Hitchcock Off Again On Limited Space Thrill Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Pudgy Alfred Hitchcock, the sultan of cinema suspense, is a sucker for tough pictures. In his latest one, the hero spends the whole film in an apartment, encased up to the chest in a plaster cast.

"I don't like to get in a rut by directing normal pictures all the time," remarks Hitchcock. "One must have a challenge now and then, you know."

He's had 'em, For instance, "Lifeboat," which he said was his toughest assignment. Virtually all of the picture took place in one lifeboat at sea after a German torpedoing.

Then there was "Rope," a grim story of a thrill killing by two young men. Hitchcock aimed to tell the tale in continuous action, with no cuts except for the end of each reel.

Now he's doing "Rear Window," the story of a newspaperman, James Stewart, who breaks a leg and is confined to his Greenwich Village apartment. With nothing else to do, he starts studying the neighbors. Sort of a scientific peeping Tom, you might say.

During his peering, he notices that an invalid woman fails to appear in her apartment window. Two men come there and carry away a trunk. He thinks it's murder, and he tries to prove it by means of telescopic cameras. Eventually the murderer finds out what he's up to and pays him a visit.

"The whole action is seen from his apartment," explained Hitchcock. "The only persons who visit Stewart are his girl, Grace Kelly; the nurse, Thelma Ritter; a detective, Wendell Corey, and the murderer. All the rest of the cast are seen at a distance cross the court between the apartment houses."

The director showed me the movie set and it is one of the most impressive I have ever seen. No phony facad is this. An apartment house rises six stories. Paramount stage, and all apartments are occupied tors.

Crews dug 30 feet below stage floor to create garden, When the picture the soundman couldn't for a gurgling noise through the microphone out that the excavation water. Now pumps are between takes.

Army To Weed Out Men Who Are Listed As Incompetent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army will take advantage of current manpower reductions to weed out about 20,000 incompetent enlisted men.

Orders went to Army commanders last week telling them to arrange the discharge of men who have been "determined incapable of absorbing military training to the extent necessary to meet military requirements."

An Army spokesman said the great majority of the "professional privates" who will be affected have served more than one voluntary enlistment hitch, and will be clear of further service liability. Any who might bounce right back into uniform by way of the draft will be kept. All of the men will be given honorable discharges "for the convenience of the government" and will qualify for veterans benefits, the spokesman added.

The Army was authorized to take this step by a change of regulations affecting mental and other standards for re-enlistment published last July. But at that time no decision had been reached as to the future size of the Army, so that some of the men who will be discharged between Feb. 1 and May 1 next year were permitted to sign up for a new term of enlistment in recent months.

Army commanders have been given the responsibility of deciding which of their men will be released. Those who have been in the Army long enough to discharge their full liability for service under the Reserve Act will be given final discharges. Men with reserve obligations still outstanding will be relieved from active duty and transferred to the reserve.

Exceptions to the discharge rule will be men who have been decorated for valor in combat and those who were wounded in action. The decoration holders will be kept. The wounded will be retained until they have been judged completely recovered or a determination made regarding the extent of their physical disabilities.

Some of the men, who despite long training and education in the Army still remain in category 4, the lowest mental group accepted by the military services, will be retained if they have won promotion to corporal or have otherwise demonstrated practical leadership ability.

Mystery Voice Annoys Police

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dispatchers on the city police radio system were going about their work last night when an unfamiliar voice came out of a loudspeaker: "Altitude 3,000 feet. Ceiling zero. Visibility zero. Coming in for a landing. Roger. Three MIGs at 3 o'clock. Watch 'em, Skipper."

The voice stopped when a dispatcher asked for the squad number and location of the radio car. But it came back on the air intermittently with Air Force talk and inquiries as to lunchtime.

After checking unused radio cars in the police parking lot and city garage, the dispatchers sent out the message:

"All cars—watch for a drunk in an unlocked squad car."

Agent Fetes John Wayne

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie colony celebrated New Year's Eve a couple days ahead of schedule early Wednesday.

A gay nineties eos tume party was tossed Tuesday night by agent Ned Marin for his client, John Wayne. No one seemed to quite know the reason for the party, but it was one of the fanciest since the last time Marion Davies held open house.

Marin bought out Charlie Foy's nightclub in nearby Encino for the night and many of movieland's big names turned out to sup on top sirloin and guzzle champagne.

Wayne, asked the occasion for the party, said: "I'll be darned if I know. What difference does it make as long as everybody has a good time."

Marin, who picked up the $3,000 tab, said he decided to throw the party because "Duke (Wayne) is No. 1 any night of the year, New Year's, Christmas or Fourth of July."

It was the first time in Hollywood memory that an agent ever had feted a client.

Among the dancers were Fred MacMurray, June Haver, Groucho Marx, Bob Cummings, Jeanne Crain, Victor McLaglen, Jackie Gleason, Alice Faye, Claire Trevor, Vera-Ellen, Red Skelton, Jean Peters, and Johnny Weissmuller.

Experiments With Yeast Upset Heredity Thoughts

BOSTON (AP)—Some new experiments with brewer's yeast pose questions about the validity of certain present-day concepts of heredity and evolution, two Southern Illinois University scientists said today.

Researchers Carl C. Lindegren and David D. Pittman reported that tests on yeast cells have shown that a trait that is induced or "added" rather than inherent in a parent cell may be carried through successive generations.

This finding, they told the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, is contrary to the contentions of modern geneticists who hold that:

Characteristics acquired by living organisms—such as man, animals and plants—because of environmental conditions, are not passed on to their offspring, except for some degenerative traits like those induced by radiation damage or certain poisons.

They said they had been able to induce in certain yeast cells a previously unpossessed ability to feed upon a certain kind of sugar —and that the cells were then able to pass the acquired trait along to their offspring. The trait was induced through immersing the original cells in the sugar pollution for a long period of time—in other words—environmental exposure.

They said their results question two of the basic theories about heredity: (1) that evolution is the result of accidental change; and (2) that degenerative changes, like those resulting from radiation damage or poisons, are important to evolution.

Hillbilly Artist Jailed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Police said they arrested Webb Pierce, hillbilly recording artist and Grand Ole Opry singer, when he tried to force his way into a woman wrestler's dressing room here last night.

Patrolman Ramon Marler said Pierce, 28, was told he could not enter the dressing room of red-haired Cora Combs but "he tried to fight his way in and we had to restrain him." Pierce was charged with drunkenness and resisting arrest.

Miss Combs went by the jail and asked that he be released. "It is all my fault," she explained. "I feel responsible." Police said Pierce was paroled early today and he and Miss Combs left the jail arm in arm. He was ordered to appear in City Court today.

Canada Bans Luther Film

MONTREAL (AP) — The Quebec film censorship board has banned the showing in this largely Catholic Canadian province of the U.S.-made movie Martin Luther.

Announcing its action last night, the board gave no reason for the ban. The Catholic National Legion of Decency in the United States has declared the movie contains "theological and historical references and interpretations which are unacceptable to Catholics."

The film, made in West Germany by an American group and starring British actor Niall MacGinnis, depicts the clash between the 16th century Protestant reformer and the Roman Catholic Church.
