Yanks Could Wrap It Up Today

Oregon Tech Scores Mighty Ramblers

Series Goes to Yankee Stadium

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK — It's almost a sure thing these days that the two World Series teams will play themselves one awful game along about midway, the shortage of really good pitchers being what it is, and the Yankees and Dodgers turned theirs in yesterday.

The final score was 11-7 in favor of the Yankees, which meant that the American League went into today's sixth and possibly final game leading by three victories to two.

The four-time-straight world champions were back in their own park in the Bronx with their crack young left-hander, Whitey Ford, on the mound. The Dodgers, needing desperately to win this one, were relying on their new World Series strikeout king, Carl Erskine.

Considering his brilliant exploit of only three days ago, when he fanned 14 Yankees and beat them by 3-2, Erskine looked like a very good bet to knot the playoff at 3-3 and send it into its binding game tomorrow. But Charlie Dressen, the Brooklyn manager, was ready to shoot the works.

NO SAVING
"If he's needed, Preacher Roe will be ready to relieve," he said last night. "I would like to save him to start the seventh inning, but I won't be saving anybody when these games are playing out the way they are now. I worked with him only three days rest not long ago, thinking about this, and the Preach looked all right."

There was much opinion that the Yanks had more to worry about today than the Dodgers had. Few who watched Erskine throttle the champs two days ago and who saw what angry, humiliated athletes there were later in the dressing room could imagine that they would give the handsome right-hander trouble. Broke they could easily imagine the Brooks' right-handed power taking great chunks out of Ford again.

ONE INNING

Ford lasted only one inning when he started the fourth game at Ebbets Field.

Dressen had his right-handed explosives planted again today, with Jackie Robinson hitting third and Roy Campanella fourth. Duke Snider, left-handed hitter, was down in the sixth slot, below Gil Hodges. Charlie was very confident that his right-hand array would knock Ford loose.

Six home runs were hit in all yesterday, but there is some doubt that any one of them would have been a home run in Yankee Stadium, where there is room for balls to travel in left field. The guess here is that five would have been long outs at the stadium and that Mickey Mantle's grand slammer in the third inning would have been a triple over Jackie Robinson's head.

SLOPPY

Yesterday's game was a sloppy contest. Each club made six errors. The Yankees scored five times in the third inning after they should have been out and Johnny Podres, the juvenile who started pitching for the Dodgers, should have been out of trouble.

With two Yanks away, Podres got Collins, the first baseman, to slap a ball sharply down the line. Gil Hodges muffed it beautifully, letting a run across. The Yankees proceeded to hit the next batter and walk the bases full.

Dressen replaced him with temperamental Russ Meyer, who had been warming up since the game began. The bases were loaded and the latter not having been able to hit a baseball with a baselid in his most recent attempts.

Meyer came in overhand with his first pitch. Mantle, who had been hit on his throwing hand and sorely hurt in pregame batting practice, knuckled it far and away into the upper deck in left field. That made the score 6-1, and what ever happened after that was pretty much lost in the shuffle.

LEAD 9-2

By the end of the seventh inning the Yanks were leading 9-2, partly on the strength of Billy Martin's two-run homer in that chapter. They were 10-2 by the time the Dodgers finally laid into Jim McDonald for four runs in the last of the eighth, mainly on Billy Cox's three-run, line-drive homer just over the left barrier. The point had been reached where there was some surprise that a ball remained inside the bandbox park.

What little drama there was saved for the last of the ninth. Junior Gilliam led it off with another punch over the left railing, leaving the Dodgers only four runs in arrears. Peeewe Reese followed with a fly out to left, but Snider punched a clean single to right.

That brought Casey Stengel bowlegging it out from the bench and waving toward the Yankee bullpen. In came Allie Reynolds to pitch to Jackie Robinson, and two more Yank pitchers promptly began warming up. Nobody knew, actually, whether Allie's back, badly bent in the first game, had recovered sufficiently for him to pitch.

Turned out it had. The Chief missed a couple outside, and then came in with one that Robby smashed viciously toward Billy Martin at second. Billy got right down on the ground to take it, tossed to Phil Rizzuto to start a double play and the game was over.

On the last play of the game, Kimpton threw to McGill for a touchdown, the play covering 55 yards. Conversions were made by Linman and McGill.

Jayvees Lose To Alturas

By LARRY BARLEEN

Alturas staged a third-quarter march that covered 45 yards to whip the Klamath junior varsity, 6-0, Saturday on Modoc Field.

Alturas drove to Klamath's four-yard line late in the game but the final gun ended this threat.

The Jayvees stopped an Alturas scoring drive in the first quarter and fought on even terms with the visitors the first half.

Tule Blanks 'Cats, 13-0

Wildcats, 13-0, Friday on Modoc Field.

The Honkers scored in the second quarter after a sustained drive, and tallied again in third quarter on a pass interception.

Montreal Leads In Little Series

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Royals can increase their Junior World Series lead to three games Monday night as they battle the Kansas City Blues.

The International League champions lead Kansas City, the American Association titleholder, 2-0, in the best-of-seven series. Sunday's scheduled game was postponed because of rain.

RON (TINY) MADLIN, 225-pound Rambler fullback, crashes over for Seattle's first touchdown Saturday night after the Oregon Tech Owls had taken a 13-0 lead. Lyle Loffer is shown diving over in an attempt to stop Madlin, while Len Genetin (53) blocks his path. Quarterback Joe Tyson leads interference for Madlin while Rambler guard Bryan Zurek (37) is shown on the ground.

Seattle Scores 21-19 Victory

By RED HURD

The Oregon Tech coaching staff is certain of one thing as it drills the Owls for their Friday night Oregon Collegiate Conference opener against Eastern Oregon here.

The mile-high kids are not impressed by football reputations.

This much was evident Saturday night on Modoc Field as the Owls led the heralded Seattle Ramblers for 57 minutes only to lose a skippy 21-19 decision in the last minutes of play.

Twice in the game the Owls held two-touchdown leads, but the Ramblers scored twice in the last quarter to squeeze out the victory.

COMEBACK

Singling a mighty comeback after a mediocre performance in the loss to Humboldt State, Odie Canada scored two of Tech's touchdowns.

over for a touchdown on the first play of the fourth quarter from the one-yard line.

Seattle started again from its 52-yard line late in the fourth period but this drive petered out on Oregon Tech's 20 when Canada intercepted a pass.

But Genetin fumbled on a bad handoff and the Ramblers had the ball on the 20 again. But the determined Oregon Tech forward wall held for three downs and Lowry pitched to Jerry Thornton on fourth down for the winning touchdown. Amberg's third kick was anti-climatic.

A pass interception stopped Oregon Tech's frantic last-minute attempt to pull the game out of the fire and the Ramblers were on Tech's 27 when the game ended.

If there is such a thing as a moral victory, the Owls own one today.

The Ramblers were expected to do everything but eat the Owls in a post-game feast.

Oregon Tech showed it liked free substitution rules. Offensive and defensive teams were alternated throughout the contest.

Excitement Reigns In Yank Dressing Room

BROOKLYN (AP)—Maybe it was because they sensed the extra cash which goes to the winners but regardless of the reason the New York Yankees were a different ball club after beating the Brooklyn Dodgers 11-7 yesterday and taking a 3-2 lead in the World Series.

For the first time since the 50th World Series started there was real excitement in the Yankee dressing room.

"Pretty good," Manager Casey Stengel muttered as he worked through the crowd. Then, a few minutes later, he confessed he felt optimistic about the outcome of the series.

"We're going back to our own park now, and that should be an advantage. Last year we had to play the last two here (Ebbets Field). And we were behind, 3-2."

Richards Right On Prophecy

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—Paul Richards' prediction that Brooklyn's Ebbs Field, with its confining back yard fences, would turn on the Dodgers in the World Series has proved to be correct.

How much of a sage the Chicago White Sox manager proved to be is attested by the New York Yankees' power demonstration yesterday. Led by Mickey Mantle's grand slam homer off reliever Russ Meyer, the Yankees blasted four circuit swats over the short fences to account for eight of their runs in an 11-7 triumph.

"Don't let those Dodger homers fool you," Richards had said when someone mentioned that Brooklyn's fence-busters, paced by Roy Campanella and Duke Snider, had walloped 208 home runs, 112 at Ebbets Field. "Sure they can hit but that ball park is a great help to them."

"Wait until those Yankees get into that cracker box they call it, and see those Yankee right-handers, led by Mickey Mantle and Gil McDougald, will hit those left field seats so hard they'll be picking up the splinters on Borough Hall."

Gene Woodling opened the game with a home run off starter Johnny Podres. Mantle hit his grand slammer in the third. Billy Martin reached the seats with a mate aboard in the seventh off Meyer and McDougald closed out the homer parade in the ninth off Joe Black. All homers but Woodling's were hit into left field. Press box observers agreed not one would have been a homer had the game been played at Yankee Stadium.

McDougald, in fact, discounted his homer this way:

"Don't give me any credit for that," he said. "Anybody can hit a home run in this band box."

Even Mantle was a little disappointed despite his grand slammer.

"I should have had more than just one homer," he said. "A guy should not be satisfied with just one game in this park."

Maybe it is a blessing in disguise for Brooklyn to have to play the final two games of the Series at Yankee Stadium.

Congdon BC Golf Victor

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Chuck Congdon, the dour-faced Tacoman, is getting in a rut, albeit a winning one.

The City of Destiny pro fired final rounds of 66 and 68 Saturday to pocket the $450 in top prize money for the British Columbia Open Golf Tournament crown.

Congdon's 72-hole total of 271 gave him his third straight tournament title and his fifth in 11 years. His score was 11 strokes better than that of runnerup Stan Leonard of Vancouver, B.C.

Bill Mahwinney and Fred Wood, both local linksmen, tied for third in the pro ranks, with 283.

Low amateur was Bob Kidd, also a local product, with 286.

Hill Star In Henley Victory

Bob Hill tossed three touchdown passes and quarterback sneaked for another score as the Henley Hornets drubbed Bonanza, 27-0, Saturday night under the Merrill lights.

Hill picked out three targets for his touchdown tosses. Clarence Toliver caught the first one in the opening period; Marion Cain was on the pay-off end in the second quarter; and Les Hriciszewski latched onto the last one in the third quarter.

Hill culminated a long third-quarter march with a three-yard squirt over the goal for the Hornets' fourth touchdown.

The Hill to Hriciszewski pass gain was the longest, some 40 yards. Bonanza never seriously threatened in the game.
