Red Air Arm Seen Strong

BLOXI, Miss. (P)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining said Tuesday the Communists now have enough air power and bases in Manchuria to permit a rapid concentration of much larger forces near the borders of Korea.

Or, if they chose, they could disperse their present units more widely, the new Air Force chief of staff said.

The Communists are "rotating green pilots through the Yalu training ground so rapidly," Twining said, that "most of them cannot match our fewer but more experienced pilots."

In a speech prepared for the Mississippi American Legion Convention, Twining stressed the Communists' willingness to pay a high price to give training and experience to the largest possible number of air crews.

"They are willing to lose as many as 15 in one day just for the valuable experience that the several hundred others who manage to get back to Manchuria will receive in these struggles," Twining said.

He contrasted the costly training program of the Communists with the difficulties the U. S. Air Force now has in holding trained men. The re-employment rate for the most highly skilled U. S. Air Force men is down to about 15 per cent, the general said.

Poor housing at some stations and the greater pay offered by civilian industry, Twining added, explain Air Force difficulty in holding trained personnel.

BONNEVILLE TRIMS PAYROLL
PORTLAND (P)—The Bonneville Power Administration, faced with a reduced operating budget, has fired 109 employees and Monday notified 431 others that their jobs may be abolished.

Paul J. Sawyer, Bonneville administrator, said the personnel cuts resulted from reduced funds available until final passage of the Interior Department appropriations bill.

The interim funds are based on the recommendation of the House Appropriations Committee, which wants to allow Bonneville five million dollars for operation and maintenance during the fiscal year beginning July 1. The Senate recommended seven million.

Raver added that additional job cuts probably will be made if the House figure is finally adopted.

The 109 who were dismissed July 1 were temporary employees. The 431 notified that their jobs may be abolished after 30 days, hold indefinite civil service appointments. Bonneville employs about 3,500 persons.

Plastic Bodied Auto Built
FLINT, Mich.—The American Automobile industry's first production sports car with a plastic laminated fiber glass body was completed here today as the first Chevrolet Corvette came off the line of the Chevrolet Flint Assembly Plant.

T. H. Keating, Chevrolet general manager, announced that the factory list price of the Corvette would be $3,250, including a 1953 Powerglide automatic transmission as standard equipment.

"The engineers want to keep on testing these first cars for a few thousand more miles, but it may be most important to Chevrolet's future plans to learn the amazing flexibility that is demonstrated here in working out new design ideas in plastics," said Keating.

The Corvette's 50-a-month schedule compares with more than 7,700 a day, which Chevrolet builds in steel in all its 27 manufacturing and assembly plants in 20 cities, in 10 states strategically scattered for most efficient car and truck distribution throughout the country.

Keating revealed that production will build up from this small beginning to the 50-a-month rate, and added:

"We expect to complete our original schedule of 300 Corvettes in this model year, and start getting 1,000 plastic bodied a month for the 1954 production of the Corvette."

This new type American sports car is only 33 inches high. It is powered with a stepped-up Chevrolet 1953 "Blue Flame" engine, and 1953 Powerglide automatic transmission. The production Corvette, like the show cars that have been on tour, is a two-seater painted white, with a red cockpit, and other trim in red and chrome. It is 70 inches wide, 167 inches long on a 102 inch wheelbase, and has a curb weight of approximately 2900 pounds.

'Drunkard,' 20-Years-Old, Setting All-Time Record

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (P)—Tuesday "The Drunkard" staggered into its 21st straight year of entertaining Los Angeles theater goers.

Like Ole Man River, Satchel Paige and Gloria Swanson, it just keeps rolling along.

On a warm July 6 evening in the depression year of 1933, a group of players put on an embelished melodrama that was first presented by P. T. Barnum in 1880. They performed "The Drunkard" in a small, out-of-the-way theater that first nighters had trouble locating.

The first performance was cheered by the audience, but then it consisted largely of the performers' friends.

On the second night, five tickets were sold.

But "The Drunkard" began to gain in popularity, thanks to the talk of pleased patrons plus some advertising. Theatrical historians now have to change their records ever year.

"The Drunkard" has lasted longer than any show in memory of man. The New York record is held by "Life With Father" with 3,212. "The Drunkard's" 7450 performances as of last night make "Father" seem like a boy.

Operating this amazing enterprise is one of the few female theatrical producers in the country. She is Mildred Ise, a businesslike woman with two grown sons and a devotion to "The Drunkard." She was a tyro to show business when some friends interested her in helping to put on the show in 1933. She did it as a lark, never believing it would end up as a lifetime venture.

"We thought it might go for a month or six weeks," she recalled. "But it just wouldn't stop."

Mrs. Ise, whose husband is a telephone company official and also a fan of the show, said "The Drunkard's" elements of success were a matter of circumstances.

"We had planned to put on the show in a theater," she recalled, "but we couldn't find one. Finally we came across the Theater Mart, which had been used for little theater attractions. The only trouble was that it had a flat floor and plain chairs. You couldn't ask people to sit that way, but they wouldn't mind if they sat at tables."

"If we had tables, we had to put something on them. That's how we happened to serve refreshments."

"At first we merely put on the melodrama, doing it in the same manner as it was originally presented. The trouble was that people wouldn't go home. They were having such a good time they wanted to stay. So we started the olio, or vaudeville show. The people enjoyed that so much that they wanted to sing. We started the community sing at each performance."

Mrs. Ise is constantly pumping adrenalin into the run-soaked "Drunkard." New numbers and performers are often added to the olio, which account for the large number of repeaters in the audience.
