Driver Squirted By Mobile Fire Extinguisher

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Ernest Boll said he was driving along early Saturday, minding his own business, when someone pulled alongside his car and squirted him in the face with a fire extinguisher.

Boll said he chased the other auto. He was just about to force him to the curb some two miles down the highway, when he got another squirt of carbon tetrachloride in the face from the extinguisher.

Boll told police he was so flabbergasted he failed to get the prankster's license number. He also decided to give up chasing him.

PUDs New Hells Canyon Pushers

BOISE (AP) — Washington and Oregon public utility districts are being urged to apply for permits to construct Hells Canyon Dam. Elmer McIntire, secretary of the Idaho State Federation of Labor, lent his support to the proposal in a statement Friday.

McIntire is a director of the newly formed National Hells Canyon Association, which he said also supports construction by the PUDs.

Hells Canyon has been the center of a long controversy between those who want the federal government to build a high dam there and those who favor the plan of Idaho Power Company to build several low-head dams.

The PUD proposal introduces a third candidate for development of that stretch of Snake River. McIntire pointed out that development by the PUD's should satisfy President Eisenhower's expressed desire for maximum local participation.

Business, Industry Pace Continues At High Level

BY T. E. APPLIGATE

NEW YORK (AP) — Business and industry are sweeping past mid-1953 at just about the same high pace they've held for several months.

Many half-year production records — in steel, automobiles, electric power, rubber products — will tumble as June ends.

Estimates put six-month output at 58 1/2 million tons of steel; 3 1/4 million passenger automobiles. There was no slackening of speed this week as the mid-year point approached. Factories hummed; retail stores reported trade volume for ahead of its 1952 level.

Here were some high spots reached in the latest week: Electric power output was the highest in history, totaling 6,329,207,000 kilowatt hours; freight carloadings of 812,578 cars were largest since last November; soft coal output of 9,875,000 tons was biggest since December, and heavy construction contract awards hit a high since January at $484,411,000.

The nation's total output of goods and services — "gross national product" — climbed to record rates well above 360 billion dollars annually.

In the face of a "hard money" policy that sent interest rates higher, business actually boosted its spending plans, indicating probable capital investment of around 28 billion dollars this year.

Many economists find a few danger signals flying as the first six months of 1953 end. They cite the following:

Consumer credit has soared beyond 25 billion dollars. Some industries like home building and machine tools have failed to show normal seasonal upturns this spring.

Some defense contracts, especially for aircraft, have been canceled with resulting lay-offs of workers.

Backlogs of orders in certain fields, such as railroad equipment, have shrunk.

Turnover of used automobiles has failed to maintain its historic position relative to new car sales.

Output of some major appliances has been curtailed.

Some companies have reduced dividend payments.

Some large plywood mills have cut the working week.

Tax Lien Held Against Russ -- Owned Estate

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — The Russian embassy offered to pay back taxes on its palatial estate here Saturday, but a Long Island resident already had paid them in a tax sale and obtained a lien on the property.

City officials said the situation was tangled but that, when unraveled, the Russians probably still would retain possession of the 28 room mansion known as "Kilnworth."

Complicating the situation, the embassy reported in the letter that it had sold the estate, but did not mention the purchaser.

The officials assumed that perhaps the embassy had transferred it back to Amtorg, the Russian trade agency, which held title to the estate before the embassy took it over.

When the title was transferred from Amtorg to the embassy several years ago, the embassy claimed the estate had diplomatic status and was non-taxable. The city rejected the claim, but the Russians did not heed the tax bills.

At the annual tax sale on various pieces of property Saturday, the back tax on the estate was listed at $2,909.85.

Joseph Harris, of Baldwin, described as a real estate investor, stepped up the money and obtained the lien.

Springfield Cops Alerted For Cougar on Prowl

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Wild animal hunting may be a new duty for city policemen if a cougar seen within the city limits shows up again.

Police made "prowl checks" of the area Friday near the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Rich, who sighted the cougar early Thursday morning.

She told police she first thought the animal was a large dog. But because she thought the beast was "a strange looking" dog, she took a "strange look" and found it to be a cougar.

She said it went back into the brush near her home.

Mt. Laki Cemetery One Of Oldest In Klamath Basin

Approval of voters in the Mt. Laki Cemetery district for a one mill levy on all taxable property within the recently created cemetery district, gives the green light for adequate maintenance to one of the earlier cemeteries in the Klamath Basin.

Mt. Laki cemetery was originally Fairview Cemetery.

In 1908 five acres of land were purchased from Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Manning to establish a cemetery. Later another five acres was purchased from the Mannings.

At this time a meeting of the citizens of the Lost River Valley community met at the home of John Koonig and organized the Fairview Cemetery Association.

First officers were the late R. C. Short, J. C. Stevenson and E. B. Lowe.

Plans at that early meeting were made to clear and fence the grounds. Donations totaling $270 were made.

Donors were Clyde Bradley, Charles Lewis, Robert Short, J. C. Ferguson, Al Bunell, Fred Sierman, Mrs. Colson, E. C. Ream, William Barks, Pine Barks, A. D. Addison, J. C. Stevenson, J. Enman, J. Koonig, W. R. Allen, S. Booth, Charles Steeman, James Jory, H. P. Phillips, George Grizzle, J. W. Manning, Mrs. La Prairie, Burrell Short, Almo Newton, S. B. Lowe, Silas Kilgore, J. R. Dixon, E. C. Kirkendall, E. W. Smith, M. C. Monson, C. Robley and Sam Summers.

In 1910 the first money spent was $2 to George Stevenson for burning brush and harrowing, and 50 cents to the LaPrairie boys for burning brush.

The first burial in the cemetery was Lena LaPrairie in 1909.

In 1934 the name was changed to Mt. Laki Cemetery and the cemetery was in charge of the Henley Grange.

In 1935 the Mt. Laki Cemetery Association was organized. In 1945 a well was drilled and electric pump installed to irrigate the grounds. Funds for the improvement program were donated by residents of the Mt. Laki and Henley communities.

This year a Mt. Laki Cemetery Maintenance District was formed. In May three directors, William Blackman, Roy LaPrairie and William Cheyne were elected. Voters approved the new levy June 22.

Improvements are to be made as funds become available.

Drastic Weed Fines Work

WEED—The drastic fines assessed drunken drivers who have been brought into the Weed Judicial District court by Judge Kenneth T. Stone are apparently having effect. For the past two weeks no motorist has appeared in this court on this charge.

However a reckless driving charge was lodged against Ralph Dave Huit, a Klamath Falls Indian, on June 16, when he ran off the road on Highway 99 and hit a tree. The impact injured a passenger in the car he was driving. The passenger was taken to the Weed hospital for emergency treatment. Huit was also charged with driving without a drivers' license. The arrest was made by California Highway Patrolman, C. Stenley.

Appearing before Judge Stone, he pled guilty to both charges and was fined $50 to 25 days in jail on the reckless driving charge and ten days in jail on the charge of failure to have a drivers' license. Unable to pay his fine, he is now serving both sentences in the Siskiyou county jail at Yreka.

The following day Delores Arlene Chester, 21, Beatty, Ore., was arrested on Highway 97 for permitting an unlicensed minor to drive her car. The arrest made by an officer of the California Highway Patrol, followed an accident in which the car left the road and plowed into a rock pile at the side of the highway. No personal injury resulted to the occupants.

When Miss Chester appeared before Judge Stone, the same day, she pled guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $15 or serve seven days in jail. She elected to serve the jail sentence, but after several days in the Weed jail, she was transferred to the county jail at Yreka. Shortly after arriving there, she paid her fine for the unserved portion of the sentence and was released.

Letter Shows Shop Interest

That the University of Oregon is interested in the annual Summer Art Workshop sponsored by the Klamath Art Association and is in agreement with local members that Klamath Falls may some day be a mecca for regular summer offerings on the campus. It would be our hope that in future years some arrangement might be made where regular summer students and staff might alternate time between Klamath Falls and the campus while doing creative work in several fields.

"Plans for the 1953 experiment (like the first earlier effort) were begun much too late to do more than assign a staff member to conduct basic work in drawing, painting, water color, etc. The University and the Extension Division feel that for another year—with a start in planning in the mid-winter period — the Klamath program might be enlarged to cover yearly opportunity to investigating art work beyond the single field of painting and its allied courses. For example, if the people of the city and area demonstrated positive interest, it might be possible to provide staffing and even some equipment for craft work in weaving or sculpture and even in ceramics. If the Klamath program can parallel the University offerings, such an extension of work could be thought of in terms of an off-campus session with inter-changeable staff and students. This broader concept for Klamath Falls cannot ever be accomplished, however, unless plans are started early enough to be considered jointly with the regular University offerings any summer.

"Assuming that the OTI facilities will continue to be made available, such a program might well serve not only the large interests in and around Klamath Falls but might also become a gathering point for change of locale so desirable for the painters of this area.

"The 1953 session should be used as a testing medium for interest and breadth for another year being only the field normally included by the area of painting. An attempt to expand into a broader program at this late date is impossible not only because of staff, but because of the regular session already scheduled on the University campus. The combined effort of university and Klamath Falls can become mutually stronger by collaboration than by competition and dilution."

The Department of Agriculture recently announced that loans on farm storage facilities are to be available to grain producers up to June 30, 1954. Under this program, grain producers may borrow up to 80 per cent of the cost of grain storage facilities from Commodity Credit Corporation. Repayment is made in up to four equal annual installments and the interest is 4 per cent.

No loans will be made to encourage the erection of commercial storage facilities.

Churchill Rest To Delay Meet

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill was ordered by his doctors Saturday to take "a complete rest" for at least a month causing the third postponement of a projected Bermuda Big Three meeting.

President Eisenhower and the new French premier, Joseph Laniel, concurred in the decision to postpone, a statement from Churchill's residence at No. 10 Downing Street said. The meeting had been scheduled to start July 8.

Aides gave insistent assurance Churchill was well but his doctors had told him in emphatic terms he must rest.

With his No. 2 man foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, convalescing from a gall bladder operation in Boston, Churchill turned over the job of running the cabinet to R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer.

A medical report signed by two doctors, Lord Moran and Sir Russell Brown, said "The Prime Minister has had no respite for a long time from his very arduous duties and is in need of a complete rest."

The conference was originally called by President Eisenhower to map common western strategy in the cold war and, on prodding by Churchill, possibly set a date for a later Big Four meeting with Russia.

Local Baby Lives After Surgery

A premature baby, 4-pound, 15-ounce son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sprinkler, was flown under oxygen, June 21, to Doernbecher Hospital, Portland for throat surgery. The three-day-old child was born without an opening from the throat to the stomach. Technical term for the extremely rare case is "an atresia of the esophagus."

Surgery is believed by Klamath Valley Hospital authorities to have been successful since the baby was still alive last night.

Chet Stinson, operator of the Stinson Flying Service, donated his plane and services, and Mrs. Lillian Shaw who administered the oxygen during the entire flight also gave her time.

The child was taken into surgery immediately upon arrival after being removed from the plane by ambulance.
