Shelley Winters Bringing Back Old Days of Acting

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's time to check up on the wondrous world of Shelley Winters.
The unpredictable blonde is a throwback to another Hollywood era. There was a time when the temperamental leading lady was considered par for the course. But movie actors on the whole have become more normal and anyone who departs from the norm is treated as a freak.
Shelley thrives on turmoil, and that may be part of the reason I found her doing a TV film for the "Ford Theater." Her studio was against the idea.
"They claim my contract says I can only do live TV," she remarked. "It says I have the right to do TV, and I claim that's either live or on film. I'm not going to budge."
"Besides, I want to prove a point. The show I'm doing is a comedy—the light, Jean Arthur sort of thing which is what I want to do in pictures. Maybe if the producers see this, it'll convince 'em."
"So far I can't break the type. All they ever cast me for is tough, dance-hall dames. It was just as though I had never done 'A Place in the Sun,' in which I played a 19-year-old virgin and for which I got an Academy nomination."
Shelley is always up in arms about something. Recently she had much publicized running feud with a casino when she was appearing in Las Vegas. She claims the place provoked her into blowing her top so the publicity could be reaped.
Even so, the fracas appears to have done her no harm. She said that upon her return she had more job offers than she could handle. I asked her bluntly: Is she difficult?
"Yes, I can be," she replied. "I get along fine until people do things to prevent me from doing my best possible work. Then I blow up."
Difficult or no, Shelley has a voracious appetite for work, which is even more pronounced since her retirement to bear a child. Since then she has made three pictures, played the nitery date and made a TV film. She soon starts a film for her home lot, Universal-International.
On Dec. 23, she flies with baby Victoria and nurse to Rome, where they will join her talented husband, Vittorio Gassman. She will make a picture with him. At the same time, she plans to make a movie with Vittorio de Sica.

Coast Group OK's Bridge

COOS BAY (AP)—The Oregon Coast Association endorsed the proposed bridge across the Columbia River near Astoria at the close of a three-day meeting here Tuesday. In another resolution the association urged the State Highway Commission to consider building a stretch of road in Tillamook County through Cascade Head. The stretch, proposed from Neskevin to the end of Road's End Road, would provide a more direct route for motorists on the Coast Highway.
Gov. Paul L. Patterson spoke Tuesday afternoon.
The association elected Lyle Compton, Coos Bay, president; Mrs. Neville Swan, Yachats, recording secretary; and Bud Campbell, Cannon Beach, treasurer.

DIVORCE
LONDON (AP)—Robert Sweeney, socialite and spotlight, international golfer, Wednesday won a divorce from his wife, Joanne—ranked as New York's "most beautiful debutante of 1948—on grounds of adultery.

Ground Fish Study Slated

ASTORIA (AP)—The Oregon Fish Commission will gather material on the state's production of groundfish to support the industry's case for import quotas, but will take no stand on the quota question, Arnie Suomela, state fisheries director, reported here this week.
Suomela conferred with Rep. Orval Eaton and Arthur Paquet, representing a committee supporting the groundfish industry.
He said the commission feels that the matters of tariff and import quotas are outside its jurisdiction and that it should take no position.
Paquet and Eaton reported that Sen. Guy Cordon had sent a brief to the tariff commission at the industry's request, and that Gov. Paul Patterson has promised to do the same. Rep. Sam Coon has written the commission in support of quotas and other members of the Oregon delegation are being asked to send either briefs or letters.
While here Suomela reported that the commission's new Klamath river salmon hatchery is about 55 per cent complete and that excellent progress is being made.

Hobby Show Set For April Dates

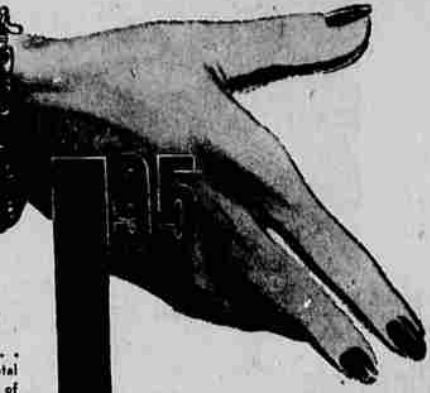

Representatives of the 20-30 club and the YMCA met last week to make plans for their third annual hobby show. The dates have been set for April 15, 16 and 17.
The official title of the affair is the 20-30 club YMCA Basin Hobby Show and suburban areas are urged to participate. The committee hopes to make this show the most outstanding to date.
