U. N. Charges Ignored

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The neutral Armistice Supervisory Commission Thursday declined to investigate U. N. charges that the Communists are smuggling warplanes into North Korea in violation of truce terms.

An Allied spokesman said the UNC received oral notification that the commission "could not agree to dispatch three mobile teams" to check the Allied charges. He said the commission gave no reason. It meets Friday.

Swedish members of the four nation commission said they had agreed not to discuss the matter with newsmen. Other members are Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Maj. Gen. Julius K. Lacey, chief Allied member of the Joint Military Armistice Commission, charged Tuesday that the Reds have smuggled warplanes from China to nine North Korean fields and brought in other war material along routes which bypass the five Red ports of entry authorized by the armistice agreement.

Lacey's protest did not specify the types or number of planes. Nor did it disclose the source of Allied information.
