

California Civil Defense Budget Defended; Fringes Can't Carry Whole Burden

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Metropolitan areas smashed by enemy attack would be entirely dependent on the outermost reaches of the state, says Richard Graves, a former Civil Defense director.

Graves, now representing the League of California Cities, Friday defended the state's $1,400,000 CD budget for next year before an Assembly subcommittee studying the entire program.

A $328,000 cut, which would eliminate all but three metropolitan areas and Means Committee.

Graves said the cut would make the statewide program "hopeless in any CD regional offices, already have been approved by the Assembly and unworkable."

"You can't expect the mayor of San Francisco to phone every center when his city is attacked," warned Graves, who served as CD director under ex-Gov. Gilbert Olsen.

He said the smaller areas could not take over the regional offices because no statewide CD plan has yet been completed. "We are creeping toward it, but we don't have it," he said.

Graves also complained that the cut includes reductions of staffs at the three regional offices, in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, which he said would have to assume additional burdens.

William Gilmore, a San Francisco fire department official, said his city, if attacked, would need help from sources taking their instructions from a state level.

Gilmore stressed the military could not be relied on in CD matters. He said the President of San Francisco, Sixth Army Headquarters, even now sometimes calls on the local fire department when there's a fire there.

If the military took over it would just be a case of a general sitting behind a desk and declaring martial law. The Civil Defense funds still would have to operate," he said.

Assemblyman Glenn E. Cooldige (R-Santa Cruz) said a reporter has submitted a bill to week would near witnesses favoring the proposed cut.

There were other developments elsewhere in the Legislature.

J. William G. Bonelli, chairman of the Board of Equalization said he would support a campaign to relieve the board of its liquor control power providing such a proposal was put to the voters. In a letter to Sen. James E. Cunningham (R-San Bernardino), Bonelli said liquor should be regulated by an "appointive agency, relieved of the need for campaign help."

Sen. Harold J. Powers (R-Exploville) introduced a series of resolutions urging immediate congressional action to bolster beef prices paid to producers.

Powers said cattlemen are being forced to sell their beef animals for less than it cost to raise them.

Dam Collapses From Pressure

EUGENE (AP)—The Middle Fork Willamette River rose sharply Friday when a temporary spillway gate at Lookout Point Dam collapsed.

Three boats capsized in the rush of water but all the occupants escaped unharmed and two men temporarily marooned on an island were rescued.

The barricade of plank panels had been erected in spillway gate slots of the incomplete Lookout Point Dam so water in the stilling basin could be lowered to search for the body of a missing engineer. The weight of water broke the barricade.

The missing engineer, Stener M. Rosenberg, 27, of Seattle, was believed to have fallen in the river Thursday. A body was seen in the basin but it disappeared in deep water before it could be recovered.

Split Feared In Oregon

PORTLAND (AP)—C. C. Chapman, commenting Friday on possible Republican candidates for governor, said: "The more I see of Governor Patterson, whom I like, the more I think of Earl Newby, whom I don't like very well."

The remark was made during Chapman's talk to the Portland City Club.

Chapman, a Republican and editor of the Oregon Voter, said that a division in the Republican Party by backers of Gov. Paul Patterson on one hand and Secretary of State Earl Newby on the other, might result in a Democratic victory in 1954.

Chapman said Patterson had erred in trying to get the Legislature to approve a mild anti-polluting bill. A much stronger bill than recommended by Patterson was approved by large majorities in both houses.

Pea Sale Beating Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Department of Agriculture took a $400,000 loss when three Pacific Northwest firms purchased 80,000 tons of Austrian winter peas for $80 a ton.

The peas, acquired by the department under its seed price support program, cost the government $119 a ton.

The three firms which bought the seeds as cattle feed are Archer-Daniels-Midland Company of Portland, Ore., E. F. Burlington and Sons of Forest Grove, Ore., and Henry D. Gee Company of Seattle.

The Commodity Credit Corporation, which negotiated the sale, said Friday the peas had been offered for sale at $80 a ton as seed. Then when germination no longer could be guaranteed, the peas were offered at $55 a ton as feed. There were no buyers though, because other feed could be obtained at lower prices.

The peas, from the 1950 crop and acquired in 1951 under the price support program designed to increase stocks of seed for winter cover crops in Southeastern states, may be sold at whatever price the three firms can get.

Traction Company Asks Changes

PORTLAND (AP)—The only alternative to sharply curtailed services and other concessions is higher fares, the Portland Traction Company told the City Council Friday, modify three others and for exemption from a 3 per cent gross income franchise tax.

Unless the requests are granted, the firm will ask to increase fares from the present 15 cents to 20 cents a ride, Gordon Steele, president of the traction company, said.

He said the firm could not operate profitably because of a wage increase which it recently granted to drivers.

Headquarters For OCCH Named

SALEM (AP)—Williamette University has been named as headquarters for the Oregon Citizenship Clearing House, Dr. G. Herbert Smith, university president, announced Friday.

The citizenship program was originated in 1947 by Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt of New Jersey. Its purpose is to encourage college students and graduates to take part in political affairs.

The Oregon program will be directed by Freeman Holmer, assistant professor of political science at Williamette.

Treasury Budget Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has started economy at home—in the secretary's office.

Treasury personnel officials said reorganization of the secretary's office ordered by Humphrey took 30 people off the treasury's payroll for a saving of $147,000 a year. The secretary's office last year employed an average of 467 persons, with salaries of $2,565,000.

At the same time, however, Humphrey has added a deputy secretary and three assistants to the secretary. Those salaries add up to $48,400.

So the net saving in the secretary's office is $98,600 a year.

Beyond his own office, the personnel office said, Humphrey has ordered further payroll reductions which will abolish 53 jobs with salaries totalling $200,000 a year. These are to be effective by July 1. Added to the reductions already made in the secretary's office, that totals $317,000 payroll savings under the new treasury dispensation in effect or ordered.

"OLD PUG NOSE," formally known as Wade Ray, is one of the most popular performers in the Western music field. Ray and his Ozark Mountain Boys, who record exclusively for RCA Victor, are to be at the Armory here tonight. More than three years ago, Wade and the boys went to Los Angeles' famed Western night club, Cow Town, to make a 2-weeks stand. The outfit proved so popular that it is still featured there.

Three Biggest Birds In Their Class Take Beating

NEW YORK (AP)—The three biggest, broadest, tallest birds, for their weight classes, in America, are taking a beating.

They're the ivory-billed woodpecker, the California condor and the whooping crane, considered by a National Audubon Society spokesman to be the nation's rarest species.

New Bids Called On Dam Equipment

SEATTLE (AP)—New bids for 10 main transformers and four generators at Chief Joseph dam were called Friday by the Seattle office of Army Engineers.

Transformer bids will be opened May 27, and generator bids June 1.

The Army rejected earlier low bids of $1,831,880 on the transformers and $4,496,493 on the generators by the English Electric Export & Trading Co., Ltd.

The Engineers said the new bid invitations contain "slight technical changes."

Garden Club Group Names Officers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mrs. William J. Walters of New Brunswick, N. J., was elected president of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc., Friday.

More than 500 delegates from all sections of the nation met at the Fairmont Hotel for the final session of the club's 24th annual convention.

Other officers elected included: Mrs. Bradley Morrill, Greenville, S. C., 1st vice president; Mrs. Daniel Heilner, Portland, Ore., recording secretary.
