Along Nature's Trail By Ken McLeod

Calling all Sportsmen — The Mount Shasta Rod and Gun Club, the Klamath River Sportsmen and the Klamath Modoc Chapter of Yreka are to act as hosts to a working sportsmen group for a "Bitter Brush Seed Gathering Day," set for Sunday, August 16, 1953. The Klamath-Modoc Chapter of the Isaac Walton League and the Nature Society of the Klamath Region will also participate in the project and the invitation is extended to other organizations here in the Klamath Basin to join in the undertaking.

Bitter Brush is one of the prime deer foods and every seed we can get might mean carrying another animal through a severe winter. Seed collected will be used by botanists of California's Department of Fish and Game to help rejuvenate the depleted winter range of the Devil's Garden area used by both California and Oregon deer. Some seed will be used in a "hunter-planting" program as is done by the Johnny Grass Seed project of the Isaac Walton League.

Sportsmen who have griped a lot about nothing being done to conserve the winter deer range are being offered an opportunity to do something for the betterment of the sport of deer hunting other than sitting on the sidelines and being sour. It is our hope that we will be able to have delegations from Isaac Walton League Chapters of Ashland and Medford and other sports groups from "Easy Valley."

If you will bring the family and a picnic lunch our hosts will furnish the coffee. Those who gather seed will need a pair of gloves. The work starts anytime you get there after 9 a.m. that Sunday. After the seeds are gathered there will be a general "get together" to become acquainted. A couple of speakers are scheduled to tell hopes of getting an active range rehabilitation program in actual operation.

The seed gathering place is rather indefinite at the moment as the exact spot will depend upon ripening seed conditions. However we do know that it will take place somewhere between the Mt. Hebron Summit and the Tennant road on Highway 97—Klamath Falls to Weed Highway. The Base Camp will be right on the highway so you can not miss finding the location.

If you enjoy deer hunting, and want to do something in the furtherance of the sport you can lend a helping hand in this great project, besides you will have an opportunity of getting acquainted with the boys of the Mt. Shasta region and elsewhere.

Administration's 'Good Start' Home and Abroad Cited by Ike

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower staked out a claim today that his administration has made "a good start" toward building an honest, efficient regime at home while exerting its power in the cause of world peace.

But Eisenhower conceded that his administration has by no means "seen and conquered all the problems of our nation" in its first six months.

In an all-out radio address to the American public last night, the chief executive declared this to be his "single, supreme purpose."

"To serve and to strengthen our people, all our people, in their faith in freedom and in their quest of peace; and to strengthen all peoples who share with us that faith and that quest."

It was a let's-take-a-look-at-the-record address, much of it already said before but brought up to date and keyed to last Monday's adjournment of Congress.

In it, he mentioned an even dozen actions by Congress — on such items as revised programs for defense and aid to America's allies, admission of refugees, lifting of economic controls, extension of needed "omnibus" taxes.

Even though the executive and legislative branches have had their differences, Eisenhower said, good will between them has been built up rapidly and firmly.

Overseas, he said, there has been the fostering of Western unity. U. S. food shipments to rebellious East Germans, and a Korea truce in which "two precious victories" have been gained.

An opportunity has been won, he said, to demonstrate that free people can build in peace as boldly as they fight in war. And, in an apparent warning to Russia not to start anything elsewhere, he said Korea has shown "that the collective resolve of the free world can and will meet aggression in Asia — or anywhere in the world."

What it all adds up to, the chief executive said, is "only a little more than a beginning." And it was with caution and concern that he peered into a future he said is still filled with trial and hazard.

In effect, if not actual intent, the speech was a comeback at those Democrats who have been saying the administration record is far from impressive up to now.

House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas said only yesterday that the only 1952 campaign promise the GOP has kept was that of "hard money" — they have "made it harder to get."

Immediate reaction to the Eisenhower address was almost entirely lacking among members of Congress. Many have gone home. Several senators said they had not tuned in. Some who listened declined to comment.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) did call the speech "a pretty good job and a good review of legislation passed." He said it showed that "the foundation has been laid for better things to come in the next session."

Eisenhower did not touch on some of the legislation he requested, such as Hawaiian statehood and a postage rate boost, which Congress put off at least until its next session. Nor did he discuss an administration-backed resolution, buried by Congress, to condemn Russia for enslaving free peoples in violation of Big Power pacts.

He did say recommendations will be ready, when Congress comes back, for putting 10 1/2 million more people under social security, for revising the Taft-Hartley labor relations law, and for overhauling the tax structure.

There was a hint of a special session in a reference to "the possibility of our having to raise" the limit on the nation debt "later this year." He blamed the Truman administration for "the weight of obligations, made two and three years ago."

While his administration delayed lowering or removing taxes, the chief executive said, "We did not delay in cutting deep into governmental expenditures."

He and Congress, Eisenhower said, teamed up in cutting the Truman budget by nearly 13 billion dollars.

Seattle Lights Knocked Out

SEATTLE (AP) — Failure of power line leading from Diablo Dam to Seattle threw the city into darkness and virtually paralyzed transportation and industry from 18 to 30 minutes Thursday evening.

The power break started at 7:42 and service was not restored completely until 8:10. City Light officials said it was caused by the grounding of a line somewhere north of the city. Cause of the grounding was not learned immediately, it was believed it might have been caused by lightning.

Lights everywhere in the city went out, including those in the big Boeing Airplane Co. plant and other industries operating night shifts. Street and traffic lights also failed, resulting in a quick tie-up of traffic on downtown streets.

Governors of most of the nation's states and territories, celebrating the conclusion of the national Governors' Conference in the downtown Olympic Hotel, were without lights for 20 minutes but the darkness had little effect on the gala party.

Service was restored gradually, with the first sections of the city getting lights at 8 o'clock.

Police Cases Lag Last Year's
WASHINGTON (AP) — New infantile paralysis cases reported by the states are still increasing but for weeks now they have fallen considerably below those in the comparable period a year ago.
