FT. KLAMATH METHODIST: 'TYPICAL RURAL CHURCH'

Fort Klamath Community Methodist Church is located on a county road some 200 feet east of the main street of Fort Klamath—Crater Lake Highway 62. A directive sign erected last year on the highway by local Boy Scouts under the supervision of their scoutmaster, Frank Strahan, points the way and beckons to travelers and visitors.

No imposing edifice of brick or stone with stained glass windows; instead the local church is a modest white frame building. It is surmounted with a bell tower from which the metal weather vane spire was knocked several years ago by a low flying plane and has never been replaced. It has Gothic type windows, and is a typical rural community church, the only one in the 160,000 acre Wood River Valley, and serves the entire area.

The church was built in 1912 by donations of labor and money for building materials by residents of the valley. The large 100 foot lot on which it stands is also a gift; it was deeded the church by W. T. Shive, an early day business man of Fort Klamath.

Although recorded as the "Fort Klamath Methodist Church," to local people the church is known as the Fort Klamath Community Methodist Church. It does not limit much enjoyed by the community. A Woman's Society of Christian Service was organized in the spring of 1931, holding monthly meetings and sponsoring dinners, silver teas, etc., to raise funds to help finance various church projects. The church lucky there were no ill effects. Quick action was taken to remedy the situation, and a substantial plywood ceiling was put overhead, financed by the Civic Improvement Club. The carpenter was the late Henry Gordon.

Howards Commons is leader Methodist Youth Fellowship which meets each Wednesday p.m.

The official church board is organized by the Rev. C. Elliott, and meets on the last day of alternate months in the church. Raymond S. Loosley, chairman of the group.

Installation Services Held For Malin, Mt. Laki Pastors

The Rev. Carl C. DeMott was installed as minister of the Malin Community Presbyterian Church Sunday, Nov. 8, at 3 p.m. by the Presbytery of Southwestern Oregon. The Rev. Dwayne Proett of Peace Memorial Presbyterian Church, presided. This Sunday the Rev. William Ainley will be installed at Mt. Laki Community Church.

Presbyterian ministers from all over the Klamath Basin participated in the services at Malin. The Rev. Marvin Keyser, Tulelake Community Presbyterian Church, gave the Call to Worship and Invocation; the Rev. William Ainley, Mt. Laki Community Church, led the group in prayer; the Rev. Proett introduced guests.

The Rev. Norman K. Tully, Jacksonville, preached the sermon; the Rev. George Milne, Merrill Presbyterian Church, gave the charge to the new pastor; the Rev. David F. Bennett Jr., First Presbyterian Church of Klamath Falls, gave the charge to the congregation.

The musical program included three organ solos by Mrs. Ernest Gray, organist and director for the Malin church; "Faith of God" sung by Mrs. George Fabinek; an anthem, "Holy is the Lord," by the Malin Community Church choir.

Reception followed in the church parlors.

Coming events in the church include a dinner Nov. 18 at 6:30 p.m., at which the Rev. Bennett will be guest speaker, and Thanksgiving Day services at 10 a.m. Nov. 26. This coming Sunday, Nov. 15, the Presbytery will install the Rev. William Ainley as pastor of the Mt. Laki Community Church with the Rev. Proett, moderator, presiding.

CHURCH OF THE WEEK: Fort Klamath Methodist Community Church.

The large church bell was given by Senator Weed (for whom the town of Weed, Calif., is named, who formerly owned the 27,000 acre Weed ranch. Located in the south end of the valley, it now belongs to the Hawkins Cattle Co. of Hollister, Calif. The ranch is not so extensive as in the days of Senator Weed. Part of the acreage has been since sold, but it is still the largest ranch in Wood River Valley.

In the still calm of a Sabbath morning, the tolling bell is audible for a mile or more, and was given so that it might call those in the entire district to worship in a church that serves all people, regardless of denomination.

The Rev. Worrell, originally from Ireland, was the first pastor here. First trustees named on the deed were C. E. (Ed) Hoyt, still a Fort Klamath resident; Edson Wilson, of whom little seems to be remembered except that he was a retired minister living here at the time the church was built; Mrs. W. E. Nicholson, now Mrs. Arthur Short of Medford, who is a frequent visitor here at the home of relatives and is still keenly interested in both church and Civic Improvement Club activities here, and is an honorary member of the latter organization.

Evening church services were conducted by the light of gas lanterns until 1927, when the California Oregon Power Co. put its first power line through of Ft. Klamath.

Included among pastors who have served the local church since its foundation in 1912 are the following: the Rev. Colton, the Rev. Bradshaw, the Rev. Mooney, the Rev. Elliott, the Rev. Buck, the Rev. Neufel, the Rev. Poindexter, the Rev. James Zeller, the Rev. C. Ellery Echlin, and the present Rev. Edmund Stanton, who took his first pastorate when assuming the combined charges of Fort its service to the immediate town of Fort Klamath; during tourist season, various pastors of the church have conducted Sunday vespers at Crater Lake National Park, and for a time the church school here sponsored a Sunday School at the park also. Funeral and wedding services are held in the church for residents of the entire district. Protestant baptismal is given and communion is extended to all.

Ministerial care is not limited to church membership; visitations are made by the pastor and his wife to all who are ill or in sorrow.

A year ago, the Rev. C. Ellery Echlin organized a church youth group and met with it weekly for an evening of worship and recreation. He also instigated monthly family night gatherings which were rent aim of the group is to install new pews in the local church, and a substantial sum has been raised to this end.

The annual Christmas community program is held in the church, and is a combined community school, Sunday School and Civic Improvement Club undertaking.

Originally called the Church Improvement Club when organized in 1924, the group later changed the name to the present one, Civic Improvement Club. The club has always cooperated with the church, and both work hand in hand for community betterment. Electricity cost is borne by the club, which also pays premium on one fire insurance policy on the church building.

A typical helping-hand incident happened during tenure of the Rev. Bradshaw some 22 years ago. The church interior was in a bad state of disrepair, especially the ceiling, and while pulling on the bell rope one Sunday to call worshippers to church, large pieces of plaster fell down on the pastor's unprotected head. It momentarily staggered the Rev. Bradshaw, but

Methodists Slate Forum Discussion

This coming Sunday evening there will be a forum discussion at 7:30 p.m. on the subject of "The Bishop Oxnham Incident" at the First Methodist Church.

As part of the discussion, references will be made to the subject of people's religious rights as related to congressional investigation procedures. Incidental to this discussion will be the subjects of separation of church and state, and the power groups promoting discord among loyal Americans.

Members of the panel include Gilbert Walters, chairman; Mrs. Everett Dennis, Gary Robertson, Paul Campbell, the Rev. Lloyd Holloway and Charles Johnson.

Members are urged to attend and the public is cordially invited. The Builders Class is sponsoring this forum.

THE CHINESE CHRISTIANS, full that some day their Bibles might be taken away from them, hid the Word away in most secure place possible—their hearts. They memorized whole chapters of Scripture, one district, a missionary knew of 200 people who memorized the entire New Testament. What strength and it must give them in the trials they must endure under Communist government!

Lay Presbyterians To Speak at Dinner

Hal V. McNutt, an outstanding Presbyterian layman from Oklahoma City, Okla., will be the speaker at a Presbyterian dinner at Peace Memorial Presbyterian Church Friday, Nov. 13, at 6:30 p.m.

McNutt left his employment in Oklahoma City for a year to give full time energy to work as a Presbyterian minister. All Presbyterian men in the Klamath Basin are invited to dinner.
