Good Advice To Burglar Works

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—The young man had been in the telephone office several times before to inquire about a money order. But this time he wore a white mask over his face, related Mrs. Eva Brooks, 36, and said: "Open the safe."
 "It is open," Mrs. Brooks replied. "But what do you want to do this thing for? You'll regret it all your life."
 The man fled. Police picked him up minutes later and held him for attempted robbery.

Oldster Denies Story of Death

ENID, Okla. (AP)—A report of the death of Loby Porras, who claims to be 100, turned out to be greatly exaggerated.
 "I'm not dead," he told officers who came to his home yesterday. They found him sitting in bed.
 "He said he intended to live at least until Dec. 17—his 110th birthday. He guessed neighbors reported him dead when they saw him collapse carrying a load of wood."

EXCESS
 MILAN, Italy (AP)—Trade-minded Russia shipped 50 railway cars of exhibits here for the opening of the big Milan industrial fair but much of the stuff won't be displayed.
 "If we showed all this," fair officials said in desperation, "there would be no room for the other 30 countries."

PVT. DOORS BRYAN COLES, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton B. Coles, Dorris, California. Pvt. Coles completed basic training at Fort Ord, California and Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, and is now attached to the 82 Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, North Car.

Here's How They Voted

WASHINGTON (AP)—How Oregon members of Congress were recorded as voting on recent rollcalls:

House
 On motion to send housing bill back to committee for rewriting to provide for a program of 35,000 low-rent public housing units each year for four years, defeated 211-176 (thus rejecting President Eisenhower's program). For the motion—Angell (R); Against—Coon, Ellsworth, Norblad (all R).
 On passage, 379-10, of bill to permit wire-tapping for evidence against alleged spies, traitors and seditionists: For—Angell, Coon, Ellsworth, Norblad.
 Senate
 No major rollcalls.

Scare Tale Of Walker Probed: Mystery Flees

MERIDEN, Conn. (AP)—Patrolman Leo M. Caponigro was walking his beat last night when an excited motorist came to him.
 "Officer, I just saw a car going down the street with two hands sticking out of its trunk," he said. "Just hands, officer, no body, no feet."
 The motorist gave the policeman the registration number of the car and an hour later Patrolman Amos B. Guest located the car and its teen-age driver, who explained he had taken his friends out for a ride.
 There were so many friends, he said, he had to put one in the trunk and instructed him to hold it open so he could get air.

TRANSPORT

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Navy ships today replaced huge Air Force C124 Globemasters in the morale job of transporting American troops to Japan for rest leave.
 The Globemasters were diverted last week to the emergency Indochina airlift. The ships will handle only a trickle of troops in comparison with the big planes, which transported as many as 1,000 men daily.

William Holden To Take Time Off From Acting

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Today William Holden and his wife depart on a vacation he richly deserves. Oscar in hand, he stands at the top of his career.
 Bill and the missus (Brenda Marshall) are leaving for Bimini Island, off the coast of Florida. There he will fish and study at the Lerner Marine Institute. Then they will head to New York to see the shows and have a ball.
 "I'm not coming back until I get the cobwebs out of my mind," says Bill. "I've been working on sheer nerve, going from one picture to another without a day between. When I get home, I'm completely exhausted."
 "Luckily, Ardis (his wife's real name) knows what I have been going through. It's not fair to her, and I'm going to make it up to her."
 Bill is taking a breather after one of the most impressive strings of starring vehicles within memory. So many top films have been offered him that he has worked almost constantly for 18 months. His string includes: "The Moon Is Blue," "Forever Female," "Stalag 17," "Escape From Fort Bravo," "Executive Suite," "Sabrina Fair" (with Oscar winners Audrey Hepburn and Humphrey Bogart), "The Bridges at Toko-Ri" and the film he finished last week, "Country Girl."
 He has expressed disfavor with only one of those. That is "Forever Female," which he said he did because it was the last of his 14-year contract with Paramount. He now has a 15-year deal that calls for a reported $250,000 for three months' work each year.
 How does he get such good pictures?
 For one thing, he is one of the screen's best, most versatile actors. Unlike a good many of the other top male stars, he is still young enough (39) to play a variety of heroes. He is also a smart cookie.
 "The studio wanted to put me in a couple of pictures I didn't like," he says. "So I told the bosses to loan me out to other studios. I told them they could keep whatever profit was made on my services."
 This maneuver made him available for a wider variety of roles than he would have had if he had stayed at one studio. He has played everything from high comedy to heavy drama.

Race Group Man Named

SALEM (AP)—Wilbur Stadelman, The Dalles, fruit packing company executive, was appointed by Gov. Patterson Monday to the State Racing Commission.
 He replaces C. C. Curl, Pendleton, who resigned a week ago.
 Curl, who is managing Secretary of State Earl T. Newby's campaign for governor, quit during the controversy brought on by several Oregon horse breeders.
 These breeders threatened to strike unless Cecil Edwards, racing commission steward, was forced to resign.
 The commission upheld Edwards, and the Oregon breeders failed to appear at last Monday's hearing which the commission called to hear their charges.
