Violin Concert Big Success

The brilliant interpretation of difficult numbers by the talented young Klamath Falls violinist, Wayne Angel, in concert here last night, delighted an appreciative audience at Mills School auditorium.

Wayne was superbly supported by his accompanist Mrs. Aurora Underwood, pianist, of the University of Portland.

His performance showed remarkable improvement over his concert work here last year and local music critics were enthusiastic over his growing maturity and his unusually fine understanding of his scores.

His repertoire included the "Tschaikowsky concerto for violin Op. 35," "Two Preludes," by Chopin, the "Fantaisie Impromptu, in C Minor," Chopin; "Mandolinate, Saint-Saens"; "Cortege," by Boulanger and the airy "Round of the Goblins," Bazzini.

He responded generously to several encores.

Mrs. Underwood appeared as soloist and with the Underwood trio including her son Rex John, senior medical student at the University of Oregon and his attractive wife, Julianne Stone Underwood. Mrs. Underwood is rated as one of the most outstanding pianists on the West Coast.

Rex Underwood, Wayne's instructor, ill in a Portland Hospital, was unable to be present.

This is the second concert in Klamath Falls for the 17-year-old Wayne, who is credited by his teachers as being one of the most promising students to appear in concert in several years.

His concert was sponsored by the Klamath Musical Arts Council, a group interested in the development of local talent among young people.

Mayor Paul Landry, presented a check for approximately $500 to Andrew Loney Jr., raised by the sale of tickets and individual contributions for continuing Wayne's musical education.

Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Angel.

Ft. K. Plans Dedication

FORT KLAMATH — On Sunday, April 25, at the regular worship time of 9:30 a.m., special services will be conducted by the Rev. Edmund Stanton for the dedication of new pews and tile linoleum at the Fort Klamath Community Church. The recently completed church furniture and floor covering was used for the first time at services on Sunday, April 11.

Following the morning worship, the Chiloquin and Fort Klamath churches, both of which have the Rev. Stanton as their minister, will hold their fourth quarterly conference in the local church at 1 p.m. The district superintendent, the Rev. Meredith Groves, Eugene, will be present for reports of last year's accomplishments in both churches, which will be summarized by the various committee chairmen. Plans for the ensuing year will also be discussed.

The special dedicatory services and conference meeting are open to anyone interested, and members of the quarterly conference group are especially urged to attend.

Insect Control Warning Told

TULELAKE—In spite of some impressive results that have been obtained in controlling flies and other insects by injecting insecticides into cattle, the practice cannot be recommended at this time.

Ken Baghott, Tulelake farm adviser, has warned that there are many "unknowns" yet to be solved. Some injected animals have suffered injury, weight loss, and in some cases death, as a result of such injections.

"We do not advise any experimentation along these lines by farmers," said Baghott. "The method of injection, the purity of the chemical and the amount of the material to use are very critical.

"Many insecticides have been tried. Some of the most promising are Lindane, Aldrin and Dieldrin. Protection against several pests was obtained when these materials were injected. Deer flies, horn flies, mosquitos, cattle grubs, screw-worms and some other pests were killed as long as four weeks after injection."

At present the amount of the insecticide required for insect control is near the limit the animal can stand without becoming seriously injured, Baghott added. U.S. Department of Agriculture research workers are trying to find new and safer materials. It will take several more years to determine if this method is practical and safe.
