The Klamath Sportsmen's Association and the Herald and News are cooperating in offering a "Sportsman of the Year" and a "Landowner of the Year" award this year, both categories to receive $25 for top place and honorable mention for second. The Sportsmen prizes will be awarded for the outstanding example of sportsmanship displayed by a hunter during the current deer and migratory bird season. The Herald and News award will go to the landowner voted as showing the greatest cooperation and understanding toward the hunting public. Your nominations are asked in deciding the winners of these two awards. Just fill in the blank below and mail to HERALD and NEWS, marked SPORTSMEN'S CONTEST, before midnight, Jan. 10. Final choice will be made by a panel of judges from the Sportsmen's Association and will be announced, with pictures, in the Herald and News one week later.

Father Wants Ballerina Daughter Excused from School for Dancing

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A father who says he already spent $10,000 on the career of his 11-year-old her excused from school one afternoon a week for dancing lessons.

George Rapine, proud father of dancing Betty Anne, instructed his attorney, Leonard F. Markel, yesterday to sue the school board of nearby Conshohocken.

The board recently ruled that pretty, blue-eyed Betty Anne could no longer be absent from her fifth grade classes at public school to attend dancing lessons in New York Wednesday afternoons.

The youthful ballerina is no ordinary child, her father said. She has appeared on the New York state and at the Steel Pier in Atlantic City. He said the only time open for her on the New York dancing instructor's schedule is Wednesday afternoon.

This is her third year of dancing instruction.

Her father, a rigging contractor, said Betty Anne attended the Miquon School, a private institution near her home the first year. Last year she transferred to the Conshohocken public school.

Since Rapine had already paid her dance tuition, Dr. Robert C. Landis, Montgomery County superintendent of schools, decided she could cut classes Friday afternoon —her dance schedule at that time.

School officials said this year is another matter. Betty Anne has used up the six half holidays permitted under the school code and the board solicitor, Stanley B. Cooper, said the board has no right to grant further absences.

'Only an Only Surviving Son Is Draft-Free'

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—J. N. Inman of Columbus County wrote North Carolina selective service headquarters:

". . . I want you to know that I lost two sons during World War II. . . . I feel that I have done enough. I have two sons left and you are about to take one of them. If this boy is drafted, I feel I will lose my wife from grief and I don't know whether I can stand it or not. The boy about to be drafted is 21 years of age and is married and has one child.

"I will thank you to advise me what I can do. Will it do me any good to write or wire the President of the United States, and if I do so, do you believe it will be brought to his attention."

Col. Hugh T. Upton of selective service explained that the laws provides for deferment of an only surviving son where one or more of his brothers was killed in war or died later of injuries suffered in war.

"But you can't help feeling deep sympathy," Upton said of the case.

Dance Lesson Buyers With Bad Check Are Jailed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Police arrested Frank Ashworth, 18, and his brother Howard, 27, of Beaver, Utah, while they were doing the samba at the local Arthur Murray dance studio.

The Ashworth boys' samba steps were real hot—but so was the $1,248 check they gave the studio to pay for the lessons.

Police said the pair quickly admitted a "three-month good time spree" by writing worthless checks in 15 states. They were jailed without charge awaiting FBI investigations.

CHENILLE, SILK STOLE

By CAROL CURTIS

Crocheted of velvety chenille and rayon silk crocheting ribbon, the dressy stole is tops to wear with suits, dresses, afternoon frocks. One illustrated is done in cocoa brown chenille and black silk ribbon but you may prefer it in two greys, two blues or in a bold contrasting color scheme. Handsome stole is 58 inches long, 16 inches wide, stripes are 1 inch, looped ribbon fringe is 1 inch. Make it longer if you wish by adding more rows.

Send 25 cents for the Striped Chenille and Ribbon Stole (Pattern No. 328) all crocheting instructions, enlarged sketch of stitch used, your name, address, pattern number to Carol Curtis, Herald and News, Box 229, Madison Square Station, New York 10, N.Y.

Patterns ready to fill orders immediately. For special handling of order via first class mail include an extra 5 cents per pattern.

South Africans Step Up Breeding Ostrich Chicks

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—South Africa's ostrich farmers are breeding chicks as fast as they can to brin gthe number of the long-necked birds back into line with world demands.

It is not the need for luxurious ostrich plumes—the height of feminine fashion around 50 years ago —that is bringing ostriches back into popularity. The birds are grown mainly for three things — leather, body feathers and biltong. The last-named article is a dried meat South Africans like.

In the years after ostriches were domesticated in 1870, the tall feathers earned farmers something like 50 million pounds (more than 200 millions at that time).

At one time the ostrich-growing business was popular in Arizona and California too.

When the lush plumes lost favor, South African farmers cut down their flocks drastically. During World War I birds sold for less than a dollar apiece.

Now the flocks are down to about 30,000 birds, compared with 750,000 in the boom days before 1914. Without a heavy breeding program the present rate of slaughter would soon wipe out the flocks.

Some farmers are cutting their dairy herds to devote more space to ostrich rearing. One pair of breeding ostriches has about three hatchings a year, each of 12 to 14 eggs. These take about 42 days to hatch.

In 2½ years the fully grown bird, which weighs 200 to 300 pounds, yields 15 to 17 pounds of biltong. The farmer gets 45 cents a pound for this, and after processing, it sells in the shops at double that figure. The body feathers, used for dusting brushes, sell for $11 to $17. The skin, made into leather for shoes, pocketbooks, billfolds, tobacco pouches, etc., is worth $15 or more. Additionally, ostrich bones are ground for fertilizer and the fat is rendered for sale to harness makers and soap makers.

What Makes an Actress? Urge Comes Out of Past

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What makes an actress?

Somewhere in a woman's past something happens to give her the creative urge. With Audrey Hepburn it was years of life under Nazi terror.

To look at Paramount's bright new star, you wouldn't think that she had anything but the nicest kind of life. She is pert and petite, with a gay, glittering personality. Her nature has been conditioned.

"After living the long months and years under the Germans," she explained, "you dreamed what would happen if you ever got out. You swore you would never complain about anything again."

Audrey was caught in The Netherlands during the Nazi blitz. Her life during those years was a story of fear and privation. But the worst came during the seven months between the battle of Arnhem and liberation in 1945.

"Arnhem was evacuated after the battle," she recounted, "but we lived just on the outskirts. Our presence there was tolerated by the Germans, but just barely so. For seven months, we had no light, no heat, no water. We had no food, because all the shops were closed. We ate what we could find.

"During the day we merely existed. At night our only diversion was gathering around the fire. That was the only light we had, whatever wood we could find nearby.

"We couldn't talk about day's happenings, because none had happened to us. So we sat around and made up stories, invented things. We entertained each other, and it helped carry our minds away from the horrible life we were leading. We could do that too; we lived in another world during those nights around the fire.

Audrey admitted that if she had not been through such an experience, she might never have become an actress. "I had to learn to invent, to interpolate," she explained. "I had to create a make-believe world."

Audrey is making her first picture in Hollywood. It's called "Sabrina Fair" and she has two sterling suitors as Humphrey Bogart and William Holden seek her hand. That shows you what Paramount thinks of its new girl.

Hollywood is a nicer place than she expected, said Audrey, who is not too sophisticated to be impressed. She seems to enjoy the attention she is getting, especially from comedians. Groucho Marx recently squired her to a party at the Bogarts, and her studio dressing room is between those of Danny Kaye and Jerry Lewis. That suits her fine: "I love to laugh."
