Swimming Pool Ducks Of Imogene Coca Brought Ills

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Things just sort of happened to Imogene Coca. Take her pet, she rented a Brentwood mansion for the summer and the swimming pool looked lonely. So she bought a couple of ducks and called them Millard and Grover, after the 13th and 22nd U. S. Presidents. Now her house guest is sick in bed with a virus which the doctor says may have been carried by the ducks.
Then there is Ned French poolie. He was named Apry because he was supposed to be apricot-colored. One elbow turned out that way. The rest of the dog is a washed-out white.
The co-star of "Your Show of Shows" is spending her vacation on TV in a huge home that once belonged to Milton Sills. "The rooms are so big they make my ears pop," says the constantly beleaguered Miss Coca, who is here with her husband, Robert Burton.
Why did she come to California? That's another example of the Coca complex.

"I knew our producer, Max Leibman, was coming out here, and I thought Sid (Caesar) would too," she explains. "I thought it would be a wonderful opportunity to plan next season's shows. So then Sid decided to go to Westport, Conn. And on the day I arrived, Max left town for 12 days."
But there was another reason for her journey. She wanted to come back to Hollywood as a winner.
"I had played here twice before," she remarked. "and both times was not too successful. The first time was when I was appearing with Jules Munshin as part of George Olson's show at the Palomar dance palace. It burned down the week after we left."
"Then about five years ago, I appeared at a place on the Strip called La Papiillon. It wasn't a very good engagement; the audience was too chic or something. Anyway, the place went broke a few weeks after I left."

See what I mean about things happening to Imogene?
The comedienne is more subdued than her TV personality and a good deal prettier in person. Maybe is the California tan. We discussed the plans for "Your Show of Shows" in the fall.

"It's going to be much different," she said. "I don't know all the changes, because Max hasn't made up his mind yet. But he is lining up some big Hollywood names to appear with us, and we will have some new gimmicks. Most of the supporting acts will not be back, except as occasional visitors."

Jodays Women

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—The long-suffering figure of the U. S. woman must take another beating this year if she is to fit into the new skin-tight fall clothes.
Gone are the concealing full skirts, the padded hipples, the comfortable crinolines. The new silhouette is narrow and straight as a knife, skin-tight around the midriff, revealing every line of the figure.
Visiting fashion editors viewing the New York collections this week have been impressed with the fact that the new season should mean a field day for girdle manufacturers and reducing salons. As one weary editor put it:
"Here we go again, girls! Pass up that potato and deny that dessert. This is the starvation silhouette."
Girdle and bra manufacturers, who gathered in New York for their annual market week just before the current National Press Week fashion showings, were jubilant over prospects of a land-office business this fall.
New long-line bras and high-line girdles will be a recognized necessity with the new tight-midriff dresses. Designers rushed to adjust their foundation silhouettes to the new mode in time to exhibit them to buyers. Many bras have elastic midriff sections, to mold the rubber-tire area of the feminine figure into the required flatness. Many girdles are built with a high-waisted line reaching almost to the bust, for the same purpose.

Typical of the straight-and-narrow lines that predominate throughout the fall market is the collection of Harvey Berin, shown to the fashion press at the beginning of a crowded week of style previews.
Berin, a perfectionist, carves boucle tweeds to stiletto slimmess, shows them in a series of tailored dresses as crisp and decisive as an exclamation point. He trims them with small crisp white pique collars, adds a touch of black velvet or a black string tie for accent and eliminates any other distraction which might break the uncluttered line. "The result is clean as a whistle, and destined to establish a new streamlined trend.
In addition to its change in silhouette, the new season is notable for the luxury of fabrics and trimmings. In a coronation year, U. S. fashions are as lush as might be expected in England, keyed to a note of elegance. Fur trimmings and linings, jewel embroidery, beading and sequins are all over the place. And strangely enough, they manage to remain in good taste.

Coating window screens with exterior oil will stop gnats and other small insects attracted by lamps inside the house. The oil makes mesh openings smaller, gums up the bugs when they try to squeeze through. Clean the screen with turpentine when bug season slackens.

If you would paint comfortably, hold your brush so that a free and easy wrist movement can be coordinated with the movement of your arm and body. Hold the brush firmly, yet lightly, and keep the pressure uniform. This keeps the bristles from wearing down unevenly.
