Todays Women

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The new look in spring fashions is slim, silken and feminine.

This was evident today as New York designers opened a crowded week of spring fashion showings for some 150 visiting fashion editors, revealing what U.S. women will wear in the Easter parade.

Year-round, weather-wise fashions are the big news of the new collections, designed for wear in almost any season. The new lightweight silk suits and coats will do duty all through the summer, some going on into winter beneath fur coats.

Having discovered in past seasons that the weather is likely to jump straight from winter into summer, designers are showing coats and dresses of featherweight fabrics. The dress-and-jacket ensemble in fur-trimmed silk print is one of the important styles of the season, as is the silk tweed suit and the dark silk fitted coat.

The narrow silhouette is almost universal in daytime clothes, shown in empire sheaths and high-waisted suits. The line through the midriff is skin-tight and will permit no concealing drapery to hide excess poundage. So we may expect a new wave of dieting just before Easter.

Designers achieve the high waisted-look in many ways. Some suits have skirts which reach to just below the bust, to meet a fitted jacket which ends at this point. Some coats are belted just below the bust, or have half-belts just below the shoulder-blades in back. There are dresses which are seamed or tucked from bust to natural waistline to achieve the moulded midriff look, and suits which employ a wide crushed cummerbund for the same effect.

Smooth, ladylike styles are the order of the season, in luxurious fabrics and sophisticated cut.

New suits do tricks, displaying such innovations as peekaboo jewels half hidden by a slot or pocket flap, handkerchief pockets in the elbow, button-in vests or collars of linen or pique, stick-pin flowers stuck in a pocket.

Instead of summer furs, one designer shows filmy crisp organza stoles for wear with suits, coats and dresses. Sheer lace-trimmed linen collars and handkerchiefs with tweed suits are another whimsy of the same house.

There's a softly feminine touch even to the most tailored costumes, which have smoothly rounded lines above the belt, petal lapels, open necklines, dressmaker detail in rounded pockets, jewel trimmings and accessories.

Expert workmanship reaches a new high in this season's ready-made fashions, which have the feminine shape built-in, through carefully moulded inner construction. This year a dress retains its shape even when hanging in the closet.

Skirts are on the average one inch shorter than those of last season, though the difference is imperceptible in many collections. The short-lived threat of knee-length skirts is past, and the usual length is mid-calf, the most becoming line for most women.

Fabrics make headlines in the new fashions, with silks that look like wool, wools that look like silk and cottons that look like both. Satiny smooth, chiffon weight suitings of silk and wool or mohair blends are tops in spring importance.

Colors are subtly grayed in silvery tones of navy, gray, beige and charcoal for many suits and coats, and go into pale pastels in the popular jewel-trimmed fleece coats.

The black or navy fitted silk coat is a top favorite of the season, as is the silk suit, either in dark solid colors or in subtle prints.

Hats are small, flat and worn forward, shoes are fragile and air-conditioned, jewelry is splashy and gloves are important with short-sleeved fashions.

CALLING ALL SQUARE DANCERS to the March of Dimes benefit dance is Tom Orr (center), president of the Klamath Basin Callers Council. It must be an easterly wind, or else Mary Antle, instructor in the Do-Si-Do Club, has already heard that the dance is this Saturday, Jan. 16, from 8 to 12 at the Armory. Evidently Ray White, president of the Do-Si-Do-ers, didn't quite catch the admission price — it's one dollar per dancer, 75 cents per spectator. Children under 16 years of age may contribute a dime at the door. Advance ticket distribution will be made through the various dance groups meeting this week, and tickets will be on sale at the door. Printed programs will be given out with tickets listing the various dance groups participating, the square and round dances included on the evening dance agenda with the names of the callers for each.

Fort Rock

Fred Hart, REA representative from the Washington, D. C. office, met Thursday, Jan. 7, with a local committee to study factors involved in establishing feasibility of a $599,000 loan to Midstate Electric, Lapine, for building transmission distribution lines to this area.

Phil Pitman, R. A. Long, and Al Baert were selected at a Dec. 31 meeting at Silver Lake to represent the people of Christmas Lake, Fort Rock and Silver Lake in the meeting with Hart and to serve as a booster group to work with Merritt (Bud) Parks, local director of Midstate.

Present from Lapine were Roy Larson, president of the board of directors, and George Larimer, manager of Midstate.

Initial plans were made for further study by the local committee, with their findings to be reported at the Jan. 18 meeting of Midstate's board of directors.

Supervisers of Fort Rock-Silver Lake Soil Conservation district met Tuesday, Jan. 5, at the home of Eston Porter, Silver Lake. Also participating were Dale Emery and Bob Rosebrook, Silver Lake, and Joe Rogers, are conservationist of Bend.

Plans were made for the district's first annual meeting on Feb. 18 at the Fort Rock Grange hall.

"Democracy at Work in My Soil Conservation District" is the subject for a Klamath and Lake County Soil Conservation speaking contest. A local contest will be sponsored by this district with upper grade pupils of Silver Lake and Fort Rock schools participating. Preparation will be supervised by their teachers, Mrs. Esther Burris, Silver Lake, and Mrs. Anne Sloan, Fort Rock.

It is hoped that first and second place winners will present their speeches at the annual meeting at which time prizes will be awarded. First prize is a three ring leather binder; second prize, an Esterbrookpen and pencil set. Prizes are gifts of Eriksen's Stationery of Bend, and the winners may have their names engraved in gold.

The next regular meeting of the district is set for Tuesday, Feb. 2 at the R. A. Long ranch. The supervisers point out that these are open meetings and they urge that as many attend as possible. Meetings are held the first Tuesday of each month at 2 p.m.

Robert Morehouse was elected director of the Fort Rock school board, Wednesday, Jan. 6. He is to complete the three year term of D. A. Rutherford who moved from the community to Bend in December.

Mrs. Leon Gilder, 4-H leader, reports that Roger Miles is a new member of the Fort Rock club. The nine members have the following projects for the year: beef, rabbits, poultry, camp cookery, cooking I, II and III, sewing I and II and homemaking.

Marian Miles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Miles, returned Jan. 6 from Klamath Falls. She has been visiting there with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Buick, since Thanksgiving.

Demos Seek GOP Aid In Rewriting Ike's Farm Plan

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Balky congressional Democrats threatened today—ith some Republican help—to rewrite President Eisenhower's program of flexible farm price supports.

The program, which went to Congress yesterday with 14 proposed Taft-Hartley labor relations act amendments, was backed staunchly by Republican leaders. There was some GOP opposition, however, and some suggestions for changes.

If Democrats could muster most of their members, as seemed likely, they would need only a few GOP votes in the closely divided Congress to retain the rigid, high-level price props Eisenhower proposed to abandon in favor of a flexible scale of supports.

The forthcoming farm battle apparently will revolve largely around this point, since Eisenhower's other principal recommendation—the "insultation" of existing crop surpluses from the regular markets — gained rather widespread backing.

Mindful of November's elections to determine control of Congress, some Democrats made it clear they believe they have an issue on which they can blast the Republicans in the nation's farm areas.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) who is up for re-election, said in a statement Eisenhower had "broken faith" with the farmers by a program likely to prove little more than "an expensive dud."

"It is now apparent that Congress will have to take into its own hands the formulation of an improved farm program," Humphrey declared. "All the President is now proposing is the same old disastrous sliding-scale idea of 1948-49 which farmers have overwhelmingly disavowed."

That was a reference to the fact that Congress once put a flexible support system on the books, but has delayed permitting it to go into effect. Instead, it has maineained the war-born program of rigid price supports for basic crops.

Among the Republicans, Sen. Mundt of South Dakota, a Senate Agriculture Committee member, said he was dissatisfied with the flexible price support provisions urged by the President. He said:

"I do not believe the flexible price support provisions suggested in the President's message are a workable device for maintaining the present price levels of ... cent for basic products."

Rep. Rayburn (D - Tex.), House minority leader, said ... ly, "I do not think Congress will give up the 90 per cent of ... for basic farm products."

Parity is a calculated price ... by law to be fair to farmers ... relation to prices they pay ... needed items.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) ... this way: "I don't believe Congress will approve any legislation ... would produce a greater economic shock to the farmers, and ... edly that is what this proposal would do."

Eisenhower evidently ... some Democratic opposition ... recommending that the present high-level supports on tobacco be left intact, a proposal likely to be popular in Kentucky, where one of the major battles for a Senate seat is shaping up.

There were indications that growers in such states as Wyoming, Montana, Idaho and Colorado—where there are Senate races this year—would be pleased to see the President's proposal to ... them an average return of ... cent of parity.

Secretary of Agriculture ... said there are a dozen reasons why the existing farm price support system should be changed in a broadcast speech. Benson said consumers are denied benefits of abundant production, yet farmers are denied a stable income.

As for the new program, Benson said, it promises consumers ... abundance of food and fiber at reasonable prices and at less cost to taxpayers."

The theory advanced in support of flexible price props is that ... will help to maintain normal supplies by keeping supports at ... levels in time of scarcity and lowering them, thus discouraging overproduction, when surpluses pile up.

Critics counter that it often produces financial help to farmers ... the time they need it most—when prices are low.

Under Eisenhower's program price supports for major crops ... other than tobacco would vary between 75 and 90 per cent of parity. The secretary of agriculture would keep them up to 90 if he found national welfare required such action.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the Democratic leader, said he fears the President's flexible scale proposals "provide the farmer less protection and less money."

Sen. Knowland of California, Republican leader, said the program holds promise it would eventually improve the economic position of the farmer in the years."

Knowland's attitude, reflected also in statements from other GOP leaders, was that the President had faced the facts "that we must not continue pricing farm products out of domestic and foreign markets while building enormous surpluses of those same products without a day of reckoning."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), one of the authors of the mandatory 90 per cent parity law which the President said ought to be allowed to expire, stuck to his support of the measure.

Sen. Young (R-ND), Senate author with Russell of the 90 per cent parity law, said it might be possible to compromise. He suggested the possibility of a one year extension of rigid supports coupled with marketing quotas or acreage allotments.

Chairman Aiken (R-VT) of the Senate Agriculture Committee, which will begin hearings on the program with testimony from Secretary Benson next Monday, declined to foreclose the possibility of such compromises.

He said the President's proposals would "form an excellent basis to work out a sound farm program."

Chairman Hope (R-Kan), another past a backer of 90 per cent price supports, said the House Agriculture Committee would hold "extensive hearings" on the proposals.

Smugglers Held By Cops

MONTREAL (AP)—The Canadian Mounties said early today they are holding a European and a New York resident in connection with a suspected attempt to smuggle nearly $200,000 worth of uncut diamonds into the United States.

Neither man was identified but they were expected to be arraigned here later today.

Inspector Rene Belec, head of the Mounted Police's investigation branch here, said the European, a 25-year-old native of Poland, arrived from Europe at Dorval Airport Friday. Police visited him at a midtown hotel several hours later and found a parcel containing "thousands" of the uncut diamonds.

The New Yorker was picked up at a Montreal home Sunday. Belec said it was believed his job was to carry the diamonds into the United States.

Truman Laying Off Ike Criticism

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry S. Truman, who knows about the U. S. presidency first hand, says no one will ever "bear me attack the man who holds that office."

"He has troubles enough without a former president criticizing him," Truman says. "It's a man-killing job."

He made his comment in a speech yesterday at a meeting of the Radio and Television Executives Society.
