, saying it then had a new type pressure suit "enabling pilots to survive in the near vacuum of the upper atmosphere." In that release, the author waited until he got down eight paragraphs to say the suit "resembles to some extent the popular conception of a space suit." But the author of yesterday's Navy release hit, right at the beginning, the idea it was a suit good "even in outer space." The Air Force had learned a lesson in the art of publicity.

MISSLES

The Army, perhaps not wanting to be overlooked when ideas about rocket-age arsenals were being circulated, came up with a summary of its program in the guided missile field. Through several hundred words the Army went in for some re-presentation of technical facts about rocket shooting, captioned the release with the declaration that "Army's new guided missiles now roll off assembly lines." But it didn't say what the missiles are or how many have rolled off. With the background presented, the Army got to the point, announcing:

"The Army now has weapons that aim themselves after the trigger is pulled—and it is almost impossible for them to miss a target.... Fantastic though it may seem, one of the Army's surface-to-air missiles...carries a guidance system designed to out-maneuver and hit enemy aircraft."

The enemy plane, said the Army, may "dive, climb, bank, side-slip or turn tail—but the Army's new weapons still will knock them out of the skies."

The Army's account came out late in the day. Presumably there wasn't time left for the Navy or Air Force to get out reports on their fantastic robot weapons.

Frozen Pack Rules Backed

CORVALLIS (AP) — A bill before the Oregon Legislature providing for regulation, labeling and packaging of all frozen desserts received the backing Thursday of Oregon Dairy Industries.

The organization, which gave its blessing to House Bill 172 before winding up its 42nd annual meeting here, also elected officers.

Gordon K. Long, Cloverdale, was named president, succeeding William Fletcher, Enterprise, who continues as a member of the board of directors.

William Cavett, Portland, was elected vice president and Ellis Rackleff, Eugene, treasurer. G. H. Wilster, Oregon State College, was re-elected secretary.

New directors include Bayard Hillway and Arthur Hurlburt, Portland; Gordon Hofstetter, Salem; Glen Lay, Bend; W. Van Auker, Coos Bay; Bob Kent, Klamath Falls; Joe Yoder, Eugene, and Norm Feldkamp, Roseburg.

Summer Home Offered Ike

WATERTOWN, N. Y., (AP)— President Eisenhower will be offered an island castle in the St. Lawrence River as a "summer White House."

The President may even be given a choice between Calumet Castle and another estate in the Thousand Islands, the Jefferson County publicity council and chambers of commerce in the vacation area announced Thursday night.

The groups said negotiations were under way to obtain an alternate offer of Pullman Island, estate of the sleeping-car tycoon.

Calumet Island, they said, is large enough to house the entire presidential staff. Pullman Island was described as somewhat cosier.

The castle, owned by a group of businessmen, is complete with "good communications but private enough to permit a full growth of beard if the President feels like loafing," the agencies declared.

Calumet and Pullman both are within a short boat-ride of Secretary of State Dulles' summer home at Main Duck Island, in Lake Ontario.

Draft Reaches Iron Lung

PORTLAND (AP) — An 18-year-old Oregon City High School senior was registered for the draft Thursday at a hospital where he is confined to an iron lung with polio.

Elmer A. Whitteker was 18 on Friday, Feb. 13. Aware that under the law he was required to register for the draft within five days, he notified his board he couldn't comply. Selective Service headquarters sent Mrs. R. C. Youngren, a clerk, to him and the registration was completed.

Whitteker was stricken Sept. 21. A tutor helps him keep up with his studies and he expects to graduate with his class.

Buddy, his 9-year-old brother, also was a polio victim, but he has recovered and has returned to school.

Foreign Meat Signs Ordered

PORTLAND (AP) — Markets here selling beef shipped in from New Zealand must display a sign saying "imported foreign meats sold here."

That was the announcement Thursday of Walter Upshaw of the State Department of Agriculture after reports circulated that some market operators were considering selling the beef, which has been retailed elsewhere in the country for 39 cents a pound for T-bone steak.

Sale is legal in Oregon provided the sign a foot high and six feet long is displayed prominently.

At least one Portland retailer planned to handle the beef. Others said they were considering it.

Packers here were advised that more than 4 ½ million pounds of frozen New Zealand beef is due in San Francisco. It was reported here to be of U. S. commercial grade.

Ship Barred From Supplies

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Singapore government warned Friday it would punish any person shipping supplies to the Finnish tanker Wilma, anchored 20 miles out, without an export permit.

The tanker, carrying 7,000 tons of strategic jet fuel originally consigned to Red China, has been anchored outside the territorial waters of this free port since Feb. 11, even though authorities declare it runs no risk of seizure if it comes in.

Only a few coastal launchmen have the required licenses for shipping outside territorial waters and most of them refuse to go near the vessel for fear of becoming involved in the international dispute surrounding its Communist-bound cargo. The U. S. has been trying to keep the jet fuel from reaching the Reds.

Officials estimate that the last food supplies to reach the Wilma's crew—forced by marine police patrols to stay aboard—will run out next Tuesday.

Shipping circles believe the Wilma's skipper is staying outside Singapore waters so he can maintain radio contact with the ship's owners.

ROBBERY DEATHS

SEOUL (AP) — Fifteen armed bandits killed two persons Thursday night in a $6,665 robbery of a South Korean government finance office in Kobu, 25 miles southeast of Chonju, national police reported.
