ORIONS XMAS PARTY

Orions met at the home of Mrs. Chester Newton for their December meeting. It was a Christmas party, with a gift exchange. A novel idea was used to distribute the gifts. When the music stopped each player tried to sit on a bell. The gifts and bells had corresponding numbers on them. The player received the gift with the number matching the number on the bell, upon which they sat. The game was played until all players received a gift. Loretta Newton gave a reading, "At the Turn of the Road," authored by Susan Keating Glasel. A musical program followed and Christmas Carols were sung.
