

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat shook off early hesitancy and moved up a couple of cents on the oar of trade Monday, lending some support to an otherwise ragged grain market.

Wheat's upturn was accompanied by active dealings. A large elevator house was a good buyer, as were local floor traders. Smaller cash wheat arrivals, than a week ago, reports of stem rust in spring wheat and only limited hedging pressure helped the grain advance.

Other cereals weakened early, some selling being pinned on the news from Korea, but much of the ground lost early was recovered in sympathy with the advance in wheat. Corn and soybeans met occasional pressure as more rain fell in parts of the Midwest.

Wheat closed 1/2-3/4 higher, July $1.97 1/4, corn 1/4 lower to 3/4 higher, July $1.55 1/2-1.56, oats unchanged to 1/4 higher, July 74 3/4-75 1/4, soybeans 3/4 lower to 1/2 higher, July $2.71, and lard 7 to 20 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $11.17.

Seattle Times Still Struck

SEATTLE (AP)—The strike of the American Newspaper Guild (CIO) against The Seattle Times continued for the fifth day Monday.

The amount of wage increases was the main issue.

The strike has left this city of half a million without an afternoon newspaper. The management announced indefinite suspension of publication the first day of the strike as printers and pressmen observed the picket line and stayed outside. No news conferences have been scheduled.

The Times has offered a general increase of 3.5 per cent to news and office workers covered by the Guild negotiations, with 5.8 per cent for some, such as reporters with more than six years' experience.

The Guild has demanded 7.8 per cent and has insisted on retroactivity to March 21, when the old contract expired. The Times has offered it to June 1.

The existing scale ranges up to a minimum contract level of $102 weekly for reporters and $110 for desk men and some others.

sponsibility on the Senate" for the investigations of its committees. He said he regarded this as necessary in view of the sharp criticism some of them have aroused.

The proposed amendment to the rules, before becoming effective, would have a clear the Rules Committee headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) and then win the approval of the Senate itself.

Verbal sparring continued, meanwhile, between McCarthy and the three Democrats who resigned from his subcommittee July 10 in a revolt against what they called one-man rule. The GOP majority had voted to give McCarthy sole power to hire and fire staff members.

McCarthy last week wrote each of the Democrats saying, "The door is open for your return." In separate letters made public Saturday night, the Democrats—Senators McClellan of Arkansas, Symington of Missouri and Henry Jackson of Washington—wrote him they had seen nothing to indicate any change of attitude on his part that would justify them in rejoining the subcommittee.

McCarthy, on an NBC television program yesterday, said the Democrats had raised a "phony issue" and actually feared their political futures would be jeopardized if they had a hand in what he termed exposure by his group of graft and corruption in the Truman administration.

"The better job the committee does the more abuse we will have to take," McCarthy said.

Symington fired back a statement.

"Most of Sen. McCarthy's recent investigations and plans for investigation had to do with matters concerning the Eisenhower administration. If my concept of politics followed those of Sen. McCarthy for partisan, political exploitation there would be good reason for my remaining on the committee."

Jackson commented in a statement: "As for graft and corruption, it's interesting to note that the chairman has failed to initiate investigations in this direction."

McClellan said the only issue was whether McCarthy should have sole power to hire and fire staff members.

McCarthy's all-Republican subcommittee deferred any attempt to subpoena a CIA official last Tuesday after conferring with the agency's director, Allen Dulles.
