

TONY ROSS gets the back of Paddy Mack's hand in one hectic moment from last night's rhubarb at the Armory, won by Ross with the help from Referee Tommy Martindale.

Ross Bops Mack With Help from Martindale

Tommy Martindale, who must feel like the gal who catches the bouquet but not the husband, was the hero in a riotous wrestling session last night at the Armory. Two straight weeks now Martindale has met champions here in non-title bouts. Last week he came close to whipping Danny McShain, world's junior heavyweight champion. Last night the Milwaukee matman broke even in falls with Gypsy Joe, newly-crowned light heavyweight champion of the world. Then Martindale, acting as referee in the main event, got credit for the big assist as Tony Ross whipped Paddy Mack in a continuation of a brawl that started last week.

NINE MINUTES
The no-time-limit bout lasted just slightly over nine minutes but took a back seat to the Martindale-Mack scuffle when it was over. Mack won the first fall with the Boston Crab in 1:45; Ross came back to even matters in 3:45 with the back-breaker. Most of the third round was spent outside the ring in a singing match. Mack got back in the ring first and twice blasted Tony back when the Salem Slaughterer tried to climb back in fair territory. Martindale, who had trouble with Mack during the entire bout, held Mack on the Boston Irishman's third attempt to pound Ross back off the apron of the ring. Ross obliged with a booming right to Mack's chin. A body press finished off the Mick.

When Mack objected with knuckles thrown in Martindale's direction, the Milwaukee Mauler, then Ross, buffeted the Irishman from rimpost to rimpost.

Henry Lenz, a cheap imitation of Eric Pedersen, whipped Carl Engstrom in the opener after losing the first fall to the Swede with the spinning wristlock. RABBIT PUNCHES
Lenz, who looks like an oversized dead end kid with a permanent, combined rabbit punches and the full Nelson to capture the next two falls over Engstrom. Gypsy Joe, who wouldn't be in the ring if all his foes were bald-headed, won the first fall over Martindale in 3:15 by using Martindale as a battering-ram against the corner posts. Martindale finally fell victim to the Boston Crab. When Martindale evened the fall count against the hair-pulling gypsy with the rolling cradle, just one minute was left in the 45-minute bout. Martindale had Joe all wrapped up for the cradle again when time ran out.

Coles Quits Games Job

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—The resignation of Arthur W. Coles as chief organizer of the 1956 Olympic Games is a serious blow to Melbourne's chances of playing host to the great athletic carnival. Without being unduly pessimistic, we would guess that it's no better than a 50-50 proposition now.

Coles was the big operator, the one Australian deemed capable by many of his countrymen of solving manifold problems and whipping the games together. There was general rejoicing in Melbourne when Coles agreed to take on the onerous job last fall, and there will be great disappointment that he has thrown in the towel.

A self-made man of heavy wealth whose stores stretch to every corner of Australia, Coles had retired to his beautiful estate at Flinders, near Melbourne, and meant to stay there, when the cry for support reached him. The Olympic people told him things were in a mess, and that the games almost certainly would be lost unless he threw his energy and talents into the breach.

RELUCTANT
Reluctantly, Coles accepted the challenge, when we saw him live months ago he felt optimistic. He was fully aware that he was bucking petty jealousies and that he was emmeshed in Australia's own brand of politics, but he thought he had a superior ally in national pride.

He accomplished much within a few months. Without bothering to call a committee meeting every other day, he commissioned plans for a great modern stadium and for a swimming pool that promised to be a humdinger. He was doing what he knew how to do better than any man in Australia, but we had an uneasy feeling at the time that he might be underestimating the opposition.

Sure enough, it wasn't too long before the news came from Down Under that the new stadium was out and that it had been decided to do a face-lifting job on Melbourne's archaic cricket ground instead. We were rather surprised that there was no accompanying statement from Coles, and decided he must be softer than he looked.

CORRECT
But the first impression proved to have been correct. When the state government of Victoria also took his swimming pool away from him yesterday, Coles headed back home and left the whole sorry situation in the hands of the little men.

Well, he's quit. Obviously there is no intention of supplying the kind of money needed to put the games on properly. The International Olympic Committee proved that there is no plot against Melbourne. It approved the site, despite grave doubts of some of its members. But Melbourne, lovely Melbourne, seems determined to make it tough.

CELEBRATES WITH BANG
WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP)—Harry Holstina celebrated his return from military service to the Winston-Salem Cards by pitching and hitting his team to a 10-5 victory over Danville. The big right hander hit a home run and a single in three tallies in the Class B Carolina league contest.

Lewiston Pumps Lead To Three Full Games

By The Associated Press
Lewiston combined heavy hitting and tight pitching Wednesday night for a double victory over Vancouver and opened its Western International League lead to three full games.

Manny Perez, many-year major and minor league veteran, yielded only three hits, as the Broncos rolled to a 7-2 decision in the seven-inning first game, and contributed a bases-loaded homer.

Manager Bill Brenner took the mound for the Broncos in the nine-inning nightcap, won by Lewiston 7-1. Brenner held the Caps to five safeties, while his mates jumped on two hurlers for 11, including two-run round-trippers by Clint Cameron and Ken Richardson.

END SKEIN

Edmonton's Eskimos ended Calgary's win streak at five straight, crushing the Stampede 9-4 in the afternoon game of a doubleheader, and adding a 5-4 clincher at night. Don Hunter homered with two aboard in the eighth inning of the first game to spoil a shutout for Edmonton's Don Tisnerat. John Conant spaced seven hits in the second contest to rack up his fifth win against three losses.

The Salem Senators, Spokane Indians and Yakima Bears also landed in the win column. Salem made it two-in-a-row over Wenatchee 7-1; Spokane clubbed Victoria 6-3 and Yakima trounced Tri-City 10-4.

FOUR RUNS

Salem scored single runs in the third, fourth and seventh innings.

LOVE CONNECTICUT

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Connecticut was one of the first states to set aside a portion of a trout stream for the exclusive use of fly fishermen. It now has several such areas, including a stretch of the Branford River which is for the sole use of lady fly fishermen.
