Women Get Job Of Seeing That Hubby Avoids Cancer

Statistics released by the American Cancer Society here today indicated the necessity for women taking the lead in guarding their husbands against cancer. Keith O'Hair, chairman of the Klamath County 1953 ACS crusade here, said the most frequent sites of cancer in men were the ones most neglected.

such as a persistent cough, it is up to the wife to insist he see a doctor. Mr. O'Hair concluded, "Wives may have to use their ingenuity to get their husbands to have regular physical examinations. They can take the lead by learning the seven danger signals. They can arrange to have regular check-ups themselves and then persuade their husbands to make it a joint occasion."
