

Braves Wallop Giants, 13-0

Mathews Pounds 2 Homers

If the Brooklyn Dodgers play close to .500 ball on their 13-game Western road trip opening today in Chicago, the home office will be sorely tempted to start having World Series tickets printed.

The Dodgers begin their third Western swing with a seven-game bid over the Milwaukee Braves and the deep-rooted conviction that the only serious challenger between them and the pennant is fourth-place New York.

The Giants went West with high hopes, too, but they got off to a dreadful start last night in Milwaukee where the given-up-for-dead Braves buried them under a 13-0 count.

For the Dodgers, the West this year has proved just as wild and woolly as the storybooks claim. Brooklyn won only three out of eight games on its first journey West. On their second trip the Dodgers won six and lost eight. But it was on that second tour that the Dodgers finished up with three straight over Milwaukee and moved into the league lead they've held ever since.

Medford Pro In NW Lead

VANCOUVER, Wash. (P) — A cool Medford, Ore., pro solved the secrets of the Royal Oaks course here Monday to card a six-under-par 66 and take the lead in the opening round of the $2,400 Northwest Open Golf Tournament.

Al Williams' blazing 66 gave him a two-stroke lead over Leo Gaulocher of Olympia, another professional. Williams toured the course on nine and nine and routed the back nine with 31. Gaulocher took 35 going out and 33 coming in.

Oregon amateur champion Bruce Cudd gained a tie for third place in the tourney and top spot among the simon-pures with a 35-34-69. Knotted with Cudd in the 69 bracket were two professionals, Joe Steiger, Eugene, 35-34, and Cliff Whittle, La Grande, 33-36.

Another 18-hole qualifying round was scheduled Tuesday, with the top 50 and ties entering the 36-hole final Wednesday.

O'Brien Twins Add Zip to Bucs

By JOHN McCALLUM
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—While big names of baseball tolled in the obscure minors to reach the major leagues, Eddie and Johnny O'Brien hopped directly from the Seattle University campus to the Pirates.

The 21-year-old O'Briens' ascendancy parallels that of Frank Frisch. Watching them, the Old Fordham Flash sees more than the first identical twins to crash the big show. In their play around second base, he sees himself breaking in again.

"Tremendous enthusiasm, that's what they've got," testifies the man who leaped directly from Fordham to the Giants in 1919. "I thought it went out of style with the G. H. House Gang, but these kids are bringing it back."

"Hustle! They move on and off the field so fast that they're sitting on the bench before the catcher can even turn around. If we had more O'Briens around it'd stop those drawn-out, dreary four-hour games."

"Their gameness, courage and tenacity exemplify the money player instinct."

Despite the fact they lack the polished artistry of seasoned stars, they are natural born competitors. Aggressiveness can carry you a long way.

"When I broke in with the Giants I batted cross-handed, over-ran grounders and in general had to be taught the basics. Only my speed and hustle kept me in the line-up."

"It's too early to say how far the O'Briens will go, but no one's going to out-hustle them. They're the kings in that department."

Fred Haney will go along with the Hall-of-Fame second baseman. The Pirates are the same old Pirates, but no one is faulting them on hustle. The O'Briens of South Amboy, N.J., see to that.

"The twins have the whole club giving it the college try," relates Manager Haney. "You'd think a World Series hinged on every game, very unusual for a last-place team."

Does the Pittsburgh pilot have much trouble telling the twins apart?

"The only way I can tell 'em apart," he grins, "is that Eddie is a half inch shorter than Johnny."

Eddie was an outfielder in college, Johnny a second baseman. Branch Rickey decided to convert Eddie into a shortstop when he signed the pair. Watching the kids work out, a writer asked which was which. Just then Eddie got down on one knee, the ball skidding between his legs.

"Now you know which O'Brien was the outfielder," he was told. But Eddie quickly turned out to be a remarkable shortstop.

Haney says the boys already have established themselves as infielders, and they're hardly All-America outs.

The O'Briens received a telephone call from Al Brightman, their basketball coach at Seattle.

"Fellas," he said, "congratulate me. I've just become the father of twins!"

Everybody around the O'Brien look-alikes sees double.

JOHNNY AND EDDIE ... twin carburetors

Local Firm Makes New Fish Lure

The manufacture of a new fishing lure, the "Combo-Lure," has been started in Klamath Falls and is now on sale at most local sporting goods firms.

Inventors Gordon Morris and Bud Adkins of this city said the new lure is an interchangeable device that makes up into practically any combination. For $10 over 2,000 combinations can be obtained—or for 95 cents by the individual piece.

Designed for spin fishing, the body of the "Combo-Lure" is of Zamac dye cast material and weighs one-sixth of an ounce. Flies, either bucktail or streamer type, are tied on a two-inch shank. The body fits on the shank and is removable.

The attachments, which are easily plugged into the body, consist of "frog legs" with flashers or streamers attached, a brass wobblers, and 12 different patterns of flies. In all there are 18 different body patterns, all interchangeable.

Adkins and Morris, both fishermen, claim the new lure is a tried and proven "game getter" on all types of fish.

The new manufacturing company is located at 1040 East Main, employs between six and 10 women who assemble the lures, paint the bodies and card and package the lure after assembly.

Plans for a plastic body lure that is light enough for stream fishing with a fly pole and for a plastic body salmon lure have been worked out by the company, with manufacture to start in the near future.

The third member of the corporation is Einar (Scotty) Berge.

Spokane Climbs On Ogle's HR

By The Associated Press
Jerry Ogle's two-run homer in the eighth inning gave Spokane a 4-3 Western International League baseball victory over Vancouver Monday night and pulled the Indians within two games of winning the pennant.

Ogle's round-tripper with Tom Munoz bases-empty homer off Earl Dollins in the third inning proved to be the deciding run for Wenatchee as the Chiefs turned back Victoria 8-5. Wenatchee scored five runs in the first inning but the Tyees came back with a five-run uprising in the third. The Chiefs collected their last two tallies in the sixth.

Playing Manager Gene Lillard homered for Calgary in the seventh inning at Edmonton but the Eskimos tied the count in their half, and won the game 3-2 with a three-run outburst in the eighth. Credit for the win went to Ray McNulty, his 11th in 16 starts.

The three games were the league's only scheduled contests. Salem returns to action Tuesday night at Yakima and Lewiston opens a three-game series at Tri-City.

New Salmon Rule Eyed

SEATTLE (P) — Robert Schoettler, State Game Department director, said Saturday his biologists are studying a plan under which fishermen would be required to throw back any salmon less than 15 inches in length.

Twelve inches is the present minimum, except in some rivers. Schoettler said the plan, designed to give more protection to immature salmon, would be presented to the Pacific Marine Fisheries Association this fall. A favorable decision by the association would mean a uniform regulation for the three coast states.

Simmons, Dean In Fame Hall

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (P) — Dizzy Dean and Al Simmons are gone and the baseball brass has moved back to the city but two new shiny plaques hung in the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum Tuesday.

Dean and Simmons were inducted formally Monday at ceremonies held in front of the museum. Each accepted personally, calling it the greatest honor he ever received.

Old Diz, now a professional radio and TV man, glibly expressed his thanks to the baseball writers, officials and players who helped him.

"The good Lord was good to me," he said. "Gave me a good right arm, strong back and a weak mind."

PORTLAND (P) — Howard Bonar, professional at Alderwood Country Club, will become pro at Waverly Country Club here soon.

He will succeed Ted Longworth who is resigning to devote full time to a golf cart business. The Alderwood club is disbanding and the course is being taken over for expansion of the Portland airport.
