

Future World Speech Topic

Despite anything pessimists and "crepe hangers" have to say, the world's future looks bright.

In fact, in year 8113 citizens of this old planet will be able to sip dry martinis and play poker.

That's what Albert Stuart Otto, world traveler and authority on things to come, told members of the Klamath Falls Knife and Fork Club at their final 1953-54 dinner meeting Monday night in the Willard Hotel.

Otto, who is now writing a book dealing with two great American projects designed for generations many centuries ahead, devoted his time to describing what the world will know about the United States in 8113.

The projects discussed by the speaker are Westinghouse Time Capsule buried at the site of the 1940 New York World's Fair and the Crypt of Civilization at Oglethorpe University near Atlanta, Georgia.

Among the items sealed in the Westinghouse Time Capsule are a ready-mixed dry martini and a deck of cards and a set of poker chips.

"The purpose of these two projects for the future," Otto explained, "is to give the people who inhabit the earth 60 centuries from now a comprehensive view of life in the Twentieth Century."

He added that this is the first time in known history that any civilization intentionally provided a legacy for future generations.

"The people in 8113 will be able to hear the voices of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and many other great men and women of this era," he continued. "They will be able to view sound movies depicting life in the Twentieth Century."

According to Otto, the Westinghouse Time Capsule and the crypt in Georgia are so constructed that only a direct hit by an atomic bomb could damage them.

"Archaeologists 60 centuries from now won't have the trouble studying this era that the scientists of this century are having reconstructing past civilizations," he explained. "Descriptions of the location of the Westinghouse Time Capsule and the Crypt of Civilization have been placed in the archives of many nations and in other places of security."

Otto was presented to the Knife and Forkers by Ernest L. Taylor of the Board of Education, Greer Drew, president of the Knife and Fork Club, presided. The program was arranged by Fred Southwell, secretary of the club.

SPESQSA Plans Annual Show

The 40-voice chorus of the Klamath Falls SPESQSA Chapter, will perform Saturday night, March 27, in the high school auditorium at Alturas. This will be a practice session in preparation for the seventh annual barbershop quartet show, to be held in the Pelican Theater here April 10.

A full program will be presented at Alturas, including numbers by three quartets, the House Brothers, What Four and the Tulealres. Billed for the local show are quartets from Sacramento, Portland, Yakima, Eugene, Lakeview, Bly and other west coast towns.

This year's performance includes a pretentious Minstrel-Ad, to be presented by the entire chorus, with assistance of local solo artists.

Tickets for the show will be on sale at 1 p.m. Saturday, March 27 at Derby's Music Store. As in previous years, a line-up of purchasers is anticipated. One year ago, the bulk of the tickets were sold within a few hours.

MAYOR AL LOUCKS of Salem, president of the League of Oregon Cities, will report on current municipal developments and League activities at a dinner Thursday evening at the Willard Hotel, jointly sponsored by the city of Klamath Falls and the League of Oregon Cities. Mayor Paul O. Landry is in charge of arrangements.

Church Circle Plans Meeting

The meeting of Miriam Circle of the First Presbyterian Church, Thursday, March 25 at the home of Mrs. Robert Wattenburg, 219 Pine, which is the site of the first small, white steepled church in this part of Southern Oregon. It was built in 1885.

Later Mr. Wattenburg was the contractor for the present brick building occupied by the First Presbyterian Church. The structure was put up in 1920.

Time of the meeting will be 2 p.m.

Co-hostess will be Mrs. R. D. McGhee.

Members will continue study of the Book of Acts and Mrs. Ada Sparreton will conduct the study period.

All women who attended Sunday School or church services in the first church are invited to attend the meeting.

United Fund Meet Planned

The first regular meeting of the 1954 United Fund Board of Directors will be held Thursday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the Kent Room of the YMCA.

On the agenda will be discussion of the response so far to pledges made in the joint United Fund-Red Cross drive last October; introduction of new board members; appointment of an executive committee and discussion on the possibility of monthly payments to the 22 agencies served by United Fund. As it is, payments are made only three or four times a year.

The board will also decide whether or not to accept an invitation to send a speaker to the Western Conference of Community Chests and Councils which will meet April 4 to 8 in Fresno.

Jim Jones, president of the United Crusade at Stockton and chairman of a group meeting on the subject, "How to organize United Fund in a Small City," recently wrote the Klamath County United Fund office asking for a speaker from here on that subject.

Klamath County just last year switched from Community Chest to the broader United Fund and conducted the first successful drive since 1947.

If a local United Fund-er accepts the invitation to Fresno, he will speak with representatives of similar fund drives in Richmond, Riverside, San Jose and Tacoma.

The 1954 United Fund president is Elton W. Smith; first vice-president, Roy W. Murphy; second vice-president, Robert Smith; secretary, Mrs. Earl Sheridan; treasurer, Harold Ashley. There are 55 on the Board of Directors.

USAF Reserve To Hold Meeting

Flight "B" of the 9417 Volunteer Air Reserve Squadron will meet Wednesday, March 24 at the exhibit building of the Klamath County Fairgrounds at 8 p.m.

Capt. Hemingway, the regular Air Force instructor from Medford will be on hand to answer any questions from persons interested in joining or re-joining the U.S. Air Reserve. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Promotion Program Told

Southern Oregon Hospitality Unlimited is the name chosen by Southern Oregon county chambers of commerce for a promotion program to be directed to the Bay area and Southern California to bring more tourist travel to this part of the state.

Cooperation in the promotion advertising are the Klamath, Jackson and Josephine county chambers with Don McNeil, manager of the Jackson County chamber and vice president of the Oregon Chamber Executives Association as chairman of the group. Participating also will be the Cave Junction Chamber of Commerce and the Illinois Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Plans are being laid to tie in with the newspaper and Sunday supplement advertising schedule by the Oregon State Highway's department of public information in Los Angeles, San Francisco and other California newspapers.

New letterheads are being prepared with a line map of the area in color at the bottom of the page and a greeting cartoon at the top. This stationery will be used to answer inquiries regarding the area.

Included in the budget will be some TV spots in Portland and over KPBS-TV, some of which will be individually underwritten, to acquaint the people of the state with the proposed program to interest out-of-state visitors.

Joint Rites For Charles Deaths

LAKEVIEW—Joint funeral services will be held for Mrs. Glen Charles and daughter Glenda at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, March 25, from the First Presbyterian Church, directed by Ousley Osterman Mortuary. The Rev. C. Wayne Jullier will officiate. Interment will be in Sunset Park.

Mrs. Charles and her 13-year-old daughter, Glenda, were killed Sunday in a car crash three miles north of Bend. A third woman, Mrs. Linda Long, Redmond, was also fatally injured in the accident.

Mrs. Charles' husband is publisher of the Lakeview Examiner. His wife and two children, Glenda and Bruce, 11, who was injured in the smashup, were returning home from Portland, with Mrs. Joan Crampton, when the accident occurred.

Life Saving Tryouts Held

Thirty-five persons signed up for junior and senior life saving and water safety instructor's courses during tryouts Monday night, according to Mrs. George Myers, water safety chairman. Applicants will be tested again tonight at the Klamath Union High School swimming pool, at 7:30 p.m., and after tonight, applicants for the courses will not be accepted.

Working in the testing are Ella Redkey, recently appointed manager of the new Municipal Swimming Pool when it opens; Charles Santo and Mrs. Myers.

Junior and senior life saving courses will begin Wednesday, March 24.

Fees for both the life saving and the water safety instructor's course are $2.50 for 13 nights of instruction, beginning at 7:30 p.m. each night. There is no fee for the tryouts.

Grain Handling To Be Improved

TULELAKE—A $25,000 expansion program for the Tulelake branch of the Pacific Supply Cooperative, was announced today by Ed Strack, Klamath Falls, manager of the organization.

The changes are designed for speeding up delivery of bulk grain from farm trucks to railroad cars, and for future dumping of bulk clover seed for cleaning. The two steel tanks, to be installed in the rear of the present cooperative warehouse on the SP right of way will have a capacity of 10 cars. They will be 21 feet in circumference and 32 feet high.

Grain will be dumped and elevated mechanically into cars. Piling for foundations is down and the steel work will be completed by the Heaton Steel and Supply Company, Klamath Falls.

Nature's Reservoir of Refreshment

Up where snowflakes dance unobserved and evergreens touch the sky, a miracle of Nature occurs. For here is born the crystal-pure water used in brewing famous Olympia Beer. From this frosty reservoir the water filters down the mountain, underground, through miles of washed gravel, sand and glacial rock... until it surges up from the depths of Olympia's artesian wells. Water could be no fresher. It could be no more naturally perfect for brewing. This captured mountain zest comes alive in Olympia—giving you pure refreshment with every sip.
