

Aberdeen Angus Show, Sale, Klamath, April 12 & 13

WOMEN HAVE ACTIVE ROLES in the Angus Association. Above, at a breakfast for visiting women at which Klamath Basin women were hostesses, are three officials in the Association Auxiliary. They are (l to r): Mrs. Dale West, Merrill, Oregon representative in the Auxiliary; Mrs. James Guttridge, Elk Grove, Calif., auxiliary president; and Mrs. L. J. Liataillado, Elk Grove, secretary-treasurer. Breakfast scene was the Winema Hotel Empire Room.

THE FLEDGLING CATTLE BARONS above were the youngest buyers at the sale. Shari Dehlinger, 13, (left) and her brother, Dick, 10, each bid in a registered Angus female. Sister Sandra, 14, already had her Angus. The three youngsters, children of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Dehlinger, Merrill Highway, are learning about cattle in 4-H work at Henley School. Their ambition is a herd of prize cattle.

Breeders Change Stock Policy

Member units of the Oregon Dairy Breeders association may now accept new members without requiring them to immediately invest in capital stock certification, association directors decided at their April quarterly meeting at Oregon State College.

The change in policy, according to Henry G. Hagg of Redville, association president, emphasizes the growth and financial stability of the group.

Organized in February 1946 to promote artificial insemination of dairy cattle, the state association established capital stock subscription as a qualification for participation in the program.

At the beginning, the association maintained about 12 purebred Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein dairy bulls. In the seven years since, the bull stud has increased by three times. Membership has grown from the original five units to 20 at present.
