Louis Lyon, Malin, Goes To Spud Meeting; Tells Of Talks With Farm Boss

Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, and E. J. Peters, Wasco, Calif., President of the National Potato Council, heard the problems of potato growers and recommendations for industry improvement during three-day meetings called by Peters, April 8, 9, and 10 at the request of Benson.

Representing the Oregon and Tulelake area, were Louis Lyon, Malin, Director of the National Potato Council and Ben Davidson, Redmond, Administrator of the Oregon Potato Commission.

The National Potato Council represents the majority of the Irish potato producers in the United States. There was a good cross section of representatives from each of the producing areas at the meeting.

Secretary Benson, according to Lyon and Davidson, is willing to meet with agriculture and industry groups and to seriously consider suggestions made to him for study.

Both local delegates were impressed with his sincerity, his grasp of the problems presented, his desire to streamline the top heavy Department of Agriculture and the determination of his top staff members to cooperate with the needs and desires of each and every commodity industry group and work out mutual problems confronting them today.

In order to best face the obligations before him, the Secretary plans meetings in the months ahead with every group in the country that has either a national or a state organization.

The desire to work out policies that would be instrumental in benefiting the agriculture industries without overburdening administrative costs is very apparent, Lyon stated.

Recommendations made by the National Council to the Secretary for his study and consideration, included a request that potato producers be advised to revise present plans for holding the 1953 acreage plantings at last season's level which will result in over-production and to substantially decrease this year's acreage planting.

Other recommendations included improvement of quality through better marketing practices, more extensive research and education in production, marketing, and utilization; re-establishment of the Potato Division of the USDA dissolved two years ago; appointment of a Potato Industry Advisory Committee at the earliest possible time; review of all present U.S. Potato grades and the study of the feasibility of establishing a National Grade Labeling Act for potatoes from the producer to the consumer level.

While the Klamath Basin and Idaho districts are far ahead of other potato producing areas as far as grades are concerned, Lyon pointed out that there is still plenty of room for improvement.

Passage of the Ellender and McIntire Bills, already passed by both Houses of Congress and now on Secretary Benson's desk for his signature, was also recommended.

Representatives also asked for definite schedule of allowable depreciation on all agricultural capital investment exclusive of farm lands.

The National Potato Council registered opposition to the type of potato program which ended with the 1950 crop.

The potato producers have pledged wholehearted support to, and cooperation with, the USDA in all future plans to insure consumers of the country an ample supply of good quality Irish potatoes at a price favorable and fair to both producers and consumers.

Fred Allen, Jack Benny Feud Still Going Strong

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The feud that launched a thousand quips is still going strong after 18 years.

Fred Allen and Jack Benny have been mining pay dirt from their alleged dislike for each other for nearly two decades, and the end is not in sight. The comics will continue their tiff when they appear on Benny's TV show Sunday. It will mark their first TV appearance together.

I dropped in at CBS for the first reading of the show.

Allen was there when I arrived. He looked as pleasantly sour as ever. Since health is the prime topic among TV comics, I asked him how he felt.

"Pretty good," said the Boston wit, who suffered a relapse in his battle with health a few months ago. He was forced to give up his proposed TV quiz show to Herb Shriner. Allen indicated he would resume the helm of the show next fall.

"It's a quiz-type show," he explained. "It's not the comedy kind of show that is killing comedians. You don't have the lines to memorize or the machines to contend with. The machines have taken over the comedy business. They'd better watch out if the actors ever get control again."

Allen was kidding about his current estate. "This shows you how far I have fallen," he remarked. "I used to have my own show and was on a par with Mr. Benny. Now I'm working for him!"

Despite his own comments, Allen is the envy of his fellow comics. He has been playing the guest-star circuit and raking in much moola without the headache of having his own show. Allen claimed, however, that he was merely the middleman in the transfer of the checks to the U. S. Treasury.

How long has he known Benny?

"About 30 years," he remarked.

The origin of their feud? He couldn't remember. "I'd have to consult my files," he said.

Benny breezed in, accompanied by his three writers and others. He and Allen exchanged greetings that would indicate their feud is only script-deep. They posed for a photo together, and Allen mentioned that he would have to rent a clarinet for their TV show.

"I don't usually carry my clarinet from coast to coast, hoping someone will ask me to play," he commented.

Benny played his role as the stingy comic to the hilt: "Well, don't rent one until we find out if we really need it in the show."

I dutifully asked Benny how he felt. "Fine," he replied. Illness forced him to cancel a telecast six weeks ago.

Benny had a better memory on the feud's origin.

"It was 18 years ago," he recalled. Allen had a boy prodigy on his show, and the kid played 'The Bee.' Allen made a slighting remark about my violin playing. I answered him back on my show and that started it."

Mobile Dental Unit Shown

A fully equipped mobile dental unit first of its kind in the Klamath area is being introduced to the public this weekend and Monday by Dr. Boyd Sprague and his associates, Dr. James Hefner, Dr. Lester Brookshire and Dr. Harold Catmull.

The impressive, modern trailer dental office, now on display and open for inspection at 1435 East Main is complete with heat, hot water, X-ray, dental chair and instruments. It will be moved to vicinities making a request for the service and will be manned in turn by the corps of dentists.

It will be pulled by a 1953 GMC one-ton, 12 passenger truck which will also carry the generator for the electrical appliances. The unit also has its own water reservoir and pumping system to complete the self sustaining.

The X-ray is of European manufacture.

In addition to the business venture the unit will be used during the winter months and during vacation periods as a missionary dental unit and will visit missionary homes for children upon request.

The unit is the outgrowth of months of planning and study. Over a year ago, Dr. Sprague, while attending a Church Conference in Lebanon, heard of the need for missionary dental work at missions in Cottonwood, Arizona, and Fairbanks, Alaska, presented by the Conservative Baptist Home Missionary Society.

The head of the society in Chicago, Dr. Rufus Jones, confirmed the need and the plan was set in motion to secure the mobile unit.

The public is invited to visit the unit through Monday.
