LITTLE BROWN JUG with a new twist is this Polio Tree, made by placing a candle in an empty jug and covering the sides with coins. Bob and Tom Perkins, co-chairmen of the special events division of the March of Dimes drive, are shown demonstrating how to make a tree. Candles are placed on each side of the jug, which are lighted from the main candle when a contribution is to be made. Wax dripped on the side of the jug holds the coin contributions in place. Five locations now have Polio Trees — the Pelican Cafe, Willard Hotel, Winema Hotel, Wong's Cafe and the Chuck Wagon. Any establishments which have not been contacted and desire a Polio Tree are urged to contact Bob or Tom Perkins, phone 7222.

Lady Luck Gets Credit For Oregon's Improved Traffic Safety Record

SALEM (AP) — Oregon's traffic safety authorities can't figure out why Oregon is among the top ranking states in reducing its traffic death toll in 1953.

They give the credit to Lady Luck, and keep their fingers crossed in hopes that the good record might continue.

They say there might be some other factors, but they can't prove it.

Oregon's 22.9 per cent reduction in traffic deaths in 1953 is either the best or second best record in the country.

While the number of deaths declined sharply, the number of accidents dropped off only slightly and the number of injured persons increased. This makes traffic safety men feel that the hand of fate helped hold down the death rate.

There were 480 traffic deaths in 1952, and 370 in 1953. But Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry's traffic safety division isn't crowing about it. The division would just like to know how it was done.

The lowest post-war total was 356 in 1949, and the safety men felt good about it, but in 1950, it soared to 427.

The traffic safety men say 1954 could be a very bad year, and that's why they aren't bragging about 1953.

In 1953, the traffic death rate was running about normal until June 1. Then it took a nosedive for the rest of the year. In the last seven months, the death toll was down from 315 to 219, compared with the same seven months of 1952.

Jim Banks, assistant traffic safety director, says there wasn't any increased enforcement or education that could have caused the drop.

Could weather have been a cause? Possibly. The fall of 1952 was warm and dry, and the fall of 1952 was wet. Maybe people drive more carefully in wet weather.

Could there have been better enforcement? Maybe. The state police added 60 more traffic officers, making a total of 291. However, these officers weren't in the field until last Oct. 1.

Was there better traffic safety education? Probably. Banks and his staff did about the same amount of work as they did in 1952. But Banks says that the 1953 safety drives sponsored by civic organizations, radio stations and newspapers could be a contributing factor.

Is it a national trend? No. The national traffic death totals are up about one per cent.

So Banks and State Police Supt. H. G. Maison credit the reduction to plain luck.

The total number of accidents in the first 10 months of the year was 54,128, a decrease of about 2,500. And the number of persons injured in that period was 12,216, an increase of about 200 over the same period of 1952.

So those figures can't explain the reduced death toll, either.

Oregon officials have kept their eyes on Washington State during November and December, when that state had a traffic enforcement drive.

Washington had a 42.7 per cent reduction in its death rate in those two months, compared with the same period in 1952.

But Oregon, without any special enforcement drive, had an even larger reduction—43.7 per cent.

Before the drive started, Gov. L. Patterson said Oregon would not increase its enforcement, so Oregon figures could be used to help determine if Washington's drive was successful.

Just what the comparisons will prove will be determined when officials of the two states study the statistics.

Maison said his Oregon State police never have had a special enforcement drive.

"We do concentrate our efforts on the highways during critical periods, such as on holidays. That is the principle of selective enforcement," Maison said.

Speed generally is considered to be a big factor in fatal accidents. The faster a car goes, the less chance a passenger has of surviving an accident.

In Oregon, however, of the 27 persons killed during November, speed was considered a factor in only two of the deaths.

In those two accidents, one driver was going so fast he couldn't make a curve. In the other, the fast driver was on the wrong side of the road.

So police say there are many angles besides speed. But just what the answer is, the traffic safety men would like to know.

French Expert Gives Out With Fewer Clothes Idea

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Here's some happy new year's news for American husbands: a French style expert thinks the women here could get by with fewer clothes.

My source is Jeanette Spanier, directress of the exclusive Pierre Balmains salon in Paris. A handsome English woman, she married a French doctor and became the head of business matters for Balmains.

This is her first trip to America and she is full of enthusiasm for such things as escalators, Santa Anita race track, the courtesy of sales people and bourbon old fashioneds.

"I am impressed by the way American women dress," she commented, speaking with a Gallic flourish of the hands. "Americans far exceed the French in casual clothes; you wear stunning things here. You are also superb in dinner dresses. But for ball gowns — ah, that is where the French are superb.

"Another thing the French do best—the simple black dress. A French woman can wear it to lunch with only simple gold jewelry. In the afternoon, she can wear it with more ornate jewelry. Then she could wear it to dinner at the most exclusive restaurants by adding a few accessories.

"I do not see that in America. The women seem to worry that they will be seen in the same dress twice. French women do not feel that way. They might wear the same dress three nights in a row and not be concerned."

This may seem like heresy in her business, but Mme. Spanier added that French women don't vacillate with the style.

"All this talk about hems going up and down!" she exclaimed. "It's just for publicity—to give the fashion reporters something to write about. French women never change the length of their hems."

Mme. Spanier recently helped supervise the outfits for Lana Turner in "Betrayed," which was filmed in Europe. She said that Balmains had designed some rather subdued dresses for Lana, since she plays a schoolteacher in the film. I asked what she thought of Hollywood designs.

"My, they do have a lot of sequins, don't they?" she replied pointedly. But she added that many of the stars' costumes are well done, even if they have to be overdressed for dramatic purposes.

What about the best dressers among the stars

"Lana wears clothes very well," she commented. "I don't want to make it sound like loyalty to my hostess, but Claudette is one of the smartest women I have ever seen. I felt that way even before I met her.

"Betty Bacall Bogart wears clothes beautifully, and so does Mary Livingstone, Mrs. William Goetz is perhaps the best dresser in Hollywood; everything she wears is perfectly chosen. Offstage, Marlene Dietrich is very chic. Of course, she has to wear more theatrical clothes on stage. I'm anxious to see that gown she is wearing in Las Vegas.

"Oh, yes, I can't forget Katharine Hepburn. We dressed her for 'The Millionairess' in London. She wore a ball gown that was simply gorgeous on her. Unfortunately, she always wears slacks offstage."

Pair Nailed In Alaska Vice Probe

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP) — A former Ketchikan police chief and a suspended police captain were under indictment Wednesday as an aftermath of a federal grand jury's investigation of vice conditions here.

Del Freimuth, who resigned as police chief shortly before the jury opened its probe Nov. 25, was arrested Tuesday on charges of operating a bawdy house and three other misdemeanors. He posted $5,000 bail for his release.

W. Erland McKinley, suspended police captain, was charged with non-feasance (failure of an official to do his duty) and intimidating grand jury witnesses. He is at liberty on $10,000 bond.

Freimuth also was charged with aiding a bawdy house, aiding a bootlegging house and nonfeasance.

The indictments against Freimuth and McKinley were the main ones returned by the jury at the end of its 40-day study of vice conditions in this Alaska fishing town.

The jury also cited three women who were taken into custody Tuesday on charges of selling liquor without a territorial license.

Other indictments were reported to involve charges of bootlegging or operation of a bawdy house.

The jury report criticized the City Council, City Manager Victor H. Guns and accused Dist. Atty. P. J. Gilmore Jr. of dereliction of duty in the investigation.

The jury charged the council and other city officials tolerated vice, gambling, bootlegging and narcotics. The report said Guns showed a lack of interest in the proceedings.

Fort Rock

By HELEN PARKS

A "booster" committee composed of Phil Pitman, Al Baert, R. A. Long, and Merritt (Bud) Parks, local representative on the board of directors of Midstate Electric, Lapine, met Saturday, Jan. 2, to compile information and formulate plans to present to Fred Hart, field representative for the REA, when he comes this month to determine the feasibility of the Fort Rock-Silver Lake extension. This group was elected Wednesday night, Dec. 30 at a meeting of over 50 Silver towns people.

The meeting was arranged for and conducted by Phil Pitman of Christmas Lake Valley. Pitman read recent correspondence from Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay and REA Administrator Ancher Nelsen, stating that Hart would examine facts and make a recommendation to the Washington office in early January.

Pitman recommended the selection of a committee to work with Parks and George Larimer, manager of Midstate. The committee would urge action on the pending application for a $572,954 loan to Midstate Electric for transmission distribution lines to serve the members in this area.

Parks spoke of the excellent work of the REA in furnishing power at cost to sparsely settled areas. He reminded the group that the extension must be able to pay its way.

Larimer spoke in behalf of Midstate and outlined the general method used in obtaining a figure for the minimum annual revenue needed to offset the initial construction cost.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Miles entertained a large group of neighbors and friends New Years night with a party at their home. Cards, puzzles, games and movies shown by Sam Morehouse provided the evening's activities. The hostess served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Miles were dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stitz, Horse Ranch, New Years Day.

John and Paul Layer of Bend returned to their home Sunday after visiting for several days with their grandmother, Mrs. Joe Stitz.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ogle and daughters have moved from Fort Rock to the Bob Neal place.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown and Linda now live at Wahee Cottages, Bend. They moved recently from the Cabin Lake Ranger Station where they had been stationed since the spring of 1953. Also moving from Cabin Lake to Bend were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Beougher.

Members of Fort Rock Grange are reminded that grange meets Saturday, Jan. 9, with the new officers taking over their duties. The afternoon meeting will be preceded by a potluck dinner at noon.

Workers on the south telephone line have cut about 400 jack pine poles. Some have been installed and the remainder will be kept as a stock pile.)

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wahl of Sutherlin and Gay Mattis visited several days in the home of Gay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Mattis. Gay lives with the Wahls while she attends high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Wilson, Dell Renee and Beverley returned home Saturday, Jan. 2, after visiting relatives and friends in Sandy, Gresham, Newberg and Maupin over the holidays.

The Maurice Wards and Charley Stingley were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Frazee.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Schnick and Jean Caudell, Bend, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Branch. They were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Ward Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Branch and Adrian Branch of Lakeview were New Year's Eve guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown. Adrian Branch is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Branch. The men are brothers.

Government Beef Buying Program Is Discontinued

The sudden shift early in 1953 to unusually heavy beef cattle marketing created a serious price problem for most U. S. cattlemen last year. The USDA helped relieve the situation by heavy purchase of surplus low grade beef from normal trade.

The government also made additional purchases for export under the foreign operations administration program; intensified merchandising efforts to move more beef through regular commercial channels; gave feed assistance in drought areas; established credit help for hard-pressed cattlemen; and arranged for reduced rail rate reductions for both feed moving into drought areas and cattle moving out to grazing areas.

An intensive merchandising program stimulated beef consumption throughout the U. S. Radio, TV, newspapers, magazines, private agencies backed up the intensive campaign which has been largely responsible for the large surplus of meat being consumed rather than going into storage.

The public has pruchased beef at a rate never before equaled in the history of this country as consumption rose nearly 30 per cent. And experts estimate this year will be the highest on record — 75 pounds of beef per capita.

Government contracts for buying beef since last spring amounted to about 250 million pounds. This has diverted about 850,000 head of low grade cattle from normal trade channels.

Due to the strengthened market, the purchase program is being discontinued with the exception of requirements necessary to fill foreign obligations by the FOA. Processors have been advised to discontinue submitting bids until further notice.

DEMAND

SEOUL (AP) — The prosecution Wednesday demanded that two South Koreans charged with leading Maj. Gen. William F. Dean into Communist captivity be given prison terms of five years each. The Koreans are accused of turning Dean over to the North Korean Reds in 1950 for $5 rewards.

20-30 To Aid Playground

Young children will soon have playground equipment suitable for their age at Conger Field. The 20-30 Club has begun a three to five year project to develop a portion of Conger for a children's playground.

Proceeds from the August Square Dance Jamboree netted the club about $300, which will be used to purchase a $299 swing, slide and teeter-totter which will be placed in the northeast corner of the field, at the junction of Siskiyou and Trinity.

The club plans to make the Square Dance Jamboree an annual event, with proceeds to go to the Conger Field playground development project.

Ed Maurmann, 20-30 president, made the offer of playground equipment to the park board at their Tuesday meeting, and it was accepted with gratitude.

The club has also planned to set aside one day in the spring when all 20-30 families will gather at Conger to terrace and landscape their corner. Shrubs and trees will be donated by the families.
