CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO (U)—In dealings which were slow most of the session, but picked up a little speed toward the close, grains headed downward on the board of trade Monday.
Wheat, corn and soybeans all were under mild selling pressure. Oats and rye resisted selling, buying being based on belief navigation on the Great Lakes will shut down this week. That will end imports of Canadian oats and rye until next spring.
Selling in wheat was based largely on disappointment over the poor export demand for this grain. Corn eased on larger offerings of cash grain. Soybeans were off on mild profit taking.
Wheat closed 1 1/2 to 3 cents lower, Dec. 2.02-2.03, corn 1/2 to 2 cents lower, Dec. 1.53-1.54, oats 1/2 to 1 cent lower, Dec. 1.24-1.25, soybeans 1/2 to 3 cents lower, Jan. 3.05, and lard unchanged to 25 cents a hundred pounds lower, Dec. 16.75.

Livestock
CHICAGO LIVESTOCK
CHICAGO (U)—Hogs rose to another new high for December since 1947 in an active market Monday. Most cattle and lambs declined.
Slaughter receipts totaled 11,000 head compared with 7,895 a week ago. The larger supply didn't depress the market. Butchers' demand was 50 cents, while choice 180 to 220 pound offerings sold at $24.25 to $24.75. A short load brought a top of $24.90.
Trading in steers and heifers got off to a slow start. A few early sales were mostly 50 cents down, but later the market sold off as much as $1.00 from last Friday's close. Bulls were strong to 25 cents higher. Top price for choice and prime steers was $28.00, but commission houses were holding numerous receipts were estimated at 24.00 cattle and 500 calves.
Arrivals in the sheep section totaled 6,000 salable head. Slaughter lambs opened 50 cents lower. Good and choice woolled lambs sold at $17.00 to $19.00.

His Life Story

Geo. N. Taylor
Human Birth — God Almighty was His Father and the Virgin Mary His Mother. So, He was God on His Father's side and human on His Mother's side. So, He became the God-Man. His Work: — Back in the eternal ages, He created the universe. Here on earth, as the Son of Man, He learned the carpenter's trade and became the Carpenter of Nazareth. Out Among Men: — He raised the dead; healed the sick; was hated by the legalists and loved by the common people. His Death: — He was crucified — the death given low-downs and other criminals. To Day — Christ gives eternal life to all who receive Him into their heart for their sins. He creates new and eternal life in all believers. He powers such believers as He deems to the glory of God. So is Christ. This space sponsored by a Portland Lumberman & Wife. Adv.

Mark Twain was once asked whether finding a spider in his newspaper was good luck. The humorist replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over the paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace afterward." It's even more true today.

velop among us a DEDICATED AMERICANISM.
In the struggle that lies ahead of us, it isn't going to be enough to be Americans merely because our way of life is MATERIALLY better than the communist way of life — because it gives us more automobiles and better houses and more gadgets and more night clubs and the money to pay our way into them and the leisure to spend in them.
If we are to prevail against communism, our way of life must become for us a HOLY CAUSE because it is FREE and RIGHT.

Eisenhower Warns Mayors Of Pressing Need For US To Prepare For Attack

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower said Monday it is practically impossible to exaggerate the need for American cities to prepare themselves for a possible atomic attack.
Eisenhower told an unprecedented White House conference of mayors there is time, however, to make such preparations sensibly and without hysteria.
"Organized haste will save you and panic will destroy you," he said.
The President addressed some 175 chief executives of the country's largest cities at the beginning of a two-day closed door conference, called by himself, on problems of national defense.
The White House made the President's remarks public two hours later.
In his address Eisenhower said the American city has moved "into the front line" from its historical "position of support in the rear."
"The stage has now been reached," he said, "where the matter of defense can no longer be wholly handled by professional or organized military forces."
"I think it is most easily described or explained," Eisenhower said, "by the simple truth that what would be necessary is the readiness of fire departments, hospital and health departments, police departments, sanitation departments—all must be prepared to handle their jobs."
Americans, the President went on, must overcome their reluctance to prepare for disaster and must regard preparedness as being as necessary as fire drills in a school.
Calling for public understanding of the problem, produced by inspired and unaided leadership, the President said:
"Now I probably could use no words that would exaggerate my concern that this thing is done, because I believe it is so feasible and possible to do it."
"On the other hand, I would not have you think from any words of mine that I believe we haven't time to do this, that we must move in hysteria and in such tense concern that we get nothing intelligent done. I don't believe that for an instant."
"We can do this job, and do it in such a way that we will very greatly aid to the reluctance of anybody to attack us."
Eisenhower said the enemies of this country know that with every increase in the destructiveness of weapons and "with every increase in the availability to place those weapons where they choose" the always great value of surprise in war has gone up tremendously.
"We have got, within reason, to be ready," the chief executive declared.

Dulles Sounds Pact Warning

PARIS (U)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles warned a North Atlantic Treaty Organization council session Monday that if European nations decide to commit suicide by blundering into another war "they may have to commit it alone."
His statement was made as he outlined to news correspondents the attitude of America in event the European army treaty is not ratified and Germany and France fail to settle their age-old rivalries.
The declaration brought a gasp from 30 correspondents who had news conference on the first day of the session.
He said it was the aim of the European Defense community to bring Germany and France together and to prevent further fighting.
"Failure to ratify the treaty," he said, "will require America to make an agonizing reappraisal" of its policies toward Europe.

City Manager At Roseburg Quits

ROSEBURG (U)—This city is in the market for a new city manager.
Winston A. Gilchrist, city manager since May, 1951, notified Mayor Percy Croft in a letter received Monday that he is resigning because of ill health. Gilchrist left Roseburg for Portland Saturday to enter a clinic. He was accompanied by his wife.
Prior to becoming city manager, Gilchrist was city recorder. He also had been business manager at Lewis and Clark College and former superintendent of schools at Estacada and Sutherlin.
Gilchrist's duties until a successor is chosen will be shared by the mayor and other city officials.

Explosion Rips Up Portland Bar

PORTLAND (U)—An explosion touched off a fire that destroyed much of a downtown tavern here early Monday. A fire bureau investigator blamed an arsonist.
Firemen worked nearly two hours to put out the flames. Residents of second-floor apartments were evacuated.
Investigators said they found evidence someone had tried six times to set the place afire before finally opening a pipe and allowing the place to fill with gas. It was the gas that exploded.

OLCC Agents Face Count

ROSEBURG (U)—William J. Hoffer and Dean O. Morris, both 26, of Portland, special agents for the Oregon Liquor Commission, were to be arraigned in municipal court Monday on charges of drunkenness, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest as an aftermath of an altercation early Sunday in a Roseburg night spot.
Police Chief Stan Olson reported the two became abusive in the night club and a patron, Laurence Tucker, Roseburg, objected to language Hoffer used.
Tucker, Olson said, struck Hoffer, and the two went outside into an alley, where Tucker was soundly beaten. City police found Hoffer hiding under an auto in a nearby parking lot. He was caught when he tried to flee, then swung at one of the officers, Olson said.
Police said Morris used abusive language while they were apprehending Hoffer.

Wisconsin Indian Remains Prove Oldest In Big Area

MILWAUKEE (U)—Primitive Indians who fashioned artifacts of copper—a skill long since forgotten by white men in Wisconsin—roamed the state more than 5,000 years ago.
Proof of the great antiquity of Wisconsin's first known human residents lies in one of man's most modern methods of research — the study of radioactivity.
This has been announced by Dr. Robert E. Rittenbarger, curator of anthropology at the Milwaukee Public Museum. He said "carbon 14" tests made at the University of Nuclear Studies at that human remains found in a burial ground near Oconto, Wis., last year were those of old copper age—plus or minus 400 years. These, he said, were the earliest people known to have lived in Wisconsin and the earliest date established through carbon 14 tests for human remains found in the eastern North America.
Charcoal found with the remains was sent to the Institute for Nuclear Studies at the University of Chicago for analysis. All charcoal is carbon 14, which loses about half of its radioactivity every 5,600 years. Besides the bones of about 10 persons, copper articles were found in the Oconto burial ground, including seven axes, four knives, three chisels, a spear point and a bracelet.
Dr. Rittenbarger said the copper was mined in the Lake Superior region. Oconto is in northern Wisconsin near the shores of Lake Bay.

Attorney To Stay With O&C

PORTLAND (U)—Frank S. Sever, Portland attorney, said Monday that he will continue as legal counsel for the Association of O & C Counties, although Clackamas County Commissioners have decided he no longer will represent them.
The commissioners of that county decided Friday that he be denied authority to represent Clackamas County in O & C timberland affairs. The Associated Press incorrectly reported Saturday that the commissioners had fired Sever as their counsel.
Sever pointed out he never was employed directly by that county, and the commissioners were not in position to discharge him. He said he will continue to represent the other counties in the association.
The Clackamas commissioners severed relations after a difference of opinion over the way to press claims on timber sales of O & C lands, owned by the federal government. Part of the money from such sales goes to the counties in which the timber stands.
Clackamas County has instituted a separate suit, claiming a greater share of the money.

Navy Launch Dumps Gobs

NORFOLK, VA. (U)—A Navy launch carrying 73 Navy men capsized Monday in the choppy waters of the Chesapeake Bay, 500 yards off the naval base pier. The submarine rescue vessel USS Albatross (SS-341) was dispatched to the water and the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt (CV-60) was alerted. Several other ships in the vicinity picked up an undetermined number of men.
Two hours after the launch capsized a spokesman for the 6th Naval District said "It is believed that all aboard the launch were rescued."

Tornado Death Toll Still Rises

VICKSBURG, Miss. (U)—The death toll rose to 35 Monday in the wake of a tornado that smashed 12 blocks of this Mississippi River city.
Roosevelt Brown, 30-year-old negro, died Monday of injuries received in the twister.
The tornado destroyed more than 900 homes and buildings and left about 1,500 homeless when it ripped through the city Dec. 8.
