Fathers Day

All of the families shown on the page are identified with "Building the Klamath Basin"; and we are proud to have the handsome group identified with this page.

FATHERS DAY... was observed a few days early at the Paul Dalton home on the Merrill Highway, so the youngest member of the group, four months old Paul Dalton Gates could return to Manhattan Beach, Calif.; to be with his father, Rupert Louis (Bud) Gates, on the actual date.

Back of them, Mrs. William C. Dalton, and

Mrs. Paul J. Dalton. Mrs. Gates, visiting with her parents for the past two weeks has been occupied with a busy schedule of parties in her honor; and the Dalton household has been busy with callers to see the young visitor, known as "Boy" Gates.

Great-Grandfather, "W. C." Dalton is a widely known cattleman and rancher; Paul Dalton also farms; and H. H. Jenkins was in the grocery business for many years here, and is presently with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Colwell, on their Keno Road farm.

He is shown here with his two daughters, Sharon Lynne, 15, left; and Sandra Martha, 13, at their home, 1540 Eldorado. The book is the 1953 Klamath Union High School year book "El Rodeo"; brought home by Sharon, who is a sophomore at KUHS—and it recalls memories to "father", who was featured in the '22 edition as class president and valedictorian of that year's graduating class.

He was admitted from KUHS to Stanford University, where he studied medicine; and after his internship returned to Klamath Falls where he has practiced since, with the exception of overseas duty as a flight surgeon.

Sandra is in the 8th Grade. The girls' grandmother, Mrs. Sam Lord, lives in Merced.

THE FAMILY PET... Sylvester, a huge Newfoundland, occupies the foreground of this picture; with the rest of the Fred H. Beymer Jr. family back of him. From the left, Michael, 8; Kelly Lee, 18 months; Mr. and Mrs. Beymer; Becky Jo, 2 years; and Bill, 4 years.

The Beymers are all interested in horses and country life; and enjoy their home on the Merrill road, where Fred Beymer farms.

Mrs. Beymer is the former Pat Short, daughter of Mrs. Beryl Short, Homedale Road, the children's maternal grandmother. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Beymer, who operate the Anchor Hotel.

ANOTHER FARMING FATHER... is James Dayton Finchum, shown with his family grouped about him. They live near the Lakeview Junction; but a major part of their farming is done on their ranch on Lower Klamath.

In front, from the left, Coleen, 9; and Sharlene, 13. Back of Coleen, Mrs. Finchum (who was Bonnie Short and is a

Sharon is a Roundup Queen candidate, and will appear at the Queen's Ball tonight. The children's grandmother, Mrs. R. C. (Lum) Short, lives on the Crystal Springs Road.
