Herd Plans Meeting at Hart Site

Wild Jackasses from all over the Western states are camping at the bit waiting for the opening of the annual Order of the Antelope conclave at Hart Mountain. Water holes from Bend to Boise and from Portland to San Francisco have been cleaned and stocked in anticipation of the herd's arrival. The annex of the Blue Sky Hotel has been freshly furnished and the 4,971,308 rooms in the main section, all with Southern exposure, have been put in readiness.

This year, to facilitate reservations, the water holes have been extended to temporary reservations offices in order that your order may be in early. In Klamath Falls Wait McIntyre at the World Wide Travel Service will be on hand to take reservations, answer questions and sign up aspirants for the 18th meeting of the order.

Chief Whitetail Dick Johns announces that some 400 are expected to attend the big doings this year. The order was formed in 1922 by a group of men interested in conservation. As a result of their work Hart Mountain has been declared an antelope refuge.

Further information may be obtained from Phil Quisenberry, Grand Secretary, in Lakeview.

Weed Log Pond Cleared of Dirt

SEOU (W) - A sudden onslaught by up to 2,000 Chinese Reds Wednesday overran a 1,600-foot Lookout Mountain, throwing into reverse a South Korean drive on the blazing East-Central Front.

At the point of a bayonet, the South Koreans had driven the Chinese from Lookout in vicious night time fighting and were mopping up pockets of Reds when the counter-attack came at daylight.

Earlier, U. S. advisers at the front had said the South Koreans were being driven back by the Chinese. The South Koreans had driven the Chinese from Lookout in vicious night time fighting and were mopping up pockets of Reds when the counter-attack came at daylight.

The South Koreans had fought way up until that time, rolling back some 4,000 Chinese around Lookout and the ridge lines to the east and west where the Reds had driven southward as far as six miles in about two weeks toward the Kumsong River valley with its vital net of roads.

It was the fifth day of battle for Lookout, and both sides had committed thousands of reinforcements.

Russ Recalls E. Zone Brass

BERLIN (W) - High-ranking Soviet officers and civilians in rebellious East Germany have been suddenly recalled to Moscow, Allied sources said Wednesday.

Virtually all the former top aides of general of Army Vassily Chuikov were reported to have received the Kremlin's summons last Monday.

Their exodus came a day before the Soviet ambassadors in Washington, London and Paris, were hurriedly called home for consultations.

Chuikov ran East Germany as head of the Soviet Control Commission and commander in chief of 300,000 troops. Then his former political adviser, Vladimir Semenov, was appointed high commissioner May 28 and Chuikov assigned to military duties inside Russia.

Alleged sources said the recalled Soviet officials presumably would be asked to explain why they had not warned Moscow well in advance that a revolt of two million unarmed German workers was brewing.

Record Fourth For Crater Seen

A record number of persons are expected to visit Lake of the Woods over the Fourth of July holidays, according to the Home Owners Association. That group has issued a plea for safety.

Particular attention is called to the fact that under the law it is illegal to operate a motor boat at over 10 miles per hour within 100 feet of the shoreline. This provision was made to protect swimmers and others from injury.

A state police officer will be on duty at the lake over the holiday period to enforce all laws including boat regulations, game violations, fire laws and traffic regulations. Forest service officials will also be on duty in the lake area, and a boat patrol will be maintained on the lake.

Tunisian Prince Shot to Death

TUNIS, Tunisia (W) - Prince Azzedine Bey, heir presumptive to the throne of Tunisia, died Wednesday of a bullet wound inflicted by a Tunisian assassin.

The prince was said to be a sympathizer with the French rulers of this North African protectorate, which has been the scene of rioting and violence by nationalists seeking independence.

The assassin pumped two bullets at the 72-year-old cousin of the aging Bey of Tunis, Mohammed Al-Amin, the nominal ruler.

The attack occurred while the Bey du Cap—his official title as heir to the throne—was relaxing on his La Marsa palace, reading the morning papers.

He will not be replaced. The commission decided to divide his duties among other staff members.

Bootleg Case Falls

Tasting Stuff in Court Banned

By LYLE DOWNING. A bootlegging case against Wesley E. Ray Klamath Falls taxi driver, suddenly collapsed late Tuesday when District Judge D.E. Van Vactor refused to permit an Oregon Liquor Control Commission official to sample the evidence in the courtroom.

Judge Van Vactor upheld the defendant's contention that the prosecution had failed to prove that a bottle offered as evidence contained intoxicating liquor. The charge against Ray was dismissed. "The prosecution should have determined whether the bottle in question contained intoxicating liquor before it was brought into the courtroom," Judge Van Vactor declared. "A courtroom is no place for tasting liquor."

Wednesday morning another taxi driver, William D. Wakeman, went on trial on a charge of illegally selling a pint of whisky to an undercover agent for the state.

Wakeman, represented by Attorneys George Proctor and Edwin E. Driscoll, denied selling liquor to the agent.

First witness called by the prosecution was Dean O. Morris of Portland, who described himself as a special investigator for the Oregon Liquor Control Commission.

Morris testified that shortly after 3 a.m. May 14, he bought a pint of whisky from Wakeman near a downtown taxi stand. The bottle of alleged whisky was introduced in evidence.

Under questioning by Deputy District Attorney Joe Thalhofer, Agent Morris described how he had determined the bottle contained whisky. He said he opened the bottle and tasted the contents in the District Attorney's office shortly before the trial started.

At the trial Tuesday, Prosecutor Thalhofer asked the court to permit State Liquor Commissioner Gordon McReary to taste the alleged whisky in evidence. McReary has been directing undercover operations in this area.

Questioned after the case was dismissed concerning the failure of the prosecution to establish whether the bottle in evidence contained intoxicating liquor, McReary said: "Different judges have different ideas. In Portland you can't bring a bottle with the seal broken into court. It seems there is no objection to that in Klamath Falls."

It was expected the Wakeman case would go to the jury late Wednesday afternoon.

Strategic Peak Falls To Reds
