

Is Brennan Appointment Sign of Irish Slowdown?

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—There was a rumbling emanating from a spot one mile outside of South Bend, Ind., and the football selenographers around the nation were quick to pick it up.

There were vague indications that Frank Leahy might not be back at Notre Dame next fall.

When the story came through that 25-year-old Terence Patrick Brennan had flatly refused even to talk to Marquette about the top coaching job there, the pattern was there for all to see.

Leahy is not well. There is no doubt about that, but there were things which had been troubling the Master for some time.

"We're not getting the hungry boy any more," he moaned last spring. "Only 73 candidates out for football. We lose freshmen through scholastic difficulties by the dozen. We have more golfers than football players."

To a considerable degree, Coach Leahy was right. And there will be no Johnny Lattner with the Irish next autumn. This extraordinary back easily could have been the difference between an outstanding season and a 500 year.

The number of football scholarships was drastically cut. Ralph Guglielmi and Joe Heas were suspended for breaking curfew. Perhaps the front-office interference bothered Leahy.

Notre Dame's athletic council wouldn't permit Leahy to deliver a key address on the fake injury criticism to the coaches' convention in Cincinnati, called off a prepared address at the last moment. The Master might have felt this keenly.

Asked if Terry Brennan, the kick-off returning halfback of 1944-45, wasn't pretty young to be taking over after no more than four years of high school coaching and another with the Notre Dame freshmen, Athletic Director Ed Krause replied: "The younger generation is taking over. Young men are running Notre Dame. Rev. Fr. Theodor Hesburgh, president, is only 36."

Does this younger generation mean a new look? Could it add up to the fact that Notre Dame served under Leahy since he became a head coach at Boston College in 1939. The Master drilled McArdle and Druze as Fordham's line coach. But last season it appeared to a lot of close observers that Johnny Lujack was being groomed for the top spot.

A further indication that the change had been coming for some time was Moose Krause, at the Pennsylvania game last Nov. 7, speaking of Notre Dame's "tremendous" assistant coaches. The Irish director subtly attempted to start a buzz for Druze as a replacement for Penn's outgoing George Munger.

The younger generation was moving in.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—It was the deep south against the British Empire, with a threat from Oklahoma, as play swung into the third round of the $10,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

Leading the way were Peter Thomson of Australia, Stan Leonard of Canada and Cary Middlecott from Memphis, Tenn., tied at 183 for the 36 holes.

Just one stroke back was an exuberant young man from Tulsa, Bob Inman, who broke in as a caddy on this same tournament site, the Phoenix Country Club, in 1942, when he was in the Navy stationed in Phoenix.

Thomson, 24-year-old 1952 Australian Open Champion and regarded as one of the finest young prospects in the world, followed his first round 64 with a respectable 69. Middlecott's 65 ushered him immediately to the front rank.

But it was the competitive course trying 63 fired by 33-year-old Leonard and the spectacular putting luck of 26-year-old Inman which drew the gallery applause and earned the 138-pound lightweight a 65.

Two strokes off the pace starting out Saturday were Jack Harden of El Paso, Tex., the co-leader with Thomson in the first round, and Johnny Weitzel of Hershey, Pa., a frequent but non-winning pro on the winter tournament circuit. Harden had a 71 and Weitzel a 69 for 135.

Ready to strike if the leaders falter were Freddie Haas Jr., of New Orleans, with two 68's, and Jim Ferrier, another native Australian who lives in San Francisco. Ferrier's 65 was virtually overlooked in the light of the leaders' exploits.

Alone at 137 was Bob Toski of Livingston, N.J., with a 69, and a 54 John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., with a 68, was next at 138.

Beavers Drub Cougars

OSC Could Tie Ducks Tonight With Repeat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pacific Coast Conference Northern Division basketball race, topsy-turvy since its start, was still in a spin Saturday.

Oregon, idle this weekend, lost ground in its fight to retain leadership when Oregon State's Beavers rapped out a 65-41 decision over Washington State at Corvallis Friday night.

The OSC victory gave the Beavers a 6-3 conference record and put them within easy striking distance of Oregon's 7-3 mark. The Beavers could go into a tie for the Cougars Saturday night.

JOLT
The dopsters got another jolt in a season of conference upsets Friday night when the University of Washington Huskies reached top from the cellar to swat down third-place Idaho, 65-59.

The loss left the Idahoans with a 4-3 season mark. Washington State still holds down fourth at 3-4 and the Huskies bring up the rear with a 2-5 record.

Oregon State's Wade (Swede) Halbrook poured 31 points through the net in the Beavers' rout of Washington State. The Beavers grabbed a 20-6 lead at the end of the first period and left the floor at the intermission with a 30-17 bulge.

HIGH
Ron Bennink led scoring for Washington State with 18 points, nine in each half.

"The Huskies started fast in their win over Idaho, hitting on 516 per cent of their tries from the field to take a 43-30 lead at the half. The Vandals started connecting in the third period and had narrowed the gap to 57-47 at the start of the fourth.

But in the last stanza the Huskies stalled the ball almost the entire time. The strategy paid off as the Huskies got eight points while holding the Vandals to 12.

Dean Patrons was the big gun for Washington with 20 points, 14 in the first half. Karl Voegelin connected for 18 Washington points and Idaho's Bob Garrison topped the Vandals with 13.

EUGENE, Ore. — Leo Harris, director of athletics at the University of Oregon, Friday announced that the Ducks' football date with Southern California Oct. 15 has been switched from an afternoon to a night affair.

The switch was made to avoid conflict with televised East and Midwest games, he said. The Ducks are scheduled to play their opener with Stanford at Portland Sept. 25. It, too, is a night game.

Hot Stove Orioles Bank On Diering

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Outfielder Chuck Diering, who couldn't make the grade with the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants of the National League, today loomed as a key figure in the plans of the Baltimore Orioles for the upcoming season.

Diering, who was listed as Johnny Groth's No. 1 replacement in the Orioles' centerfield spot, now is expected to get first crack at the job.

Groth and infielder Johnny Lipon were traded to the Chicago White Sox yesterday for outfielder Sam Mele and infielder Neil Berry. No cash was involved.

The 31-year-old Diering, a light hitter during his National League tenure, reportedly picked up some batting points at Minneapolis last season.

Defensively, Chuck always has been considered one of the best in Mele, the American League's newest entry came up with another power hitter to go along with outfielder Vic Wertz, first baseman Dick Kyjowski and third sacker Junior Stephens.

Groth, who came to the American League from Buffalo with quite a reputation of a few seasons back, slumped to a .253 batting average and that according to Baltimore General Manager Art Ehlers was the reason he was considered expendable.

Both Berry and Lipon are rated as weak batters, although Berry is considered the better fielder.

Elsewhere on the baseball front, the Philadelphia Phillies, who've had their troubles signing several "name" players came to terms with outfielder Del Ennis for an estimated $20,000. Ennis batted .253 in 1953. Pitchers Robin Roberts and Jim Konstanty, among others, still aren't in the fold.

The Milwaukee Braves came up with two satisfied players yesterday—outfielders Andy Pafko and pitcher Jim Wilson. Others to sign were southpaw pitcher Morris March of the Philadelphia Athletics; pitcher Max Surkont, catcher Pete Naton and first sacker Dale Coogan of Pittsburgh and rookie pitcher Vachej Perkins of Baltimore.

Grant, Adams Could Win Hauger Cup

By JACK HAN

NEW YORK (AP)—From now on, call me Jolting Joey."

Joe Giardello, a technical knock-out winner over Walter Cartier in 2-48 of the first round, was talking about himself last night in his dressing room.

"I like the feel of those knock-downs," he said. "I've been letting those guys get off the hook too long. From now on, I'm out to stop 'em all."

It was the second straight fight in which Joe's opponent had failed to last the limit. He stopped Garth Panter, the rugged Salt Lake City mauler, in his last previous start, Jan. 8. That was the first time Panter hadn't gone the route.

THREE TIMES
Giardello dropped Cartier three times, automatically stopping the fight under rules of the New York State Athletic Commission. Referee Harry Kessler ended matters as soon as the 29-year-old New York veteran went down for the third time, all from right hands.

"I was going to tell the referee about the rule if he hadn't stopped it. I know all about the New York rules, I oughta."

Giardello, of course, is the boxer who holds a Supreme Court decision over Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Commission.

After the bout, Christenberry said he would favor a change in the rules to take into consideration a third knockdown with only a few seconds to go.

STRONG
Cartier, 161, to Giardello's 157½, said he was strong enough to continue if the bout hadn't been stopped. He was up at five after the first knockdown, scored by a stunning right that was Giardello's best punch of the night. He was up at two the second time and popped up at two the last time. Of course, he had to take the automatic eight on the first two knock-downs.

"Like all good little middleweights, Giardello started yelling for charity Bob Olson after his victory. Olson would be available until after he defends his title against Kid Gavilan at Chicago, April 2. Joe is the No. 2 challenger in the latest ring ratings.

A crowd of 4,851 paid $13,378 to see the nationally televised fight.

The Pelicans won 19 of 12 matches yesterday to drub the Medford wrestling team for the second straight time this season.

The score was 36-8 and ran the Pelis' win skien this season to nine straight.

Only Larry Dearing and Elvis Mitchell lost. Bob Reeves outpointed Dearing in the 135-pound division; Paul Eckel won by a fall over Mitchell at 177 pounds.

LEAD
The Pelicans jumped into a 16-0 lead right at the start with two falls after three decisions before Reeves' win over Dearing.

In the 97 and 105 pound bouts, Kent Flug and Darrold Wise pinned Ken Dunliva and George Flanagan.

Dick Berg decisioned Jay Sessler in the 125-pound melec; Ronnie Conner outscored Loyd Bendickson at 129 pounds and George Olson whipped Fred Baker in the 122-pound match.

DECISIONS
After Dearing's loss, Dave Lee-ling at 140 pounds, Jay Dearing at 147 and Don Eichen at 156 won decisions. Leeling whipped Sanford Buffington, Dearing's round ed Charles Brooks and Bush defeated Les Welch.

Julio Gonzalez pinned Maury Butts in the 167-pound bout before Mitchell's loss to Eckel.

Jack Hinselwright made a convincing win over Bill Dyer in the heavyweight clash.

Milwaukie Upset By Gresham, 45 to 43

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Several upsets were scattered through Oregon prep basketball play Friday night, with Milwaukie's loss to Gresham perhaps the most startling. Three other teams in the top ten also suffered defeats.

Gresham handed Milwaukie a 45-43 defeat, its first of the season, to halt Milwaukie's 16-game winning streak. Milwaukie has been ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press high school poll from the start.

Gresham's Dave Gardner made himself the hero by putting up a perfect layin with only seconds remaining, after his team had fought back from a 31-28 halftime deficit. Milwaukie scored only one point in the third period while Gresham tallied 13.

LOSERS
Others in the top ten who lost were third-ranked Marshfield, Grants Pass, No. 6 in the latest poll, and Albany, No. 9.

Marshfield, defending state champion, was toppled by unranked Medford, 68-52. Salem, No. 10 in the poll, defeated Grants Pass, 68-44, and Albany lost to the Oregon State Rooks, 57-39.

Other teams in the first ten racked up victories. Corvallis, No. 2, continued to show power by whipping Lebanon, 68-40, for its 15th victory against only two setbacks. Eugene, fifth in the poll, ran wild against Oakridge for a 90-50 win.

BAKER WINS
Baker, No. 7, defeated Pendleton, 49-44, and eighth-ranked Redmond dumped Madras 57-47.

The Portland league wound up first-half play Friday night with Roosevelt still leading the way. Roosevelt, No. 4 in the state, beat Grant 54-51 to remain undefeated in league competition. Lincoln beat Benson 53-44, lowly Washington surprised Jefferson 64-51, and Cleveland shaded Franklin, 53-49.

Roundup Cards On Spending Spree

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you know that:

The new owners of the St. Louis Cardinals have up to now invested a whopping $6,500,000 in the club, including close to $1,500,000 in improvements on Sportsman's Park alone?

And that, at the rate they are expanding their scouting staff and building up their farm system and laying top money on the line for promising talent the Red Birds threaten to be extremely hard to beat within another season or two?

Had it occurred to you that the recent decision of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. to permit its young stars to work for sporting goods was the same as they do in Australia was a meaningless gesture?

Our manufacturers served notice beforehand that they had no intention of burdening their payrolls with such talent, partly because they know that no red-blooded American net prodigy would think of signing up for less than three or four times the $40 a week the Aussie youngsters draw.

Would it not be the Yankees' luck to have Ewell (The Whip) Blackwell make a big comeback and turn in 15 or 20 victories just when it looks as though Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Eddie Lopat are starting to go over the hill? Blackwell still is only 31, and he says his right arm feels great again after its complete rest since last July. Back in 1947 Blackwell noisied 22 victories for Cincinnati, including a string of 19 in succession.

Is it not worth noting that Fred Haney, who had Danny O'Connell at Pittsburgh last season, said without equivocation that Milwaukee's acquisition of the brilliant young infielder made the Braves a "definite pennant threat"?

Especially since he made the statement before the Braves landed Bobby Thomson, a 100-rib man, and Sam Calderone, a competent catcher who can take some of the hot weather pressure off Del Crandell. It has been disclosed, by the way, that Cincinnati offered the Pirates $150,000 and six players for O'Connell, so it is worth wondering what Branch Rickey really did bank in that deal.

And isn't it about time every lax and accepted Bevo Francis for what he is—one of the truly great net shot artists basketball has seen?

Smith Spikes Idaho Rumors

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—Lyle Smith, head football coach at Boise Junior College, Friday said he is not a candidate for the similar spot left vacant at the University of Idaho by the resignation of Babe Curfman.

Smith said he is happy where he is and declined to meet with an Idaho faculty screening committee. The faculty committee has talked with three candidates, Jerry Williams, Eddie Cole and George Allen, and is expected to name a new coach next week.

Seattle Gal Ski Winner

BAD GASTEIN, Austria (AP)—Jeanette Burr of Seattle outraced Austria's top skiers in the women's slalom event of the Austrian championships Saturday but the title went to Thea Hochleitner of Austria.

Miss Burr had a combined time of 2:00.5 for two heats but she wasn't eligible for the championship since, along with other foreign skiers, she was competing as a guest. Fraulein Hochleitner's winning time was 2:01.5.

Wallace Werner, 17-year-old Steamboat Springs, Colo., skier finished sixth in the men's down hill event won by Christian Prayda in 2:53.1.

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Arnold Riegger of Seattle, and Rudy Etchen, Sun Valley, Idaho, set the pace Friday at the halfway mark in the Western Mid-Winter Open Trapshoot.

Riegger won the Class AA singles wild bird x 100 from a maximum distance of 25 yards.

Singles winners included Howard Weaver, Portland, Class C, 99 x 100, after defeating Jim Heas, Chico, Calif., in shootoff.

The $5,000 added event continues through Sunday, with a field of 200 shooters.

ASHLAND (AP)—Bill Abbey, now on leave for Army service, may return to his former position as head football coach at Southern Oregon College of Education.

Elmo Stevenson, SOCE president, said Abbey told him recently he was interested in the job. Abbey served as backfield coach of the Fort Ord Warriors, champions of the national service football league.

Plans call for the present SOCE football coach, Alex Peterson, to take over basketball and baseball. That would free baseball coach Ted Schopf for a leave of absence next year to do graduate work.
