PLUSH

By DIXIE DIXON

Hunting season with bows and arrows on Hart Mt. closed Sept. 28. About 800 hunters took part in the hunt; 93 deer were killed, the largest weighing 220 lbs. Several weighed 190 lbs. Many of the hunters were from the west side of the Cascade Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ede, Brookings, came to their Plush ranch Wednesday. Archie comes every year for deer season.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Carrol and Viola, Medford, are spending a week at the Raymond Morris home while hunting deer.

Gentle reminders that winter is just around the corner: strawberries were frozen by the morning of Oct. 3; a big band of snow-geese winged their way in from the north Oct. 2, very unusual for this early in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hotchkiss moved their trailer house to the Raymond Morris place where they will make their sleeping quarters through deer season.

Earl Roges of Lakeview visited at the Dixon home Sunday.

Con Lynch shipped cattle Friday, loading them on trucks at the corral north of Plush.

County Agent Elgin Cornett and Dorman Turner, Lakeview, visited in Plush Friday.

Jerry Barry Sr. brought his cattle from the summer range on Hart Mt. to Petre swamp last week.

Middle-of-Roader — At Least At Start

CLEVELAND — Ohio's new senator, Democrat Thomas A. Burke, said Tuesday he will get into the senate with a middle-of-the-road policy.

Burke, in an interview, indicated he would support the Republican administration's program whenever possible and would not seek to control the upper house with his votes.

"I am going to follow a strictly middle-of-the-road policy until I get my feet on the ground in Washington," he said.

Burke and Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche met for 15 minutes Tuesday morning at the Statler Hotel. After the conference, Burke said, "the governor made it clear there were no strings attached to this appointment."

23 Years Ago

Monday, October 13, 1930—H. J. Savage and Franklin Weaver were nominated for directors of the Klamath Realty Board to replace the vacancy left by the expiration of George Walton's term. Other directors are C. S. Montelius, J. T. Ward, A. J. Tracy and Bogue Dale.

Tuesday, October 14, 1930—After twenty years of faithful and untiring service in the fire department, and four years as chief of police of Klamath Falls, Keith K. Ambrose will retire on January first. Chief Ambrose gives no reason for the action he is taking, other than that he does not care to hold either position any longer. He plans first to go to Portland for a several month's visit, his first real vacation in sixteen years.

Wednesday, October 15, 1930—Before a large gathering of Kiwanis and guests, the weekly luncheon featured Fire Prevention. The first speaker on the fire prevention was R. H. Dunbar, who presided as chairman. He introduced Paul Landry, who gave an interesting talk on the cost of fires.

Thursday, October 16, 1930—On the streets of Klamath in a few days will be the latest thing in a mechanical street sweeper. It was sold to the city by the Lorenz company. The Lorenz company was in hot competition on this sale, having to compete with Portland, New York and San Francisco.

Friday, October 17, 1930—All parents and friends of Boy Scouts in the city and county troops are invited to attend the scout Camp-O-Ral in the gym at KUHS. Paul T. Jackson will be the speaker at the court, and W. E. Lamm will present the Eagle badge to Donald Kenyon at 7:30 tonight.

Saturday, October 18, 1930—Four Klamath Falls boys are taking part in the activities of the University of Oregon's band this year. They are Fred Webb, trumpet; Hubert Totton, trombone; Dave Totton, base and Siegfried von Berthelsdorf, baritone.

Michael Patrick O'Brien Finally Gets A Country

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay — Michael Patrick O'Brien, the modern-day man without a country, got permission Monday to live in the Dominican Republic.

O'Brien, 58, has been trying for more than two years to find haven ashore. He was a water front bartender before he escaped from Communist China. His name broke into the news when he rode a ferry for 10 months between Hong Kong and Portuguese Macao because neither place would accept him.

O'Brien's White Russian wife and child were last reported in Brazil. He arrived there in August but Brazilian authorities refused to permit him entry. Authoritative sources said the refusal was based on allegations he had been involved in drug smuggling, a charge O'Brien denied.

Richard Morgan Cut On Bottle

Little Richard Morgan, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Morgan, 3706 Brooklyn, was injured yesterday while visiting relatives.
