Today's Women

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
America's 30 million clubwomen are feeling their oats.
Long accustomed to cartoon lampoons and husbandly barbs, the girls now are reaping some long-overdue rewards.
It's beginning to dawn on the general public, it seems, that if a town needs a new school, a community center or somebody to tame its teen-agers, the local women's clubs usually can get the job done.

Recently I was asked to sit in on a panel of judges to choose the Clubwoman of the Year for a Woman's Home Companion award. The stacks of nominations were so imposing, and the accomplishments so impressive, that not only were the judges almost flooded but the magazine staff decided to run an honor roll of 250 clubs throughout the country which have accomplished community miracles in the last year.

There were innumerable instances where women's clubs had succeeded in accomplishing some long-needed project after communities had failed in the job. One managed to get a bond issue voted for a new school to replace a century-old firetrap. Another got a community center built and in operation within a year. Another developed a recreation center for a city's old folks.
What surprised me was that so many of the clubs were made up of young members—not the dowager types that cartoonists love to depict.

Thousands of young mothers seem to be finding time to get out and do their community duty, without neglecting either home or children. There's no doubt that the girls are getting things done, and that membership in women's clubs all over the country is growing every day.

Just to give you an idea—there are more than 1,000 women's clubs in Detroit, 650 in St. Paul and 92 in Ogden, Utah.

The figure of 30 million members of U.S. women's clubs represents the combined membership of 18 national organizations, including the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which alone has an estimated membership of 34 million women in this country and 11 million over the world.

Young Soldiers Broken In Rank

TOKYO (AP)—Playing "army," Tommy Agee, 4, decked his playmates on Okinawa with enough indignity to commission a battery of legal eagles in the adjutant general corps.

His father, Col. Forrest J. Agee, broke the lots in rank and restored the eagles and shields to a locked drawer.

Historic Home Moved To New Site

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A home which the late Jack London built for his mother in 1901 was sold at auction by the city yesterday for $75.

Built for Mrs. Flora London, the eight-room, two-story structure stood on ground needed by the city for a boulevard-widening project. Leo W. Cumberlich, Oakland druggist whose bid was accepted, said he would move the historic home to a new location.

Women Over 40, Chosen For Charms

Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower heads the list of America's eight most beautiful women past the age of forty, according to John Robert Powers, the man whose business it is to choose beauties.

"Beauty has no age," says Powers. "It is not a matter of face and form. It is the expression of spirit."
Basing his selections on women who have made the most and best of themselves in various fields, Powers tells why he chose each one.
Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, the wife "whose piquant beauty, un-falling grace, good humor and genuine friendliness bring credit to her husband."
Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother, "her nine children, one now U. S. Senator, were brought up simply and unspoiled, despite the family's wealth and power."
Mrs. Paul V. McNutt, civic leader, "charming, gracious and sincere, whose co-workers find her competent, understanding and sympathetic."
Mrs. Lytle Hull, socialite, "dignified and of rare, aristocratic beauty, who devotes herself unsparingly to fostering good through many charities."

Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, executive, "An experienced and dynamic administrator of proven energy and resourcefulness."
Rosalind Russell, actress, "her talent and beauty are obvious; her courage undeniable."
Cornelia Otis Skinner, writer and actress, "she has made a unique place for herself by versatility, work, precision and inclusive humor."
Lilly Dache, designer, "an exotic, chic beauty, restless, daring and inquisitive, who combines high creative skill with business talent."

If your Venetian blinds are very soiled, you may want to wash them in the bathtub. To do so, fill the tub about two-thirds full of warm soapy water, and lift the blinds in and out of the suds until they're clean. Use a sponge on stubborn spots. Rinse the blinds in clear water, hang full length to drain, then wipe dry. Weight the bottom to keep the tapes from shrinking.

THERE'S A BOOK IN THE MAKING down Malin way that some day, will bring the deep, deep thoughts of many a day out in the open. Edith Bellamy Browning, resident of the southern part of Klamath County for just eight years is compiling a small volume of poems in between the numerous chores that occupy a farmer's wife and while she leaves her mark as a public spirited citizen on the community.

Mrs. Browning, learned to read and write and later teach in her native state, Missouri, studying drama and chorus at the state Normal School in Kirksville. The West called and with her family, her husband "J. Walter", and sons George and Don, she came to Riverside, California where the adults were identified with the Sherman Institute Indian School for several years. It was there she gave unstintingly of time in plays, as a reader, in book reviews, a contribution to her community which she still gives at Malin . . . she is interested in what makes a newspaper tick . . . is a "writer at heart," she says, and wouldn't climb a mountain if she could see China . . . she'd rather ride horseback to the remote Supai Indian tribe in the Grand Canyon, which is just what she and her husband did, one sunny day . . . vacation time usually finds the Brownings, back in the land of America's Indians, last summer they visited the Navahoes.

She is a member of the PEO . . . PTA . . . a church, numerous clubs, has two sons, George, at Malin, and Don, technical chief in the navy, stationed at Newport, Rhode Island, a granddaughter, Carolyn, 4 years old.
Mrs. Browning, who has a green thumb, knows blossoms by their first names, will speak Monday, March 1 at a meeting of the Evergreen Garden Club, Klamath Falls.

Shake the can and prove it!
M-J-B's full flavor roast means more measures to the pound—more flavor in every measure
You can't make a bad cup of M-J-B

See for yourself
Shake several cans of coffee before you buy. Most brands rattle—but not M-J-B! It's packed solid. Proof of more measures—and extra flavor, because . . .
Fully-developed roast expands each coffee bean in M-J-B's rich blend. This brings out more flavor, and increases volume, too . . . gives you 2 to 8 measures more per pound than other brands.
Full-flavor grind makes each particle of M-J-B exactly the right size for your coffee maker to release all the goodness . . . no large lumps to imprison flavor, no powder or chaff to dilute the goodness.
