Reds Propose New Parley Members

BERLIN (AP)—The Russian zone proposed today that the rival governments of divided Germany be given seats at the forthcoming Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Berlin.

Acting Prime Minister Walter Ulbricht made the bid at a special session of the East German Parliament.

The veteran Communist spokesman for the Kremlin declared that the parley should deal with two points:

1. Conclusion of a German peace treaty.

2. Re - establishment of German unity "on a democratic and peaceful basis."

Officials of the Soviet High Commission were present as Ulbricht spoke. Presumably they approved his statements.

BUSY BEAVER CLUB

Geraldine Woods was chosen president for the newly organized 4-H Club at Sprague River, Wednesday, Dec. 2. Other officers chosen to carry out the duties of the club were Luella Newlun, vice-president; Claudette Pfeiffer, secretary and news reporter; and Muriel Woods, song leader.

Busy Beavers was the name decided upon for the club. We shall meet every first and third Wednesday afternoon at the home of our leader, Mrs. Lahoda. If there are any other girls interested in a clothing or cooking project for the coming year, be at our next meeting Dec. 16, at 4:30 p.m.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

HENLEY SHEEP CLUB

The first meeting of the club was held at the home of Joe Riker, Nov. 18. The meeting was called to order by Tom Wright. The election of officers was held. The following officers were elected: president, Bob Stevens; vice-president, Cora Enman; secretary, Bondell Crawford; treasurer, Sharleen Kirkpatrick; news reporter, Carolyn Garrison; historian, Barbara Jacobson, and song leader, Marilyn Mack. It was decided that our leader, Dale Fleming, would be sergeant at arms. Our leaders for the coming year are Dale Fleming and Joe Riker.

The club was quite large last year, so if there are enough in the Altamont District a club will be started there.

A letter of courtesy from the Merrill Sheep Club was read in which they expressed their appreciation for the cooperation at the Fall Fair.

Some equipment for the club was then discussed. It was suggested that we have two equipment boxes. Bob Stevens, Joe Riker, Frank Miller and Robert Jacobson were to see if they could build them at school. Sheep blankets for the fair would cost about $1 apiece if we made them.

The officers for the coming year are to meet Dec. 9, to plan a Constitution for the coming year.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Riker.

The club started it's meeting by saluting the flag. The meeting was held at the leaders home. Roy Billings, our vice-president and Carolyn Sample, our song-leader demonstrated how to make soup at the meeting. Don Owens furnished cookies and punch for refreshments.

Mrs. Billings asked us and we decided to sing at the Fairhaven School Dec. 14. Our next meeting will be the 28th of December.

Richard Colson

BUSY BAKERS

Our fifth meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Haley.

After a brief business meeting we were given a cake decorating demonstration by Mrs. Haley. Each of us brought a different shaped cake and our own cake decorator. Mrs. Haley showed us how to use them. Each girl decorated her own cake. We were proud of our cakes. Esther Brown took a picture of them.

Later we had refreshments and played games. Six members were present: Nora Spillane, Ruth Flescher, Dorothy Kellison, Barbara Werner, Sherry Crawford and Margaret Colwell.

The next meeting will be held in the Home Ec. Room at Bonanza School.

Warm Winter Is Experts' Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christmas may be a little less white than usual this year over much of the country.

The U. S. Weather Bureau, issuing a mid-December to mid-January forecast yesterday, predicted above-normal temperatures for the western third of the nation, the Northeast and the lower Great Lakes states.

Colder-than-usual weather was foreseen for the South and the Midwest, and about normal readings in other areas.

The Horses Never Had It So Good In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Times may be tough for human actors in Hollywood, but the horses never had it so good.

Work for the equine talent is booming, thanks to TV, wide screens and the public's taste for action. When the studios switch to epics, the horses prosper.

I got some info on working conditions not from the horse's mouth but from Mel Ballard, a scholarly looking man who has acted as head wrangler on many a movie. Mel, who hails from farm country around Madison, Wis., and has worked with horses all his life, has been managing film nags off and on since 1932. He likes his work.

Mel was stage-directing 29 horses in a pageant scene for "Princess of the Nile." In between orders, he told me something about his charges.

"Most of these are saddle horses around 8 or 9 years old," he said. "That's about the right age for them. By that time, they've become set in their ways, just the way humans do when they've gotten along in life. They're calm and easy and don't get excited.

"The best horses for movie work come by thoroughbreds out of common mares. Pure thoroughbreds aren't suitable because they are too high strung. Movie horses have to remain placid no matter what amount of clatter is going on around them. They have to be easy to manage because usually the actors have too many other things to worry about."

It's interesting to note that the star system also exists in the horse world. The best horses draw $25 a day. They're the photogenic ones that the leading actors ride. As an example, Mel pointed out a beautiful white stallion Jeffrey Hunter was mounted on. Such prima donnas require the full time of one handler.

Next come the lead horses, that correspond to featured players in human casts. These are the smarter than average nags that can be counted on to lead the other horses through scenes. They draw up to $15 a day and two of them share a handler.

Further down the list are the extras, the plain plugs that help fill out the scenery. These also rans get a mere $7.50 daily, and one wrangler can manage six of them.

You Gotta Be Careful on Phone

DANVILLE, Va., (AP) — Folks in Ringgold section of Pittsylvania County are careful how they talk on the telephone these days.

John Kuykendall, a resident of the area, has been complaining for three months now that his clock radio picks up all the telephone conversations—from the opening ring to the final goodby.

Telephone company technicians so far have been unable to help much, but the company has assured Kuykendall that "higher level" technicians will be brought in to assist.

Thieves Get Away With Hot Hens

SASKATOON, Sask. (AP)—Geiger counters would be as useful as bloodhounds in tracking thieves who stole some chickens Sunday from the University of Saskatchewan.

The thieves got radioactive hens being used in an experiment in the university's poultry department. They had been given feed containing radioactive elements.

University officials said the hens were considered dangerous for human consumption.
