

LLOYD HOOD and Hell's Angel have come to the parting of the ways in this Roundup rodeo scene. That Red Cross sign perched atop the building in the left background is often a welcome if painful beacon for the rodeo performers. The building houses the first aid station.

LONGEST BASEBALL GAME

The Brooklyn and Boston Nationals played the longest baseball game on record, in Boston, on May 1, 1920. The game was called on account of darkness with a 1-1 tie, after running 26 innings.

COMMUNITY SMOKING

In the east and southeast, the Indians pierced the bowls of their peace pipes with several stem holes so that many persons might smoke at once, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Klamath's Rodeo Announcer Nationally Famed

Pete Logan, who scored as an announcer at last year's Roundup rodeo, is to be back at the mike again this year.

Logan is a big name among the nation's rodeo fans. He has handled many of the country's biggest shows at Boston, New York, Houston and San Antonio.

It took a combination of quick action and good luck to land Logan for the Klamath Roundup. At a directors' meeting last year the secretary read a letter from Logan in which he said he was going into semi-retirement and had bought a home at Medford. But, Logan wrote, he would be willing to take on a few announcing chores at rodeos not too far from home. Bob Robbins, Klamath Roundup Association president last year, talked it over with the directors a few minutes and then put through a long distance call to Logan in Medford. In a matter of minutes the deal had been closed.

Rodeo-wise persons realize that an announcer can mean the difference between a good and bad show. Many persons in rodeo audiences are not very well acquainted with rodeo activity and their enjoyment can be greatly increased by an announcer who knows his business. And experienced rodeo fans say they enjoy the show a great deal more when a good announcer is keeping the spirit high.
