Much Confusion Surrounds Controversial Film, But Producers Keeping At It

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—The leading lady is under arrest. Angry citizens chase their cameramen from the street. Heated attacks are made from the floor of Congress. The House Un-American Activities Committee and the FBI are watching. And steps are already being taken to prevent showing of the film.

But a group of moviemakers who have been accused of Communist connections are still grinding away, trying to finish before anything else happens.

Rosaura Revueltas, 42-year-old Mexican actress playing the female lead, is held by the immigration service on a charge of illegally entering the country. Immigration service hearings have been postponed until Saturday to allow the attorney to seek a writ of habeas corpus from a federal judge.

Diets Blamed In Butter Row

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's not the price alone that's causing the swelling butter surplus in the government's hands, officials said Tuesday.

A major factor, Agriculture Department experts contend, is the penchant for trim figures that finds expression in diets with fewer potatoes, less bread and fewer fat-type table spreads, such as butter.

If Americans had an appetite for as much butter and its lower-priced competitor, margarine, as in the period before World War II, there would now be a shortage of them.

In the 1935-39 period, Americans consumed an annual average of 19.4 pounds of butter and margarine. Last year the average had dropped to 16.9 pounds. Consumption of butter had dropped from an average of 16.6 pounds in the pre-war period to 8.8 pounds last year.

Margarine consumption has risen from an annual average of 2.8 pounds to 7.8 pounds, but this increase has not fully covered butter's loss—a fact which officials say reflects declining demand for food fats.

Government purchases of butter for price support purposes have reached 80 million pounds since late November. It is possible, officials say, that government stocks may total several hundred million pounds, or possibly a fifth of a year's total supply.

 BONN, West Germany (AP)—The Western Allies announced Monday they have reached an agreement with the former arms magnate, Alfred Krupp, to break up the vast Krupp industrial empire. The best estimates are that the holdings are worth nearly 13 million dollars.

been linked with left-wing activities. Miss Revueltas last summer attended the Soviet-sponsored International Film Festival in East Berlin. Producer of the film is the mine-mill union, which lost its CIO affiliation because its leaders refused to say they weren't Communists.

Some 40 citizens of Central N. M., where portions of the film were planned for shooting, yesterday ran out of a town a camera crew preparing to take street scenes. They were told to "get out now or get out later without your cameras. We mean business."

In Hollywood, the Screen Actors Guild turned down a request for support in the case from the Mexican Actors Guild.

A mass demonstration of members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was narrowly averted here last night.

Ben Margolis, attorney for Miss Revueltas, addressed a union meeting after close of the deportation hearings. He said his client would be unable to make a scheduled talk "because the U. S. immigration service has threatened to throw her in jail if she does."

Joseph Minton, district immigration director, angrily confirmed the statement.

"This woman is under arrest," Minton said. "I've shown her every consideration in the world in light of her cultural background and accomplishments. She has been free to eat and shop anywhere in the city."

"Anyone else facing the charge she does would be in one of two places—jail or detention quarters. She's not going to make any propaganda speeches."

Some union members present at the meeting shouted for a march on Miss Revueltas' hotel room for a mass demonstration, but were restrained by Margolis, who told them they'd "only make things worse."

Margolis, during the hearing, accused the immigration service of participating in a conspiracy to keep his client from working on the film. He termed the hearing "just window dressing."
