Warden Gladden Praised For Ending Riot; He, In Turn, Praises Guards

By PAUL W. HARVEY Jr.
SALEM (AP) — I didn't feel good as I walked along the prison wall where more than a thousand convicts shuffled slowly toward a fenced enclosure.

There was little sound. The men just turned and walked toward the north wall. Behind them were a score of guards, their rifles and shotguns ready.

I was on the wall where state police moved with their rifles—snapping down.

I went along at a slow march. It felt as though I was walking miles but it was only about a third of a mile then.

Through the night, though, I did walk miles. I was out on the wall occasionally, then back to the control room.

The convicts at one time got pretty noisy in the dining room.

For awhile, after it came, things seemed quiet and I talked of getting to bed.

Then, what?

I had just phoned my office in Portland, as I had done at intervals through the night, to relay the latest word when someone ran in to report tear gas fired and flames showing up.

I grabbed back to the phone and I understood we had the story on the main wires minutes after it happened.

Then came the swift work of the guards in driving the men to the enclosure at the north wall.

Warden Gladden, a 23-year veteran of the federal prison system, said he never had seen such magnificent work as was done by the police and the guards.

The thing that seemed marvelous to me was that no one, as far as I know right now, got hurt.

Plane Downed Near Albany

ALBANY, Ore. (AP) — A private plane crashed on a farm in the Clover Ridge district, six miles north of here, about 10:30 a. m. Saturday and the pilot was taken to Salem Memorial Hospital, where he was identified as Willard D. Eggers.

The hospital said he suffered a fractured arm and back injuries. His condition was not considered serious. The hospital said Eggers resided in Salem (1120 Lee St.) but was an employe of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. at Eugene. He was on a plane circling before it crashed in a hay field. ## Tulelake Fire Rates Will Drop If Water Vote Passes

TULELAKE — Approval of the proposed $145,000 water bond issue by the voters at next Tuesday's election will lower the city's fire insurance rate from 14 to 24 per cent for property owners, dropping it from the present Class 7 to Class 6.

The drop in masonry building will be 14 per cent, 17 on frame dwellings and 24 per cent on frame business buildings.

Information on the prospective drop was furnished by the Board of Fire Underwriters.

The total sum being asked by the city will include $27,000 spent for deepening the present well, for drilling an auxiliary well and for construction of a storage tank.

At the time that drilling was undertaken to deepen the well last Spring, water being furnished for human consumption was declared by the State Board of Health to be contaminated. This flow has been eased off and clear, pure water is now available.

The city council anticipates no raise in water rates but rather a reduction as users increase demands.

Every registered voter within the established limits of the city of Tulelake is eligible to vote. This includes also those living in all additions.

Folls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Tulelake City Hall, 470 C Street between Main and Fourth Streets. Those who plan to be out of town on election day may vote by absentee ballots now available at the city hall.

LOOKS DECEIVE—Did you ever see a milder or less bellicose face? Well, don't let looks fool you. He is Sgt. David B. Bleak, of Shelby, Ida., a medic who received the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism in Korea. All Bleak did was leap into an enemy trench and kill three Reds in hand-to-hand combat, as he attempted to rescue a wounded buddy. Then carrying the wounded GI down a hill while wounded himself, the 250-pound Bleak stopped a bayonet attack by two enemy soldiers by bashing their heads together with his bare hands.

Senate Votes AEC Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted more than five billion dollars Friday to finance the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) and three other government agencies during the year which began July 1.

The measure, largest money bill to come before the Senate this year, brings to eight the number of appropriations bills passed by the Senate.

Of the 13 needed to run the federal government, the House has passed 11.

The Senate bill approved Friday voted these amounts: $3,861,000,000 for the Veterans Administration; $1,057,781,000 for the AEC; $180,721,000 for the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA), and $23,382,400 for the selective service system.

The total is more than one billion dollars less than the amount asked by President Truman.

The bill carried 45 million dollars less than a companion measure passed by the House.

This difference will have to be compromised with the House in a conference committee composed of members of both branches.

Senate Tighter On Crop Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders sought speedy approval Saturday of a tighter limit on wheat acreage planting than the House has already voted.

The legislation involves a nationwide ballot of wheat farmers on government controls, the level of government price supports for wheat — and, indirectly, possibly the votes of many farmers in next year's congressional elections.

Acting Republican Leader Knowland of California promised Senate action on the bill Saturday.

Chairman Alben (B-Vt.) got the Senate Agriculture Committee to approve a 61 million acre quota late Friday. This is five million acres less than was voted by the House.

Unless the Senate and House reach agreement on a measure in time for President Eisenhower to sign it by next Wednesday, Secretary of Agriculture Benson must announce a much lower planting limit — 55 million acres — for next year.

This figure is required by the present law which authorizes government price supports for wheat and other basic crops. When a surplus exists, planting allotments and marketing quotas must be ordered by the secretary. The marketing quotas are subject to the farm referendums.
