

"Top of the Hill" Family

ALTHOUGH PRIMARILY IDENTIFIED with Oregon Technic-l Institute, where Robert L. Smith is dean of students, he and his accomplished wife, Saverina, occupy an important place in Klamath Falls' civic and social life.

They have been on the Orestech campus for seven years (ever since the school opened); they live on Klamath Circle in a home bright with color and reflecting Mrs. Smith's artistic ability. She is a graduate of the University of Oregon where she majored in art.

Mother holds Wanda, a gorgeous red-haired doll, who is about to receive first aid for a slight injury. Dad and the two young daughters are an interested audience. At the left, Mary Catherine (Cathy), five, February 9; and at the right, Donna Marie, three, January 27. Both were born in Klamath Falls.

Mrs. Smith was Ruth King's Herald and News "Woman of the Week" a few Fridays ago, and the imposing list of her various achievements was included in that story. Her husband is also a graduate of U of O; with a B.S. degree. He is now doing graduate work in education at Oregon State College (counseling and guidance). His full program includes hours spent in off-campus community work. He is vice president of the United Fund; a director in Klamath Falls Kiwanis Club; member of American Legion Post No. 8; BPOE No. 1247; a member of the Klamath County Polio Committee; past president of Klamath County Junior Chamber of Commerce; and after he had been here about four years he was recognized as the Outstanding Junior Citizen in Klamath County in 1951.

Now at Home in Orinda

A LONG RESIDENCY IN KLAMATH FALLS . . . was terminated recently, when the Fred Burgoyne sold their home at 421 Jefferson and moved to Orinda. They were "part-time" Dunsmuir dwellers when Fred was interested in a lumber company there—but maintained the spacious home in Klamath Falls. Now Fred is comptroller of the Pacific Turf Club Incorporated, in Albany, near their new Orinda address, 21 Francisco Way.

The dogs are members of the household and "went with" to the Bay Region. Donna Lee, oldest daughter, 14, was an honor student at Fremont Junior High School. She is holding "Missie," beautifully feathered blonde cocker spaniel; and Nicola Jean (Nicky) holds Bosco, (with the currently popular eye patch). Nicky, 9, was in the third grade at Fremont. Both girls observed March birthdays; and both seemed intrigued with the move to new surroundings.

Before the "Barbershop Show"

HELPING HAND . . . George Clark came through the door just as the picture was taken at the informal buffet dinner at the Lee Stoner residence, 400 Conger; and he still holds the pitcher of cream he was taking to the kitchen during the "table clearing" project. Others are (from the left), Nora Sullivan, Rose Poole and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Tisdale. Mrs. Poole, now living on the coast at Harbor, came over with next-door neighbor, Ruth Bathiany, also former Klamath resident; and the Tisdales, friends from Brookings. Tisdale is a member of the Brookings Chorus—and an ardent SPESQSA fan; although not participating this year—was one of 12 Brookings singers ever here for the show, April 10. Mrs. Tisdale (Zeda) is weather observer at Brookings, a fascinating occupation for a woman; and her husband was with the state park system near Brookings until he recently filed as candidate for county judge in Curry County.
