Recreation Area Talked Among Gilchrist Pupils

GILCHRIST—A committee of Gilchrist High School students, their adviser, Mr. R. C. Wilson, and Mr. Newell Cory, Crescent District Ranger, recently considered the possibility of constructing a recreation center about seven miles south of Gilchrist along Highway 97 as the final activity in their forest conservation program.

As the students looked over the location they discussed the site as a picnic area, the time they could put in working on it and an access road. Facilities such as tables and benches were also discussed. These will probably be made in the high school shop class. Work on the area is slated to begin next spring with the ground-clearing project. A group will make a contour map of the area next week, weather permitting.

The students who visited the area enjoyed a wiener roast at the site. Cars for the expedition were furnished by Mr. Wilson, Mike Willingham, Dan Burkhardt, Louie Jordan and Mr. Cory.

"Conservation is Fun," is the title the second graders at Gilchrist chose for their forest conservation booklet showing how forests and wildlife are protected. Helen Gulliford, second-grade teacher, said the children had enjoyed completing their conservation work books and making the drawings for their booklets.

The students took a field trip to learn about trees, pine needles and pine cones. Two of the boys became members of the "Keep Oregon Green" association. Several pupils made bird houses. The class learned how paper is made and how wood is treated to make paper.

Vet's Mailbag

Veterans Administration, acting under the basic laws for treatment of disabilities incurred by veterans during war service, has put into effect a new policy on dental care.

Effective in October, VA amended regulations so that only one-time dental treatment may be given veterans with service-connected dental conditions or disabilities that are not severe enough to rate disability compensation.

The limitation does not apply to veterans receiving disability compensation for service-connected dental conditions or disabilities, nor does it apply to those veterans who require treatment for dental conditions, whether service-connected or not, which doctors find may be aggravating another service-connected disability, VA said.

All veterans whose treatment for non-compensable dental conditions or disabilities has been completed will not be eligible for further treatment of those conditions. One of the exceptions to the rule was that any veteran who was undergoing treatment on Oct. 1 would be carried to completion of the work already begun. Another exception was where the work was found not to be satisfactory "under professional standards."

But the big exception, VA said, is in the cases of former prisoners of war. They will receive as many dental treatments as are required to take care of disabilities found to have been caused by their imprisonment.

The one-time treatment under the new ruling may be had at any VA dental clinic, or VA may authorize participating fee-basis dentists to provide it.
