

HOMEMADE BREAD IN THE MAKING! And what could be more tempting than fragrant, fresh loaves of crusty white bread or nutty whole wheat bread cooling on the kitchen table, butter and jam handy. Here, Joyce Farmer, 4-H Club member from Keno, is adding flour to the milk mixture, using the recipe in her 4-H cookery project bulletin, and thinking about her exhibit of a loaf of her own bread at the Spring Fair now in progress at the Fairgrounds—public welcome. The Fair ends Saturday night with the Style Show, but at present, exhibits in the fields of cookery, clothing, forestry, home-making, woodworking, arts and crafts, electricity and health are on display in the exhibit building at the Fairgrounds.

Dead Man's Last Wishes Observed

DETROIT (AP)—Forty-five convivial folk wined and dined last night as guests of a dead man who wanted them to "have the last word on me."

The will of Carl Clarke, a wealthy bachelor who died last Nov. 17 at the age of 79, called for a party to be thrown to divide up 261 personal "trinkets" left over from his half-million-dollar estate. The rest of his fortune, made as president of the Monroe (Mich.)

Steel Castings Co., went to nine charities.

The objects, like the party, were bizarre. They ranged from a tattered pair of snowshoes and an old-fashioned vacuum cleaner to original oil paintings and an etching of Abraham Lincoln.

Among the guests was Gordon MacEdward, a 66-year-old printer who had known Clarke for 33 years. "He was not an eccentric man," said MacEdward. "He was a quiet man who shunned publicity. He would will the grass over his grave if he knew that the press was here eating the same filet mignon his friends are having."

"Carl was a man who appreciated things in life that we guests can't comprehend. He never looked at women. He fought all his life for the rights of the American Indian and Negroes."

"Most of the people at this party are members of the 'Wednesday Nighters Club' which Carl started back in 1914."

Clarke's club consisted of a stag group which gathered monthly, mostly at his apartment, to hear lectures on the fine arts by authorities.

Friends of Clarke and their wives ate $50-a-plate dinners while a string ensemble played from a stage and movie cameras ground away.

Guests filed by one by one to draw a number from a silk top hat. The person holding No. 1 got first choice of Clarke's personal effects, and so on until the 45 had picked. Then the numbers were reversed until the articles were gone.

What prompted this odd way of dividing the pieces? "Carl didn't know what we treasured," said MacEdward. "So he picked this way to let us have what we wanted."
