

SHARON ASH AND PAUL FLURRY JR., were united in the holy sacrament of matrimony in a 4 o'clock ceremony read in Sacred Heart Catholic Church August 16. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ash; her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Flurry Sr., of Yoncalla.

Afternoon Nuptials Read For Sharon Ash, Paul Flurry

Sharon Ash became Mrs. Paul Flurry Jr. in nuptial rites in Sacred Heart Catholic Church August 16. The Rev. William S. Stone read the service at 4 o'clock that afternoon before an altar banked with bouquets of pink and white gladioli.

The bride was dressed in a white ballerina length gown of nylon net and lace over satin with a lace bolero. Her fingertip veil was fastened to a crown decorated with seed pearls. A bouquet of pink rosebuds was placed on her white prayer book. She was given in marriage by her father, Clyde Ash.

Preceding the bride up the aisle was her matron of honor, Mrs. Joe Nork who wore a gown of ballerina length Nile green lace over taffeta with matching bolero and cloche cap of nylon net. Her bouquet was of rust colored gladioli.

Standing as best man was Al Nanaman, a friend of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother was dressed in a white summer suit with red and white accessories. Red roses on her shoulder completed the outfit. For the wedding Mrs. Flurry Sr. wore an afternoon dress of green nylon with white accessories and red roses.

The young couple received their guests at the home of the bride in the Wocus district. Mrs. Chester Muncie cut and served the wedding cake; Mrs. Robert Johnson poured; Mrs. Larry Wilkinson was in charge of the guest book.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ash, Wocus; her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Flurry Sr., Yoncalla.

For her wedding trip to Phoenix, Arizona, Los Angeles and points south, the new Mrs. Flurry donned a light blue faille suit with white accessories. She wore the roses from her wedding bouquet on her shoulder.

The young couple will make their temporary home in Alaska where Paul is stationed with the Army.
