can be put. One could mail them in a package to an orphanage where little hands can work them over into scrap books; or if you are so inclined, work them up yourselves into jigsaw puzzles by pasting them to a thin cardboard, cutting it into odd little shapes. Put the piece of each card into separate envelopes and write a name for each one according to the scene on card. Mail to some children's institution.

The Hells Canyon Issue In Simple Terms

The controversy surrounding the proposed development of the Hells Canyon stretch of the Snake River can be reduced to three simple propositions:

"Which plan of development is most beneficial to the people of the area and of the nation?"

All other considerations are subsidiary. The final determination will be made on this basis.

In fact, the Congress has given to the Federal Power Commission the specific responsibility of determining which resource development plan is best in the public interest not only in this case, but for all other hydroelectric projects in the United States for which licenses are granted.

It is easy to define the issue, but difficult to determine what is truly best in the public interest when emotional appeals are made which conflict with facts of engineering and economics. Extensive hearings of technical testimony must be conducted, witnesses must qualify as to competence, testimony must be given under oath, and cross-examination permitted. Ultimately the truth will be established.

This process is now taking place in the formal hearings before the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D. C. Public confusion has been created by the widely-disseminated claims and opinions of public power supporters who oppose development by private enterprise. Their claims as well as those of Idaho Power Company are being tested in this hearing by the agency authorized by Congress to decide which of conflicting programs best meets the test of comprehensive development.

A summary of the program which Idaho Power Company has presented to the Federal Power Commission and supported by sworn testimony appears below. We think the public is entitled to know the Company's position, and the findings of its engineers.

We sincerely believe the Company's proposed program meets the test of being "most beneficial to the people of the area and of the nation."

Idaho Power's Program in Summary

The Company's program will—

- 1 Fully develop the Hells Canyon stretch of the Snake River at a far lower construction cost—and at a far lower cost of producing power than any other plan.
2 Produce approximately the same amount of power "at site" and downstream as the proposed single federal dam. Any small difference in output which might for a relatively short period and under certain temporary conditions favor the single dam would be prohibitively expensive.
3 Make possible the production of over 40 billion kilowatt hours—the output of Bonneville Dam for approximately 10 years—prior to the time a single high dam could be completed.
4 Provide 1,000,000 acre feet of storage—the maximum dependable amount afforded at the site after taking into account the future upstream irrigation development and resulting depletion of water available for power storage purposes.

- 5 Fully provide the release of water required by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers for navigation purposes.
6 Adequately meet the test of flood control needs.
7 Create a superior recreational area.
8 Fully protect irrigation water rights of present and future agricultural development upstream. (There is no irrigation to be served from a reservoir at this site under any plan.)
9 Provide large blocks of low-cost power rapidly, to serve the needs of Snake River Valley and of the Pacific Northwest through inter-connection with the Northwest Power Pool.
10 Be productive of $10,000,000 annually in tax revenues for federal, state and local taxing units in addition to the tax revenues created by users of the power—all without cost to taxpayers.
