SUPREME COURT LINEUP — Crowds wait in corridor of Supreme Court Building in Washington for chance to hear the high court consider the second round of arguments in the legal battle over racial segregation in public schools. Constitutionality of public school segregation is challenged in cases from four states and the District of Columbia.

New Unit at State Prison in Use
SALEM (AP) — The new segregation building at the state penitentiary was being used for the first time Tuesday after 68 of the prison's worst convicts were transferred into it during the night. The building, with a capacity of 90 men, will be filled by the end of this week. Warden Clarence T. Gladden said the building would be a big help in solving prison problems, since it will allow complete segregation of the worst offenders.

Accused Woman Heading South
SEATTLE (AP) — Mrs. Diane Wells passed through Seattle Tuesday en route to California for treatment of injuries she said were received when she was beaten by two men who committed the crime with which she is charged—the slaying of her husband, Cecil. The attractive blonde insisted she is innocent of the killing, which the government charges she and jazz drummer Johnny Warren did early on Oct. 17 in the Wells apartment at Fairbanks. "I have to hide the lumps of scar tissue with these long eyebrows," she said. "That's where they hit me. I have a lump on my mouth here, too." In California, she said, she will visit relatives and be treated for "headaches I never had before." She did not reveal where in California she would stay but her ticket was for Los Angeles.

OPERATION
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Movie actress June Allyson is recuperating from an appendicitis operation performed yesterday.

Stores Open In Vicksburg

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Tornado-battered Vicksburg took on an air of normal life Wednesday with more stores re-opening, but crews still faced the task of probing debris in several areas for more victims.

The death toll stood at 31 and more bodies, covered by the debris which can't be disturbed until weakened structures are pulled down to prevent caving in on work crews.

The 25-million-dollar disaster Saturday left the main business section, the warehouse district and several residential areas in ruins. Most of the business section was cleaned Tuesday, when the Chamber of Commerce praised Army Engineers for having the city "with the cleanest main street in its history." Some 1,500 engineers helped with the clean-up.

Several drug stores and cafes re-opened and the Vicksburg Hotel, the city's largest, had lights for the first time.

Stolen Car Eludes Alert Police

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — During the two days a shiny new Cadillac was parked on Hunnewell avenue, two overtime parking tags were tucked under the windshield wiper. Then an alert mailman did some checking and notified the owner, Charles Drayton Jr.

Drayton called police to tell them he had found his car, which he had reported stolen Sunday night. Police were understandably silent about the whole affair.
