CROCHETED HOOD-STOLE 176 Another of the stoles which are stealing the spotlight on every possible scene—summer evening parties, terraces, beaches, stratosphere airliners—is a real beauty! Crocheted in a knot stitch in chenille or wool in either light or dark colors, the stole may be drawn up over the head as a light hood when driving at night, whenever breezes blow! Make it in wool for later in the season and line the hood section with 2-3 yard of self-color chiffon, jersey or lightweight wool for a very practical addition to your autumn wardrobe. Send 25c for the lightweight hood-stole (Pattern No. 176) complete crocheting instructions for two versions (summer and winter), your name, address, pattern number to Carol Curtis, Herald and News, Box 222, Madison Square Station, New York 10, N.Y. Patterns ready to fill orders immediately. For special handling of order via first class mail include an extra 50c per pattern.

Upset Tummies Is How Come British Don't Ice Highballs By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Among the things you can find out from Richard Todd is the state of the British film industry and why the English don't ice their highballs. Todd is the handsome young Irishman who first attracted interest in this country in "The Hasty Heart," for which he won an Academy nomination in 1949. Since then he has made three costume epics for Walt Disney, the latest being "Rob Roy," which he recently finished in Scotland. The actor is here for a social and publicity whirl, and I nabbed him for a lunch. We discussed a variety of topics, and I guess I'd better put the more significant ones first. Like how the film business is faring in England. "It seems to be getting into better shape," said Todd. "I don't mean that there is more work, because there isn't. The trend has been toward fewer jobs in the industry. But the business itself is getting on a more stable basis. While less pictures are being made, less money is being lost. Pictures are being made more economically and have a better chance to show a profit." Todd is under contract to Associated British, which isn't as well known as the J. Arthur Rank operation. "While Rank would be losing a couple of million a year,

New Sawmill Law Explained SALEM (AP) - Forest operators were warned Saturday that a new law requires that a permit be obtained from the state forester before a sawmill may be built in any forest area. The Forestry Department said the permit requirement was put in the law covering various forest matters in an effort to reduce mill-caused fires. The site must be approved by a forestry officer before a construction permit may be issued.

Conductor Dies Amid 'Madame Butterfly' SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Gaetano Merola, 72, colorful founder and musical director of the San Francisco Opera Company, collapsed and died yesterday while conducting an outdoor concert by the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Leading a selection from "Madame Butterfly," one of his favorites, he pitched forward at the feet of his musicians.

Associated British would be making a couple of million," he said. "But the British film industry owes a great deal to Rank. He came in with a lot of money and made important pictures. He raised the status of our films in the world market." Todd is here with his wife, who has been suffering from what he calls "an upset tummy." "The same thing always happens when we come out here," he said, referring to the United States. "Both of us get upset tummys and I think I know what causes it—the ice in the drinks." This brought up what Americans consider the curious English custom of serving drinks at room temperature. "Mind you, we do ice some of our drinks," Todd remarked. "The long drinks—those with gin or rum—are usually served with ice. But I would never put ice in whisky or brandy at home. They are at their best at room temperature. The cooler you make them, the less flavor and aroma you get." American GIs in England had the common complaint about "warm beer." Todd defended his countrymen on that score: "The best beers are the dark, malty ones, and they taste best when not cold. Of course, it is all right to chill the light beers which Americans seem to favor." But he had little regard for that type. People DO Read SPOT ADS -you are!
