CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—Grains fell in late trading on the board of trade Tuesday after showing firmness during most of the morning.

Selling hit particularly hard at new crop wheat deliveries and all soybean contracts. The new crop wheat months were under pressure because of the improved outlook for next year's winter wheat crop. Soybeans suffered from profit taking.

Corn acted much better than the rest of the market, largely because of continued light receipts of cash grain. Cash dealers reported no corn was purchased on a to-arrive basis from the country.

Wheat closed 3/4-2 1/2 lower, Dec 198 1/4, corn 3/4 lower to 1 1/2 higher, Dec 1.54 1/2, oats 1/4-1/2 higher, Dec 76 1/2, rye 1 1/2-2 1/2 lower, Dec 1.17-1.16 1/2, soybeans 1 1/2 to 3 cents lower, Jan 3.02 1/2-3, and hard 13 to 30 cents a hundred pounds higher, Dec 14.47-14.50.

Disarming Of Japan "Mistake"

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said Tuesday he agrees with Vice President Nixon's view that the disarming of Japan after World War II was "a mistake."

Dulles told a news conference the United States carried disarmament programs for both Japan and Germany rather far. He noted some of these disarmament programs have since been reversed because of the Communist threat.

Those in charge of American foreign policy at that time, Dulles said, quite naturally assumed the world was entering a period of lasting peace where disarmament might be possible.

Dulles made plain he, too, believed this at the time and noted that the San Francisco United Nations charter drafted in 1945 contained provisions calling for limitation of armaments.

Nixon, in labeling Japanese disarmament a mistake, said in a speech at Tokyo Nov. 19 that "we misjudged the intentions of the Soviet leaders" after the war. He said that if it were not for the Communist threat, the world could live in peace.

Answering other foreign policy questions, Dulles also said:

1. The pact signed between Communist China and North Korea Monday marked a further step in the joint partition of Korea, between Russia and Red China.
2. Progress toward a five-power conference to settle the Trieste problem has been encouraging in the past week but no definite plan has yet been agreed upon.
3. The State Department is studying the possibility of pushing ahead through diplomatic channels to negotiate with Russia an Austrian peace settlement, now that the Soviets have refused to attend a formal conference on this problem. He said no new note has been sent yet, however.
4. He has no information which indicates the possibility that a top level meeting with the Russians will be discussed at the forthcoming Big Three meeting in Bermuda.
5. He does not believe the future in the United States over the Harry Dexter White spy charges has any measurable or significant effect on foreign relations with other countries.

State Prison Inmates No Longer On Picker Roster

SALEM (AP)—The 30-year-old practice of having state prison convicts pick fruits and vegetables on private lands Tuesday was ruled illegal by Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton.

The Board of Control, which asked for the opinion, said it would severely handicap the state institutions until the 1955 Legislature can legalize it.

Thornton ruled that since the law doesn't specifically say that the practice is legal, it therefore is illegal.

Under the practice, the state has bought produce cheaply from farmers, using convict labor to harvest it. This produce then is canned at the prison cannery, and used by all state institutions.

More than a third of the produce canned at the cannery comes from private lands.

The board decided to ask for the opinion after some Democratic leaders had criticized the practice.

The board said, in its letter to Thornton, that if the practice had to be ended, the institutions would suffer a severe handicap.

Thornton replied:

"We are in complete agreement with you as to the penological importance of keeping prisoners occupied. And we realize that the financial saving to the state, effected by present practices, is substantial. But we have no choice in the matter. The duty of this office is to interpret the law, not to make it."

Thornton said that to rule the practice legal would mean that he is making the law.

As Thornton indicated, an end of the practice will present Warden Clarence T. Gladden next summer with a serious problem of finding other work for the prison inmates.

Rejection By PHA Ends City Problem

The area on Main from Mortimer to the U. S. canal has been changed from Zone 2 residential to Zone 3 business by passage of the rezoning ordinance at council Monday night.

Both sides in the two months old argument submitted brochures to council members with a re-statement of the reasons for their stand and representatives of both sides voiced their opinions at council.

Voting followed the opposition's plea to wait until all the council was present as council had decided last week. (Councilman Wendell Smith, who favored the rezoning protesters' side, was absent this week; last week Councilman Frank Tarr was absent.) Their request was not approved.

Another issue came up unexpectedly when Walt Wiesendanger protested a $100 fee for a sewer connection made by the city on his property on Earle.

Wiesendanger said the amount was not included in his assessment or first estimate submitted by City Engineer E. A. Thomas, nor was he informed that he, Wiesendanger, would have to stand the costs.

Wiesendanger said he would agree to whatever council decided. Council asked City Attorney Henry Perkins to make a search of this particular improvement unit to see if the procedure followed was legal.

"If it was, council will have no alternative but to proceed as usual; if it was not, the city will have to be responsible for the actions of its employees," Councilman Kenyon said.

MERCY PLANE SAID LOST
EDMONTON, Alta. (AP)—Twenty airplanes joined Tuesday in a search for a missing plane with a pilot victim, a doctor and the pilot aboard.

It has been missing since Sunday on a 275-mile hospital flight to Edmonton from Grande Prairie, in northern Alberta.

Those aboard were identified as Lloyd Williams, suffering from polio and believed to be of Edmonton; Dr. Don Wilson, Grande Prairie; and Gordon McDonald, 32, of Edmonton, the pilot.

An Air Force plane made a vain sweep Monday night of an area where a plane had been reported sighted.

Why the Golden Empire's future is bright...

It's no wonder the eight states of the Golden Empire look to the future with such confidence. And that includes us, too.

For these states—all served by S.P. (see map)—are so richly diversified in their manufacturing, mining and agriculture, that each activity acts as a cushion for the others, smoothing out the ups and downs that could otherwise dislocate the economy of the area.

Thus, the area as a whole continues on a steady upgrade. Let's look at some of the reasons for our confidence:

In the first place, there are more than 32,000 different firms doing a tremendous variety of manufacturing in these eight states. Next, add the area's greatly diversified $3,479,167,000-a-year agricultural industry which covers everything from avocados to zucchini.

On top of that is the Golden Empire's huge supply of raw materials, great natural resources and the industries they create—mining, mineral and chemical production, lumbering, etc.

Now let's look at population growth and its significance. In 1940 there were 18,467,411 people in the Golden Empire. In 1950 this population had grown to 24,781,993—and it's still going strong. Department of Census predicts a population of about 32,450,000 by 1960.

This means an increasingly large and important market for goods—and, perhaps more important, a greatly expanding and permanent labor pool for the additional new industries that are coming.

So naturally S.P. looks to the future with confidence. One significant proof is this: Since the war a total of $646,000,000 has been invested in the newest and most efficient equipment and facilities—further evidence of our continuing determination to give the Golden Empire the finest transportation in America.

Lawrence R. Swain, 30, alias Larry O'Shea, who made quite a splash around Klamath Falls last month leading a bobcat on a leash, was held in the County Jail Tuesday.

Swain, who gave his occupation as a floor layer, according to District Attorney Frank Alderson, "laid" several worthless checks in Klamath Falls business establishments.

The accused bogus penman was arrested in Boise, Idaho. He was brought back to Klamath Falls Monday night by Deputy Sheriff Dale Mattoon.

Alderson declared Swain passed spurious checks at Neil's Fountain, Dude's Union Service Station and the Baldwin Hotel.

When arraigned before District Judge D. E. Van Vactor on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, Swain waived preliminary hearing. He was ordered held for the grand jury under $1,500 bail.

While in Klamath Falls, Swain told recipients of bad checks that he and his bobcat were on the road for a national advertiser.
